Hassles To Tassels

Congratulations, graduates! You have moved from "Hassles to Tassels." And what a movement.

The hassles of late-night study; term papers overdue; unexpected too-low grades squeezing tears from disappointed eyes; and the hundred-and-one other hassles that have caused stomachs to churn and sleep not come have now turned to tassels, those little stringy wads that hang from mortar board hats (and no one ever remembers which side they go on).

Today, there may be tears—mixed tears: tears of joy and sadness. Old gangs breaking up. Friendships are writing their last lines on chalkboards as Time takes eraser and reduces to white dust chapters that took years to write.

And those bulky academic gowns! So big, so unfamiliar, belonging to another era of human history. Why so big?

Here is one theory.

Your graduate's gown is oversized because many, many people belong in that robe with you. Your parents, family, scores of teachers who have nourished and nurtured you into and through life belong in there with you. You would not be who you are and what you are had they not loved, taught, and sacrificed for you.

Congratulations to you (and everyone inside your robe). (Footnote: Keep the "hassle" going when you lay aside the tassel. That is, "Study to show yourself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not be ashamed." II Timothy 2:15)

HI MOM!
WE LOVE YOU!

We couldn't let Mothers Day go by without adding our salute to Mothers. We see mothers everyday in our pharmacy. We see them when they are worried and bringing in prescriptions for a sick child. We see them hiding their worries and trying to comfort and reassure their little ones. We see new Mothers shopping for needed items for that tiny baby they so proudly carry. And we see thoughtful Mothers deciding on many important drug items.

Because we are so closely involved with serving these Mothers we can appreciate the many roles they must play. At this time we would like to say a special thank you to the Mothers who have chosen us to help them.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

FOR THE PERSON WHO HAS EVERYTHING

May 18, 1986

Background Scripture: I Corinthians 12 through 13
Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 2:6-16

It is strange what people do with the gifts God gives them. No sooner does he give them something special than they find some way of perverting the gift. Instead of the blessing it was intended to be, the gift becomes a bone of contention between God's children. Instead of gratitude, the gifts often inspire pride. Intended to enrich the human community, the gifts often become the source of division in that community.

Consider the gifts of the Spirit. In the early church God blessed the followers of Jesus with wonderful spiritual gifts: the utterance of knowledge, wisdom, faith, healing, miracles, prophecy, tongues, and interpretation. Given for the enrichment of the early Christians, the gifts soon became a cause for dissention and bitterness in the church. Instead of uniting congregations, the gifts seemed to divide them. Instead of making people more thankful to God, they seemed to become more prideful. Instead of inspiring love, the gifts engendered hostility.

ONE IN MANY

The list of God's gifts may not be quite the same today, but the situation is—people still pervert his gifts and thwart his will. Therefore, Paul's powerful message to the Church at Corinth is still very timely for us and our situation. In 1 Corinthians 12, Paul recognized the great diversity of gifts, varieties of service, and ways of working, but emphasized again and again that there was but one Spirit, one Lord, one God as source of that diversity. Instead of being separated by our variety of gifts, we are united by our common source.

Paul also emphasized that all the gifts given to us from this common source are intended, not just for the enjoyment of the few, but to employ for "the common good." Thus, if you have a spiritual gift from God it is for the purpose of helping someone else. And, in fact, everyone is given some gift that is needed for "the common good." To be sure, some gifts are more spectacular, some more rare, but all of us are given something to contribute to others. So, just as we are one in the Source of our gifts, so we are also one in our need for each other's gift.

STILL MORE EXCELLENT

If you must contend over what is the highest of all God's gifts, says Paul to the Corinthians, then concentrate on that which is "a still more excellent way"—the peerless gift. For, without this gift, all the other gifts are useless. And what is this gift that is higher than tongues, prophetic powers, the understanding of all mysteries, and faith that can move mountains? The answer: love—the love that puts all these gifts at the disposal of others.

For the person who has everything else, love is still the best of all gifts. For without it, they have nothing.

Record Number Of Returns Filed At Last Minute

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says a record 674,550 income tax returns estimated tax payments were filed at the last minute this year.

"We received almost 23% more mail at the last minute this year than we received at the deadline last year," Goldstein said. "In most recent years taxpayers have actually been filing earlier in the season. Many of those filing at the last minute are taxpayers who are enclosing a check for additional tax with their return.

"Between April 15 and April 28 this year, we deposited 342,884 checks with a total value of $204,238,980," he said.

"Getting that large amount of money in the bank becomes a top priority in the days immediately following the filing deadline and the staff of the Income Tax Division worked extra hours each day, including one Saturday, to get the funds deposited.

"Our check encoding equipment and depositing procedures allow the State of Maryland to earn an entire day's interest on each day's deposit, which is made about 3:30 p.m.," the comptroller said. "When you're dealing with hundreds of millions of dollars in that brief a time period, the interest earnings can be considerable."

The comptroller noted that, while interest earned on deposits of state income tax revenue goes into the state's general fund, the efficiency of the office's depositing procedures earns more than enough interest each year to pay for the entire operating cost of the Income Tax Division.

With those funds in the bank refund checks are now being processed regularly once again.

As of May 5, 1986, a total of 1,026,376 refund checks had been issued to Maryland taxpayers, with a total value of $291,240,396—over 15% above the amount issued last year. The average Maryland refund check is $283.76 nearly $24 more than the average check at this time last year.

Commenting on the recent filing season, the comptroller said, "This was one of the smoothest filing periods we've had in a long time. I appreciate the cooperation of taxpayers, the media and the staff of the Income Tax Division in making it a successful filing season," Goldstein stated.

Local Student Earns Scholarship Award At Frostburg

Two area students attending Frostburg State College, one from Garrett County, have been named to receive this year's Wensel-Faherty Scholarship Awards.

The winners are Randall L. Eichorn, Frostburg, and Lori L. Cooley, mtn. Lake Park. Both are completing their freshman year at the local college. Miss Cooley, a 1985 graduate of Southern High School, is the daughter of Carol Fox.

This scholarship was created by FSC alumna, Mrs. Gladys Faherty, Class of 1955, to provide an annual scholarship to a high school senior from Allegany and Garrett counties. Mrs. Faherty, a librarian at Mt. Savage School, said her rewarding career in education was made possible by her college education and wishes to help others achieve their educational goals.

The scholarship is administered by the Frostburg State College Foundation. Criteria for the award includes high school grades, SAT scores, community/school activities and financial need.

A Beneficial-Hodson Merit Scholarship recipient, Ms. Winters was named to the dean's list for the fall semester. She is a 1985 graduate of Southern High School, where she was a member of the marching and concert bands.

Women Workers Swelling Ranks Of Labor Force

According to a report released this week by the Department of State Planning (DSP), women are largely responsible for the overall increase in the Maryland labor force participation rate (LFPR), up from 61.6 percent in 1970 to approximately 66.5 percent in 1985.

The added participation of women, combined with the increase in the population in the prime working years of 16 to 64, has resulted in an increase in the Maryland labor force from 1,655,695 in 1970 to about 2,267,500 in 1985, said DSP Secretary Constance Lieder.

The labor force is all residents aged 16 and up, employed, unemployed and looking for work or in the Armed Forces. Participation rates are determined by dividing the number of persons in the labor force by the total population aged 16 and over. More specific measures of LFPR are made possible by comparing persons in the labor force to the total population of the same sex, age and/or racial characteristics.

From 1970 to 1985, the total number of Marylanders aged 18-64 increased from over 2.24 million to more than 2.8 million, an increase of 25.6 percent. During this same period the number of women aged 16 and over in the labor force increased from 620,000 to over one million as the female LFPR increased from 44.3 percent to 56.2 percent. These two trends are responsible for the 37 percent increase in the labor force over this time period to 2.27 million in 1985.

Michel Lettre, director of DSP's Office of Planning Data (OPD), said the dramatic increase in the proportion of women in the labor force is reflected in the increased percentage of women working during the childbearing and child rearing years. The high female labor force participation rate is also reflected by the growing number of two-salary families and female head of household families as well as changing female fertility patterns.

While the female LFPR has been increasing, male participation in the labor force has dropped from 80.4 percent in 1970 to about 77.8 percent in 1985, although total number of males in the labor force increased from 1,035,900 to 1,263,900. DSP projections anticipate that by the year 2005, the female LFPR will increase to 59.2 percent while male LFPR drops to 75.4 percent. These trends, in conjunction with population trends, will result in an expected total labor force of over 2.7 million in 2005 compared to 2.27 million 1985. This represents a 19 percent increase.

These population and labor force trends will be accompanied by economic growth resulting in more jobs. The number of jobs increased from over 1.62 million in 1970 to 2.13 million in 1985, a 31.5 percent increase. An increase of over 19 percent to 2.55 million is projected for 2005.

Copies of the report, priced at $15, are available. To order persons should send a letter requesting Employment Projections Series #86-3 and enclose a check or money order to DSP, 301 West Preston Street, Room 1101, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201; Attention: Dick Noll.

Bambacus To Teach Course On Government

State Senator John N. Bambacus (R-Allegany-Garrett) will instruct a course on state and local government during Frostburg State College's first Summer Session, May 19-June 27.

The former Frostburg city councilman and Senator since November 1982 said the course will cover state and local issues as they apply to Allegany and Garrett counties, as well as topics of state-wide concern.

Bambacus chose as one of his major 1986 legislative initiatives education reform and the impending state teacher shortage. Through several hearings and published articles, the District One lawmaker brought to the public's attention his concern that "we must take action to ensure high standards leading to high academic performance."

Bambacus, a graduate of Frostburg State College, holds a master's degree in political science from West Virginia University and is currently completing requirements for a Ph.D. degree in community development from the University of Maryland.

He is also the executive director of FSC's Public Affairs Institute, has served as campaign director for U.S. Senator Charles McC. Mathias and during the Vietnam War served with the U.S. Marine Corps.

Anyone interested in this course or numerous other offerings may contact Frostburg's Summer Session Office at 689-4120 or visit the Administration Building on campus.

Goldstein Seeks Another Term As Comptroller

Louis L. Goldstein, Prince Frederick, announced his candidacy for the office of State Comptroller before more than 600 supporters at a Baltimore County fundraising event May 5, 1986.

Goldstein, who was first elected State Comptroller in 1958, declared his record is one of, "working for Maryland's fiscal stability, of providing efficient service to the people of Maryland, and of making Maryland's financial operations a model for other states to follow."

Goldstein said his efforts to preserve Maryland's triple A general obligation bond rating and to make Maryland a model state for accounting, financial reporting and tax collection have saved taxpayers millions of dollars.

"Maryland taxpayers saved $7 million to $12 million in interest costs alone on our most recent bond sale, thanks to our triple A rating and the confidence in our finances. Maryland is one of only nine states to hold the triple A rating—the best you can get.

"Just last Wednesday, the Board of Public Works held the state real estate tax rate to 21¢ for the sixth straight year, thanks to our triple A rating and our efforts to control our debt," he said.

Goldstein noted that his efforts have been recognized on a national and international scale with Maryland being one of only three states to hold the coveted Certificate of Conformance in financial reporting.

He also noted that his office is regularly visited by fiscal representatives from countries in Europe, South America, Africa and Australia to observe the operations of his office.

Noting that he established branch offices throughout Maryland to provide taxpayers with better service, Mr. Goldstein also said Maryland, under his leadership, has become a model for returning money such as income tax refunds and unclaimed bank and savings & loan accounts to the people of the state.

"Finally, I offer my record as a member of the Board of Public Works and Chairman of the Maryland Retirement and Pension Systems.

"I have cast my vote as a member of the Board of Public Works to improve the quality of life in ways that touch nearly every Marylander," he said, pointing to the state's public school construction program, which has spent nearly $1.5 billion since 1971 to build public school facilities across Maryland. He also pointed to Program Open Space, which has expanded the system of state and local parkland.

"As a member of the Board of Public Works I have been both responsive to the needs of our citizens and responsible in the expenditure of their tax dollars.

"And, as Chairman of the Retirement and Pension Systems, I have worked to protect our public employees, our teachers, our retirees and our taxpayers.

"I set my goals early to make Maryland a model in all these areas and others. We have met those goals and the taxpayers have benefited," Goldstein concluded.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Earl (Butch) Hinebaugh, who passed away one year ago, May 19, 1985

God knows how much we miss you, never shall your memory fade.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander, to the spot where you are laid.
We do not need this special day, to bring you to our minds.
The days we do not think of you, are very hard to find.
They say time heals all sorrow, and helps us to forget.
But time so far has only proved, how much we miss you yet.
The golden gates stood open, God saw you needed rest.
His garden must be beautiful, for he always picks the best.

Sadly missed by
and grandchildren

But this they wipe out never, our hearts still ache with sadness.
Our eyes shed many tears, God alone knows how we miss you.
At the end of this one lonely

The flowers we place upon your

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 109 — OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, MAY 22, 1986 — PER COPY 30c

THE NEW HERRINGTON — Many area residents who for years have gone to enjoy the beach, boating, swimming, picnicking, and cross-country skiing at Herrington Manor State Park will probably not recognize the bathhouse/concession building in the beach area. The structure, which was built in the 1930s, underwent over $440,000 worth of renovation this past year and now offers the latest in service and comfort. This project was just one of several that occurred in the park under a $1.5 million capital development allotment for Garrett County. An open house was held at Herrington Manor this past Saturday for residents to tour not only the new bathhouse/concession building, but also the new boat launch and road, new archery range, renovated picnic shelter, new campfire area, and one of the park's renovated cabins. Gerald Sword is the park manager.

Please Bear With Us!!

This edition of The Republican is the first on our new offset press and, as with anything new, it takes time to learn its operation, make adjustments, and generally work out a lot of bugs. In fact, we had members of our press crew all night last night, working to make sure that this issue was possible today. We hope our readers and advertisers will bear with us through this difficult transition and exhibit patience and understanding if some of the type and photos are a bit messy. We remain confident that, over the next few weeks, we will be able to fine tune our new operation and provide our customers with top quality printing of The Republican.

Governor Hughes Signs Mandatory Seat Belt Law

Maryland joined more than 20 other states and the District of Columbia last week when Governor Harry Hughes signed into law a mandatory seat belt use law.

The measure, which takes effect July 1, will require that drivers and right front seat passengers wear their safety belts. The new law, which carries a maximum fine of $25, will be enforced when vehicles are stopped for other violations.

"Despite impressive progress in fighting drunk driving, highway travel continues to be our most hazardous routine activity," Hughes said.

"There is compelling evidence from medical and highway safety experts that a mandatory use law will help reduce this appalling toll," he added.

The Governor urged Maryland motorists to use the six weeks remaining before the bill becomes law to "get into the habit of wearing seat belts."

"I urge all Marylanders to 'buckle up' and make this a successful law," he said.

Transportation Secretary William K. Hellmann said "There is statistical evidence

John McIntee Interviewed By Today Program

John McIntee, a resident of Oakland and one of the nation's top pentathletes, was interviewed Tuesday by NBC television's Today program.

McIntee, who is leaving today to compete in the National Pentathlon Championships in San Antonio, Tex., is an engineer for the local Bausch & Lomb facility. He was interviewed at B&L by Today's Lucy Scott. Also interviewed was John Sheltra, plant manager.

The segment is tentatively slated to be aired on the Today program on May 30 under Mike Jensen's Reports. The focal point of the interviews is to give recognition to the Olympic Job Opportunities Program, established to assist Olympic and potential Olympic athletes with employment information and opportunity.

McIntee, a graduate of Notre Dame, placed fourth in the 1985 National Pentathlon, despite working fulltime for Bausch & Lomb and attempting to train while residing in Garrett County, where facilities are limited for his sport. The pentathlon involves running, swimming, shooting, horseback riding, and fencing.

Planning Commission Gives Tentative Approval For Rachuba Townhouses

The Garrett County Planning Commission last week gave its tentative approval for the Planned Residential Development (PRD) project submitted by Rachuba Enterprises, Inc. The PRD will include a 330-townhouse unit which will be completed in phases over a period of time. The first phase will include up to 90 units.

The final plan, which will include all specifications for the project, is expected to be submitted next month for approval by the Planning Commission.

Before final approval is given, Rachuba must submit specifications and permits from other county government agencies, such as the Roads Department, the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Stormwater Management and the Sanitary Commission.

According to John Nelson, Garrett County Zoning and Planning administrator, a PRD is already permitted by the Garrett County Zoning Ordinances but all PRDs are required to go through the Planning Commission to determine how various projects will impact the natural features of the land involved, road systems, and sewer and water systems.

Nelson said Rachuba is also planning to go ahead with the 40 single-family units planned for the lakefront area on Marsh Hill Road. Those units require no approval by the Zoning Board or the Planning Commission. When the units are purchased fee simple, the owners are then responsible for obtaining zoning permits from the Zoning Office.

Nelson said that land which is zoned "lake residential" is permitted cluster units which is the case of the Rachuba property. He said the concept was designated in the Garrett County Development Plan some 10 years ago. "It is a feasible alternative so long as it is reviewed and approved by the Planning Commission," said the Zoning and Planning administrator.

County Planner Peggy Jamison noted that the PRD included only the townhouse units and the ski slope expansion, not a hotel/conference center or marina which had been included in the original plan submitted by Rachuba. The hotel and marina concepts required the granting of special exceptions from the Garrett County Zoning Appeals Board. Those exceptions were denied by the Appeals Board in April because they did not fall within the limits of the Zoning Ordinance for land zoned "lake residential."

Jamison said the Economic Impact Report which had been prepared by Rachuba included proposed revenues for the hotel and marina, but that the information was not pertinent now since the Zoning Appeals Board had turned down the special exceptions. She added that the impact report had been completed in February in order that the overall economic picture could be reviewed by the Zoning Appeals Board.

The proposed Rachuba project is situated on 390 acres located on Marsh Hill Road and is adjacent to the existing Wisp Ski Area.

Maryland Coal Export Survey Being Taken

Interviews are being held today by Tri-County Council of Western Maryland and Maryland Coal Association representatives to decide which company will be hired to prepare a marketing survey concerning the exportation of Western Maryland coal to Europe.

Garrett and Allegany counties are the only Maryland counties where coal is mined.

TCC Executive Director Michael Wagoner said the council recently received a $20,000 check from the state Department of Economic and Community Development to hire the consultant. The local share of the project will be paid with Appalachian Regional Commission money issued to the council.

Three Western Maryland community colleges have been hired by TCC to conduct a telephone survey of area manufacturers to determine if they are involved in or interested in exporting their products.

The manufacturer survey, which will be conducted through June 2, will ask companies if they have ever exported products and, if so, how frequently. The survey will also seek to identify possible problems as well as specific areas in which companies need help to conduct export trading.

TCC fosters economic development in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Girl "Critical," Two Charged With Child Abuse

A four-year-old girl, the apparent victim of child abuse, remains in "critical" condition in the Intensive Care Unit of Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Two adults were charged in connection with the alleged child abuse, and are being held in the Garrett County Jail.

Bruce Allen Sarver, 29, of Swanton, was arrested Sunday and charged with child abuse, assault with intent to maim, and assault and battery.

He is being held on $100,000 full cash bond.

The mother of the child, Donna Lynn White, 26, was arrested Tuesday afternoon and charged with one count of caused child abuse. She is being held on $10,000 bond.

She was charged on information developed in the investigation of the offenses against Sarver.

The incident allegedly occurred at a residence near Bloomington on Route 135.

Gregory Notes Boating Regs At Construction Site

Construction activities in the vicinity of the Route 219 Bridge across Deep Creek Lake will be continuing throughout the summer boating season, according to Michael R. Gregory, lake manager.

He said this construction activity will necessitate a re-routing of boat traffic through the vicinity for this coming year. As a result, boaters in this area will notice the placement of regulatory buoys which will direct boat traffic through the construction area.

A no-wake speed limit has been posted for the protection of boaters and workers alike, Gregory said. As such, boaters passing through the area will be required to reduce their vessel's speed and travel through this area in such a manner that their vessel produces no wake. Boat traffic will be limited to one lane of travel in each direction through this area.

The buoy system designating these travel lanes will follow the cardinal system of navigation. This system entails the use of black-topped, red-topped, and red-striped buoys. A vessel is required to pass only to the

Constant Yield Tax Rate Lower Again This Year

The Constant Yield Tax Rate for 1986-87 in Garrett County is $2.37, down $.16 from last year's rate of $2.53, according to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

The Constant Yield Tax Rate is set by the State Department of Assessments and Taxation. The concept of Constant Yield is that, as assessments rise, the tax rate should diminish to the point that the revenue derived from the property tax stays at a constant level from one year to the next, thus assuring a known or Constant Yield from such a tax source.

County taxpayers are now speculating about the actual tax rate. Last year's tax rate was $2.52 or $.01 lower than the Constant Yield Rate.

The Commissioners said Tuesday they expect to have the county budget for the coming fiscal year completed by mid-June, at which time they will announce the tax rate.

In their first three years in office, the current board of commissioners reduced the tax rate a total of $.50 while maintaining they have "kept the same level of service expected by the Garrett County taxpayers."

The commissioners have spent two full days working on the county budget thus far this week. They spent a greater part of the day Tuesday going over the Roads Department budget, one of the "most detailed budgets in county government."

Airport Expansion

Also Tuesday, the commissioners said they are continuing their efforts to expand and upgrade the Garrett County Airport.

They have been working closely for the past year with a special task force headed by

Swanton Man Killed During Truck Mishap

A Swanton man was killed early Friday morning when the truck he was driving overturned, causing him to be ejected.

Ronald Wayne Warnick, 37, died in the accident which occurred at 4:30 a.m. along Interstate 270, Frederick County.

State Police said the accident occurred when the truck failed to negotiate a left curve and ran off the right side of the road. The truck then struck an embankment and overturned.

Mr. Warnick was a son of the late Loyal M. Warnick and Mida (Paugh) Warnick.

He was employed as a truck driver.

Surviving are his wife, Shirley (Sebold) Warnick; two sons, Ronald Wayne Warnick Jr. and Jason Douglas Warnick, and a daughter, Tonya Lynn Warnick, all at home; a brother, Dewey Warnick, Oakland, five sisters, Shirley A. Warnick, Piedmont, W.Va.; Nyla Warnick, Swanton; Debbie Warnick, Cumberland; Patricia Warnick and Carolyn Tichinell, both of Oakland.

Friends were received at the David A. Burdock Funeral Home, where a service was conducted Monday by the Rev. George Tichinell. Interment was in Walnut Bottom Cemetery.

Named At Public Meeting On Saturday

Garrett Community College Board of Trustees Chairman Katharine L. Smith announced Tuesday night that a permanent president for the college would be named Saturday, May 24, at 5:00 p.m. at a public meeting at the college.

Smith said due to "distance involved" the new president could not be named until the weekend leading speculators to believe the new president will be traveling some distance to be present at the public meeting and that interim president, Dr. David A. Puzzuoli was not the final choice of the Board of Trustees. There was a total of seven candidates being considered by the board for the position at GCC.

Many faculty members said recently they would resign if Dr. Puzzuoli were to be appointed president, while the Student Government Association at the college and many members of the staff and administration sent letters of support to the Board of Trustees for the appointment of the interim president.

Dr. Puzzuoli's contract ends on June 3.

Mitchell Appointed

Dr. Lillian R. Mitchell, who served as acting dean of academic affairs for the past year, was unanimously approved by the board to continue in that position on a permanent basis.

Dr. Mitchell was recommended for the position by Dr. Puzzuoli following an in-house search. During Tuesday's meeting, board member Pat Fischetti moved that Dr. Puzzuoli's recommendation be tabled. There was no second to the motion and Mitchell was appointed.

Oakland Center

Also at Tuesday's meeting, the Board of Trustees voted not to renew the lease arrangement with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners for the Center Street School which has housed the Oakland Center of GCC for some 10 years. The motion was made following the recommendation of Dr. Puzzuoli who noted that the wiring in the building was outdated, that a building costing less than a third of the cost of the present building to house the staff and several classrooms had been found and that articulation agreements between the college and the Board of Education would provide classrooms for many of the courses, especially typing and computer classes.

Board member Dr. Raymond McCullough added that the existing stairwell in the Center Street School had already been outlawed in new buildings in Maryland and many other states. He said a central stairwell such as the one in the school acts as a chimney in the event of a fire.

Comptroller John Culp stated that liability insurance for the building was becoming increasingly difficult to obtain and may soon be impossible if the minimum renovations were not made which would cost nearly $242,000.

Dr. Puzzuoli told the board the college had already spent an additional $10,088 for a new boiler for the building on top of the $70,000 a year lease plus heating, lighting and additional maintenance which cost GCC some $100,000 this year to operate. The $70,000 rental fee is deducted from the county's yearly budget allotment.

Puzzuoli stated that new wiring alone would cost the college $30,000 and said it was inevitable that it would have to be done in the near future since the building is now operating on a 200-watt amperage and most homes operate on 600 amps.

Lowell Bender, continuing education director, then spoke saying that the Oakland Center had proved very successful and provided space and the types of classrooms needed to continue

Oakland Man Fatally Injured In RV Mishap

A young Oakland man died Saturday because of injuries he received in a recreational vehicle accident on May 11.

James A. Sisler, 23, was reportedly riding a three-wheeler with friends near Big Bear Lake, Preston County, West Virginia, when he apparently lost control of the vehicle and wrecked. However, there were no direct witnesses to the accident.

Mr. Sisler apparently sustained severe head injuries and died at West Virginia University Medical Center.

Born October 14, 1962, he was a son of John J. Sisler and Winifred W. (Miller) Sisler, Oakland.

Mr. Sisler was employed by Skipper Construction, Oakland, and was a 1980 graduate of Southern High School. He was an avid hunter and fisherman.

He reportedly was an organ donor, and many of his organs have been transplanted.

Surviving in addition to his parents are three sisters, Mrs. Debra J. Sanders, Terra Alta, W.Va.; Mrs. Joyce L. Ritter, Oakland; and Miss Jennifer Sisler, at home; a paternal grandmother, Mrs. Florence (Shaffer) Sisler, at home.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was conducted Tuesday by the Rev. David Moon. Interment was in the Gortner Cemetery.

The family suggests that memorial contributions be directed to the Arthritis Foundation at 12 West 25th St., Baltimore, 21218, or to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Company or the Southern Rescue Squad.

READY TO RIDE in a 150-kilometer (94-mile) cycling event to benefit research against multiple sclerosis are two Mtn. Lake Park residents. Gary Heginbotham, left, and Mark Powles will be among the riders who will peddle their way from Baltimore to Annapolis and back again the weekend of June 7-8. Persons wishing to make a pledge of so-many-cents per kilometer are asked to contact Heginbotham or Powles at 334-2838 and 334-2042, respectively, during the evening hours. MS, a disease of the central nervous system, affects an estimated 2,000 Maryland families.

MARYLAND SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE WAYNE CAWLEY toured Garrett County yesterday, visiting the farms of Ken Bachtel, Ray Ridder and Harvey Brothers to view projects developed using state cost-share funds. Hosting Secretary Cawley on the tour were Soil Conservation District officials and board members. Above, part of the group is pictured inspecting the ag-waste facilities on the Ken Bachtel farm. Left to right, they are: Jim Schlossnagle, SCS district conservationist; Secretary Cawley; Shaun Sanders, Soil Conservation District manager; and (hidden) Jim Wallace, internal auditor for Maryland Department of Agriculture. A complete report of Secretary Cawley's visit will appear in the farm section of next week's Republican.

World Champion Chef To Instruct Local Course On Culinary Arts

Joint effort by Garrett Community College, and local restaurants, including Silver Tree, Will O' the Wisp and Grantsville Holiday Inn, has succeeded in bringing Chef Baron H. Galand, C.E.C. to Garrett County to develop and instruct a Culinary Arts pilot pogram, according to a release from GCC.

"Tourism is already an important segment of Garrett County's economy," a GCC spokesman said. "This program will add a special quality to be offered to year-round guests at local establishments."

Chef Galand will train 16 local chefs and 12 working restaurateurs in a two-day (June 1 and 2) Culinary Arts Short Course.

Galand coached the U.S. Culinary Olympic Team in 1980 and was counselor to the 1984 U.S. Team that won the Gold Medal for hot food preparation in Frankfort, Germany. He is one of 16 certified U.S. Master Chefs and is currently national president of the American Culinary Federation, consisting of 11,000 members in 50 states and territories.

The "Baron's" educational record includes a Doctor of Food Service from Nafem Educational Institute, Dallas, Texas; A certificate of Continuing Education from Allegheny Campus, Allegheny Community College, Pa.; Nittany Lion Award from Penn State University; Food Service Man of the Year from Purdue University; and a certificate from the Educational Institute, Michigan State University. He is an instructor of culinary arts at Penn State University and a member of the Fayette County, Pa., Vo Tech Advisory Board. He has hosted a weekly radio phone-in program known as "The Back Burner" for more than a decade and has judged local, state, national, and international Culinary Salons as a member of the American Culinary Federation.

The planning Committee for this event includes: Jo Ann Vent, career employability vocational placement advisor, Garrett County Board of Education; Jeri Swartzentruber, assistant director, Continuing Education Division of GCC; LaDonna VanSickle, secretary to the registrar, GCC; Mike Will, coordinator of business, GCC; Martin H. Heise, food and beverage manager, Will O' the Wisp; Sandra M. Naumann, adjunct instructor of food and beverage preparation, GCC; Andrew A. Simasek, general manager, Grantsville Holiday Inn; Douglas McClive, chef, Silver Tree Inn; Darlene Tressler, administration assistant; and Dr. Nancy J. Priselac, Dean of Student Affairs, GCC.

"With the realization of the growing tourism industry, which is such an important part of the county's economy, the Culinary Arts Short Course Training and the Hotel/Restaurant Management Course at GCC, the county should see a brighter future for restaurateurs," the GCC spokesman concluded.

A community dinner will be provided at the end of the course. Only 80 tickets will be available for the evening of June 2. For further information/tickets, persons may contact LaDonna VanSickle at GCC, 387-6666, extension 144.

Bloodmobile To Visit Friendsville

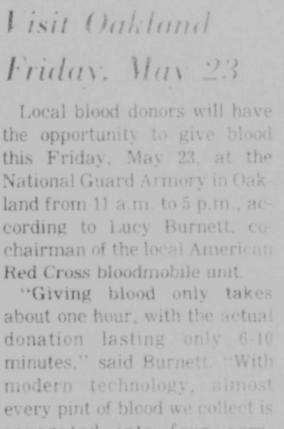
The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the Friendsville Fire Hall on Friday, May 30, from noon to 6 p.m.

According to a local Red Cross spokesman, one fourth of the blood supply in the Johnstown (Pa.) Region, of which Garrett County is a part, is collected from area high schools and colleges. Therefore, the supply is lower during the summer months, but the demand remains the same.

"Once an accident or emergency occurs, it is too late to recruit donors," the spokesman said. "Blood must be available when it is needed."

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 69 in generally good health and a weight of at least 110 pounds is eligible to donate blood. It usually takes less than one hour to donate one pint of blood, which could save up to four lives.

Edwards To Speak At Northern High Commencement



Delegate George Edwards, a 1966 graduate of Northern High School, will deliver the commencement address on Sunday, June 1, on the athletic field.

This will mark the first outdoor graduation in the history of Northern, and is necessitated by the renovation project at the high school.

Should inclement weather prevent the outdoor exercise, graduation will be held in the Northern Middle School cafeteria, with invited guests only permitted to attend. Graduation is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Edwards is the second Northern High graduate to be chosen to deliver a commencement address.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland Friday, May 23

Local blood donors will have the opportunity to give blood this Friday, May 23, at the National Guard Armory in Oakland from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to Lucy Burnett, co-chairman of the local American Red Cross bloodmobile unit.

"Giving blood only takes about one hour, with the actual donation lasting only 6-10 minutes," said Burnett. "With modern technology, almost every pint of blood we collect is separated into four components: plasma, white cells, red cells and platelets. In this sense, one donation can benefit as many as four patients."

The Johnstown Region of the American Red Cross Blood Services, of which the Garrett County Chapter is a participating member, must collect at least 400 units of blood each weekday to meet the needs of patients in 54 hospitals in 28 counties in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland and West Virginia.

Last year, the Garrett County Chapter collected 946 units of blood, 71.3% of its goal. "This year, our goal is 1,000 units and we need the support of the community to reach that goal," said Burnett.

"Our concern for the health and safety of blood donors is exhibited throughout the blood donation process," Burnett explained. "The Red Cross uses only sterile, disposable equipment in collecting blood. Needles and other supplies are used only once."

Persons between the ages of 17 and 69, weigh at least 110 pounds, and are in generally good health are eligible to give blood up to 12 times per month, according to Burnett.

Local Juvenile Found Delinquent

During a recent juvenile court trial in Garrett County Circuit Court, a 17-year-old Friendsville boy was found to be delinquent and placed on supervised probation with the Juvenile Services Administration.

The youth was charged with the January 17 attempted breaking and entering at Tabor's General Store, Friendsville. He was also ordered not to trespass on the Wayne Tabor property.

In another case, five juveniles were found to be children in need of assistance.

According to court records, the children's stepfather had beaten the male juvenile and threatened the four females.

Custody for the boy was granted to the Department of Social Services for placement in a foster home, and the girls were placed with their natural mother.

Oakland Constant Yield Tax Rate Remains Same

After the adjournment of a public hearing on the constant yield tax rate, the Oakland Mayor and Town Council announced that the rate would be $1.20, the same as last year's rate.

During the May council meeting, a discussion was held and an update given on the Oakland Sewage Treatment Plant. The complete update will be reported in next week's Republican.

A proposed cemetery ordinance was accepted by council, with three councilmen voting in favor and one voting against the proposal.

A letter was sent by council to the director of the State Water Resources Administration concerning flooding in the Bradley Run area. The letter requested WRA to conduct a comprehensive study and offer suggestions for solving the problem.

A WARMING AREA FOR SKIERS is just one feature of the new bathhouse/concession building at Herrington Manor State Park. Several hundred area residents visited the park this past Saturday during an open house, at which time this new building and various other new and renovated projects were revealed. It is estimated that over 500,000 persons visited Garrett County's state parks last year. Capital improvements were also made at Deep Creek Lake State Park, Potomac-Garrett State Forest, and Swallow Falls State Park.

THANK YOU

On the occasion of Paul's recent illness and long hospitalization we owe many people our most sincere thanks:

To the surgeons, doctors and hospital staff; to members of the Garrett County Health Department; to all the people who sent get-well cards and flowers, visited and offered prayers in our behalf; to the many members of the clergy whose visits and prayers were a great comfort to both of us.

We couldn't have made it without you.

Youth Score Big At State 4-H Computer Fair

The second annual State 4-H Computer Fair was held Saturday, May 17, at the Montgomery County Fairgrounds in Gaithersburg with 4-H members from five counties (Garrett, Frederick, Baltimore, Calvert, and Montgomery) participating.

Three computer project members from the Country Kids 4-H Club represented Garrett County and brought home several awards. Paul Browning was named Overall Software Champion, he also received a blue ribbon in the Software, Non-4-H Project Related division. He and his sister, Barbara, received a red ribbon in the Original Software, Non-4-H Project Related division; and he and Mike Kepple received a blue ribbon in the Hardware division for a lightpen they had created.

Mike Kepple also received a blue ribbon in the Original Software, 4-H Related division for his program on Dairy Goat Recordkeeping.

In the Computer Demonstration Contest, Paul was awarded a blue ribbon for having the most informative, technical demonstration, titled Telecommunications. The Demonstration contest champion was Lynda Kelly of the Montgomery Village Club in Montgomery County.

The team of Paul Browning and Mike Kepple placed second in the senior division of the State Computer Bowl. Barbara Browning, who teamed up with an individual from another county, also competed in the Computer Bowl.

Paul, Mike and Barbara all took a test, the results of which will decide which individual will be selected as Maryland's senior 4-H representative to enter the Eastern Regional Engineering Event Computer Contest in Richmond, Va. The member selected will be notified by mail in the near future.

The object of the State Computer Fair is to provide a positive microcomputer experience which will encourage creativity; promote logical problem solving techniques utilizing microcomputers; and to recognize 4-H'ers for their accomplishments in microcomputer applications.

Power Outage Affects Jennings

The Jennings area of Garrett County and the Frostburg area of Allegany County were affected by a power outage, Wednesday, a week ago.

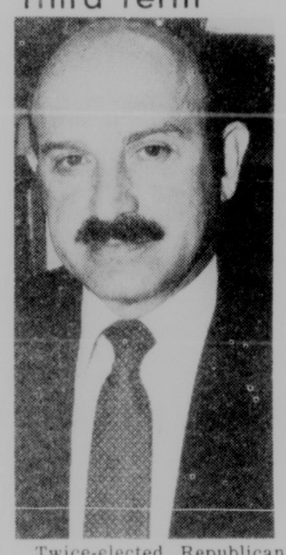
According to Richard Roschli, district Potomac Edison manager, the outage occurred when a 138,000-volt transmission line between the Albright, W.Va., power station and Cumberland was lost.

The outage affected 3,000 customers in the Frostburg area and an estimated 1,750 in the Jennings area, located between Bittinger and Grantsville along Route 495.

Two thirds of the customers were without power for 45 minutes and the remainder, for a little over an hour.

Roschli said the outage was caused when a line went down near U.S. Route 219, south of Keyser's Ridge.

Commissioner Gregg Seeks Third Term



Twice-elected Republican Garrett County Commissioner Ernest J. Gregg, Jr., has announced his intention to seek a third term as County Commissioner for Election District No. three.

In announcing the decision, he stated that when first taking office, the county was faced with one of the highest tax rates in the State of Maryland.

"County government was, at the time, funding many special interest groups, also overspending and overstaffing existed in some county agencies," stated Gregg. Resolution of these problems, he said, became some of his goals.

As a result, he says, he has seen the tax rate take a downward trend, with Garrett County receiving statewide recognition for the largest tax rate decrease in the state for the last five years. "This decrease in the tax rate was not only a result of an increase in the assessable base, but also a result of careful planning, spending, and staffing," Gregg said.

Gregg stated that he felt his experience was an important factor in achieving some of these goals. Gregg concluded, "I want to thank the people of Garrett County for allowing me the opportunity to serve them and to gain the experience that has proved beneficial to the county's efficiency and fiscal stability."

State Police Arrest Three

Maryland State Police at the McHenry detachment have arrested a young Oakland man on various charges.

Ronald Wayne Beckman, 19, was arrested May 12 and charged with driving without a license, leaving the scene, and theft.

According to police reports, Beckman entered an unlocked vehicle parked at the Oakland Clothing Warehouse, Inc., and drove off.

Beckman is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $2,500 bond.

State Police arrested Robert J. Dunn, 51, and Stephen J. Baer, 23, both of Frostburg, for holding an illegal lottery.

According to police reports, the men held a 50-50 drawing after they and several other volunteer firemen were given fines through the Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire Company. The fines were for missing meetings, and the men held the drawing to raise money to pay the fines. However, the fire company did not accept the money.

Both men were released pending trial.

Our Turn

The Family Vacation
by Pam Ashby

It's time once again for families to order travel brochures, check out the camping gear or find a secluded hideaway far away from the rat race in which we work and live. Ah yes, it's time to plan the coveted family vacation and don't we Americans simply covet that week or two of bliss?

Luckily, most of us have short memories and we tend to forget the small inconveniences which go hand in hand with the travel and the sightseeing, like:

—Your husband driving six hours non-stop unless HE has to go to the bathroom or unless the newly potty-trained toddler's face has turned beet red . . .

or

—The kids can't seem to agree on which fast food restaurant pleases their palates which causes undue stress when big brother goes to the golden arches alone, dad takes one sibling to the colonel's and mom takes the other to the seafood shoppe . . .

or

—Your smirking husband, driving 70 miles per hour, insists you read the motel rates posted by said establishment. This, in his mind, is very funny, seeing this woman, who's tired enough to pay $1,000 for a room, trys to make out prices while hanging out the car window. Further stress is created when funny woman strangles smirking husband . . .

or

—Your thrifty dad always finds the cheapest motel in which one single room will uncomfortably house a family of eight. I remember one of those nice little lodgings. My sister and I lovingly nicknamed it "The Crud Motel." The roaches carried our luggage into our room and the maids paid us not to have to go in "there!" It's strange that after that experience and following a highly spirited discussion between mom and dad, we began staying in Holiday Inns.

Gosh, home is looking better all the time.

showing that this law has had an impact on highway safety in other states, but the real importance of this legislation is the pain and suffering that will be avoided because someone was wearing a safety belt."

Hellmann said it was appropriate that the Governor signed the bill during National Transportation Week and he joined Hughes in urging Marylanders to get into the habit of "buckling up."

Bob Browning. Also working with the commissioners is Tom Glotfelty, fixed base operator at the airport. The task force consists of about a dozen local aviators.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. stated, "The airport is a basic key element to the future economic success in Garrett County."

Tom Jones, executive director for the Garrett County Development Corporation, has been working with the task force in documenting airport traffic, the nature of travel, commercial users and prospects for increased users.

He said he was hopeful that the studies would culminate in a funding request approval by the Federal Aviation Administration. "We hope our findings will substantiate our request for funding from the FAA for some much needed upgrading and expansion at the local airport," said Jones.

A letter with the task force's findings was sent Monday to William A. Whittle, manager of the Washington Airports District Office, by the commissioners requesting direction in what the commissioners term "a most difficult situation."

The letter concluded, "In summary, our need for an improved airport is growing significantly each year. Our economy is expanding, especially the recreational-tourism sector. Much airport usage is now being generated by the leisure visitor. Our county's tax base is still small and we cannot afford to expend some $4 million (more than 40% of the county's total annual budget) for our airport facility. However, without an improved facility, our attractiveness for both commercial (tourism) and industrial development will be significantly diminished."

The college has borrowing power of up to $100,000. Culp asked the board to put out for bids the additional $50,000 needed to cover the deficient cash flow period. The board approved that move.

Slagle Promoted

The Board of Trustees, upon the recommendation of Dr. Puzzuoli, unanimously approved the promotion of David Slagle from associate professor of chemistry to full professor.

Slagle has been an instructor at GCC for 14 years. Prior to that he taught chemistry at Southern High School.

Puzzuoli said Slagle met the criteria and that his files were in order. The board concurred.

Financial Report

Comptroller John Culp informed the board Tuesday that the college had expended 82% of the budget for this fiscal year which was slightly below even spending. He felt the college would end the year in sound fiscal shape, adding that there may be some surplus in some areas to move to instructional areas.

He noted that there would be a cash flow problem as there normally is this time of year. He said the college would need to borrow $150,000 until the end of the fiscal year at which time state funds would be received in the total amount of some $190,000.

Mac Hails Passage Of Mentally Ill Protection Act

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) has hailed Congressional passage of a bill to protect the rights of persons residing in state and mental health institutions.

If signed by the President, the measure will establish a bill of rights to ensure that the mentally ill receive more than just custodial care, and will establish, in each state, a protection and advocacy program for the mentally ill through which an advisory board will investigate reports of abuse, and neglect, and pursue legal and administrative remedies to enforce patient rights.

Cosponsored by Mathias, the bill was introduced as a result of a six-month investigation by the Senate Subcommitee on the Handicapped into treatment at state mental health institutions, and three days of hearings in April, 1985 which exposed charges of mistreatment and neglect.

The bill authorizes $10 million for the program's administration in fiscal year 1986, with a subsequent increase of $500,000 in fiscal year 1987. Maryland will receive approximately $131,000 this year, and no state will receive less than $125,000.

McIntee

Jack King, in charge of public relations for B&L, stated that the Bausch & Lomb participates in the Olympic Job Opportunities Program by helping McIntee with time off for his training and competitions.

"John's sport is rated among the most difficult, and to excell in it one needs to train four or five hours per day," King said. "We try to support him as much as possible and the intent of this interview is to make the program known to other athletes who may be having difficulty in finding employment."

Remember Our War Dead

By Ron Friend
First Vice Commander

Proctor Kildow Post 71 of the American Legion, Oakland, recently dedicated a stone memorial in front of the post home inscribed with these words: "In memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in the service of their country that others might live."

As Memorial Day approaches, it is fitting that we reflect and remember all of the brave men who have unselfishly given of their lives that we as Americans can have freedom no other country in the world enjoys.

The idea of Memorial Day has long been in conflict. Congress agreed 20 years ago that the idea had been born in Waterloo, New York, one year after the surrender of the last Confederate forces on May 5, 1866. Two years later the commander of the Grand Army of The Republic, John A. Logan, proclaimed May 30 as Decoration Day.

Before the commemorative tradition even began, Abraham Lincoln had spoken of its meaning in his Gettysburg Address, "That we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

A memorial service will be conducted at the Oakland Cemetery following the Memorial Day parade on May 30. As we reflect, let each of us remember our fallen comrades from all wars in all the graves of Garrett County and the world who have made the "supreme sacrifice."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I recently held a conversation with a Delegate of Garrett County and was appalled at the lack of consideration which he gave to the current residents of Deep Creek Lake in reference to the Wisp Recreational Project. This Project proposes to build 350 townhouses, a 150 room hotel and a private marina, all on property, now zoned residential. The Zoning Commission recently turned down theproposal for the hotel and marina. Now the project owner has the right to appeal in court or wait a year to re-submit the proposal.

This Delegate of Garrett County said this project would bring in more jobs to this community, however, the Project's owner stated, at a recent zoning meeting, that he would bring in his own management firm to operate the entire project. Garrett County definitely needs industry, but they need an industry willing to train people and pay a liveable wage and not industry only willing to offer below minimum wage jobs.

This Delegate seemed uninterested in the fact that if this Project is approved as proposed, the residents of Lake Shore Drive, Old Deep Creek Drive and Marsh Hill Road will be adversely affected. Also the entire Boat population will be endangered. The Project proposes to put in a boat ramp across from the Route 219 Bridge. This lake intersection is the most heavily used and dangerous part of the Lake now and if the Project wins, it will literally become a death trap. The current owners of property in this area will not be able to safely use their boats or even swim because of the overload in boat traffic. Consequently, these property owners will find that their property values will drop and all their years of work and struggle to have a nice home on the Lake will go down the drain.

This proposed Project would set a precedent for all future developments on the Lake. Any developer could purchase property zoned residential on any section of the Lake and would then own private marina, flooding the Lake with even more boats and pollution.

The current residents of the Lake have supported local businesses and paid taxes in this community for over thirty years and it seems now our safety and well being is to be sacrificed so that a few rich people can become richer and the poor stay poor.

This Project is setting into motion the beginning of the end of Garrett County's Major Economics Asset. In the near future "Deep Creek Lake, Maryland's Best Kept Secret" will be renamed "Deep Creek Lake, Maryland's Death Trap."

A Concerned Resident
Elaine M. Mutschler

Dear Mr. Rice,

Since I am the reporter who covers the GCC beat, the editor has requested that I respond to your letter and to your allegations about the slanted press coverage concerning the college.

First, let me say I commend you for your praise of your instructors. I think you will find, though, if you re-read the story in the May 8 edition of The Republican regarding the students, you'll find that most of the students agree with you.

As a former part-time student myself, I concur. The instructors were excellent in my estimation and I'm confident they truly cared about my education.

Now Mr. Rice, if you did indeed read the May 8 paper, you will also find comments from the faculty as well as the staff and administration.

If you had any idea of the amount of time I have spent at GCC in the past few months attempting to talk to every faction, perhaps you wouldn't be so quick to judge.

If the person who informed you I wasn't talking with the faculty had been honest with you, he would have told you I made myself available to the faculty on two separate occasions recently. I travelled to GCC at their convenience. A total of nine faculty members spoke to me on the first occasion. During the second north or east of a black-topped buoy. Similarly a vessel is required to pass only to the south or west of a red-topped buoy. Finally, a vessel may not pass between a red-striped buoy and the nearest shore. As such, a boater traveling from the south end of the lake toward McHenry or the dam area will travel through a channel marked by a black-topped buoy on his port (left) side and a red-striped buoy on his starboard (right) side. In contrast, a boater traveling from the north end of the lake toward the State Park or Turkey Neck will travel through a channel marked by a red-topped buoy on his port side and a red-striped buoy on his starboard side.

Gregory said boat operators should also be aware that they may periodically be prohibited from traveling beneath the old and new bridges during certain phases of construction. Normally, such delays will only be for a brief period of time; however, in the event problems arise, the delay could be prolonged.

Finally, he said, boaters should realize that there are certain inherent dangers in and around any water construction site. "Prudent boat operators should make all reasonable attempts to avoid this area during the construction phase particularly during peak boat traffic periods," he stated.

Persons wishing any additional information concerning these navigational changes may contact Gregory at the Lake Management Office at 387-4111 or 387-4112.

In Loving Memory

AFTER WHILE

The air is not as fragrant
The sky is not as blue,
The birdsong not as cheerful,
Since I no longer have you.

The grass is not as green,
The stars are not as bright,
The moon glow seems dim
On all those lonely nights.

Friends' smiles are not as happy
As once they seemed to be.
Life itself, has lost meaning
Since you're no longer with me.

Dark clouds obscure the sun
On the very brightest day.
Tears fill my troubled eyes,
Every since you went away.

Oh, how I long to hear your footstep,
Hear your voice, see your smile.
But lovely memories must sustain me,
'Til I join you, after while.

Wife, Helen

Selected For WVU Physical Therapy Program

Christina Werdebaugh, daughter of Harry and Donna Werdebaugh, Oakland, has been granted admission in the 1986 fall class of the West Virginia University Physical Therapy Program.

Out of 200 applicants, 16 from West Virginia and only two out-of-state students were chosen. Although students were not chosen by grades alone, Miss Werdebaugh made a 4.0 last semester.

After graduating fifth in her class from Southern High School, she attended Garrett Community College, where she made the dean's list. She then transferred to West Virginia University.

She became interested in physical therapy 12 years ago when her cousin, Austin Barraclough, of Topeka, Kan., was born with several birth defects.

Miss Werdebaugh has been employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital as a physical therapist aid, and at Garrett Community College as an instructor's aid and tutor during the year she attended GCC and during the summer months.

Police Report Area Mishaps

Maryland State Police at McHenry this week investigated several motor vehicle accidents which resulted in minor injuries.

A single vehicle accident occurred Friday on the State Park Road.

According to police reports, Brenda G. Thayer, 25, Mtn. Lake Park, was northbound in a 1981 Plymouth Horizon. An unidentified vehicle was following too closely behind her, and she attempted to get away from it. Thayer then lost control of the vehicle and ran off the left side of the road into a tree.

Thayer was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and then transferred to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was later released according to a spokesman there.

Tfc. D.G. Riggleman investigated the mishap.

A two-vehicle accident occurred Saturday on Route 42.

According to police reports, Philip D. Newby, 28, Library, Pa., was northbound in a 1979 Ford pickup truck. As Newby attempted to negotiate a right turn, the truck began to skid, colliding with an embankment and fence, then traveling sideways back across the road. The truck then collided with a 1979 Olds Cutlass driven by Jean L. Jenkins, 67, Oakland.

Jenkins was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the mishap.

Tfc. R.C. Resh investigated.

A three-wheeler accident occurred Saturday on private property near Oakland.

According to police, Dewayne A. Schrock, 18, Oakland, was operating the vehicle when it went over a bump and became airborne. Schrock was ejected over the front of the vehicle when it landed.

Schrock was admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the mishap and later released according to a spokesman there.

Tfc. R.C. Georg investigated.

A Mtn. Lake Park man was charged with driving while intoxicated following a mishap May 11 on Route 135.

According to police, Ricky D. Kent, 23, was operating a 1974 Chevrolet C-10 when he lost control. The vehicle then ran off the road, came back on, crossed the center line and left the road again, striking an embankment and overturning.

Tfc. L. Rosage investigated, charging Schrock with driving while intoxicated, negligent driving, and driving without a license.

DHMH Announces Changes In WIC Food Program

Adele Wilzack, Secretary of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, has announced a major reorganization of the federally funded WIC (Women, Infants, Children) Supplemental Food Program in Maryland.

"We are streamlining our operations so that we can provide a quality nutrition program for the state's pregnant women, new mothers and children in need of additional nourishing food in their diets," Wilzack said.

"Our plan addresses both long-term and short-term concerns. It includes changes in staffing and funding designed to help the local programs to maintain a stable enrollment of participants," she said.

Formulation of the WIC plan followed intensive needs assessment studies in each of the local WIC programs and numerous conferences with local health officers from around the state.

Elements of the plan are:

1. Proposed consolidation of local programs—Two or more counties in each area of the state will join to form a single, larger program. Eight large programs will result from merging Harford and Cecil counties; Anne Arundel and Calvert; Washington and Frederick; Carroll and Howard; Worcester, Wicomico and Somerset; Kent, Caroline, Dorchester, Talbot and Queen Anne's; Allegany and Garrett; Charles and St. Mary's.

Baltimore City, Baltimore County, Prince George's County and Montgomery will retain their own separate programs.

2. Staff Realignment—Because of consolidation and streamlining of the local programs, staffing will be limited to the number and types of personnel necessary to provide WIC benefits.

3. Change in funding formula—For the July to September, 1986, quarter of the federal fiscal year, each program will receive an award of $5,000 plus $13.80 for each active WIC participant. Each program will receive $20,000 plus approximately $55.20 for each active participant for the 12-month period from October, 1986, through September, 1987.

The new formula, which is tied to the number of participants in each local program, will enable Wilzack to transfer funds to the areas of greatest need.

Previous funding, with an annual base of $55,000 plus additional payments for participant increments of several hundred, was found to be inequitable for the larger programs in the more populous areas—Baltimore City, Baltimore County, Prince George's County, Montgomery County.

4. Ongoing aid—As an adjunct of the overall plan, WIC will install a new computer system in July to assure accuracy and speed in the processing of food vouchers and certification records for the statewide program. The state WIC office, under the direction of Melvina Ford, will offer technical assistance to outreach efforts by the local programs to increase the number of participants in the program.

The WIC program provides free of charge such foods as milk, infant formula, eggs, cheese, beans, cereal and peanut butter to pregnant women, new mothers, infants and young children in need of additional nutrients in their diets. WIC participants also receive nutrition education on a regular basis.

Additional Charge Brought Against Friendsville Teen

Members of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and Maryland State Police combined efforts this week to bring additional charges against a Friendsville teen who was arrested last week on various counts of theft.

Gerald Douglas Frazee Jr., 19, was charged with an additional count of breaking and entering theft last Thursday. The charge stemmed from the May 2 theft of a gas-driven grass trimmer owned by the town of Friendsville.

The Sheriff's Department arrested Willmer P. Alder, Severn, on a breaking and entering charge which stemmed from an incident at the Little Horn Hunting Camp, Steyer.

According to reports filed by the department, Alder was staying in a hunting cabin without permission. He is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $500 bond.

AAUW Branch Meets For Annual Fellowship Event

The Garrett Branch of the American Association of University Women met for its annual May Fellowship Dinner Tuesday evening, May 13, at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. The speaker was Herman Behling, Maryland State Assistant Superintendent of Schools. His topic was "Teacher Supply and Demand." The local programs emphasis for the year has been public education.

Dian Balanger, Maryland State President of AAUW, attended the dinner meeting and conducted the installation of new officers for the local branch. Serving in the coming year will be Martha Jachowski, president; Elaine Marple, vice president for program; Bonnie Fedde, vice president for membership; Joanne Rebele, secretary; and Willetta Mateer, treasurer.

The American Association of University Women was founded in 1882, with the Garrett Branch organized in 1946. The group promotes equity for women, education and self development over the life span, and positive societal change. The Garrett Branch of AAUW provides a scholarship for a local woman attending Garrett County Community College. This past year's recipient was Sandra Brenneman.

The branch will resume monthly meetings in September and all area women holding a baccalaureate degree are invited to participate.

Rams Win Three More; To Enter Regional Tourney As Top Seed

Jim Bosley has been the head baseball coach of the Southern Rams for seven years, and for the seventh consecutive year, the Rams have qualified for the regional playoffs.

A state championship has eluded Bosley and his teams, however, and he is hoping that this year just might be the year. The Rams will enter the Region I Class B tournament this Saturday as the number one ranked team, holding a 16-4 record and having won 15 of their last 16 games.

The Rams wrapped up the regular season this past week with wins over Allegany, Bruce, and Northern to finish with a record number of victories for Southern in a single season.

Southern rallied to top Allegany in a make-up game Saturday morning in Oakland, 7-4, went on to edge visiting Bruce that same day, 5-4, and then rolled over the Northern Huskies on Tuesday, 10-0.

Southern was trailing the Campers 4-2 going into the bottom of the fourth when Bruce Bosley smacked a two-run double to tie the score.

A bases-load double by Chad King in the fifth inning completed the scoring and gave Southern the win.

Max Hill added a double and a single for the Rams, who finished with seven hits, while Jon Reneslacis yielded six hits enroute to his seventh win of the campaign without a loss.

Pacing the Campers' hitting were Bill Park, who had two safeties, and Geno Taylor, who recorded a two-run double. The loss dropped Allegany to 8-10.

Hill was the hero for the Rams in the game against the Bulldogs, as he provided an RBI single in the bottom of the seventh inning to break a 4-4 tie. Hill's hit sent home Donnie Horner, who had reached base on an error and moved to second on a sacrifice fly by Reneslacis.

Phil Spaulding, who relieved starter Dale Bittinger in the sixth, picked up his third win in four games on the mound. Terry Miller was the losing pitcher.

Eric Niland finished with a solo homer and a double for the Bulldogs.

The Southern jayvees upped their season record to 5-3 by defeating their Bruce counterparts, 5-1. Jason Park was credited with the win from the mound, his third of the season.

After just nipping the Northern Huskies earlier in the season, 6-5 in the eighth inning, the Rams proved to be too much for Coach John Helmick's squad on Tuesday. The contest was called after five innings because of the ten-run rule.

The Rams hammered out a dozen hits, including two doubles and a single by Reneslacis, three singles by J.R. Bosley, a double and single by Scott Lohr, and a two-run double by Tim Chapman.

Roger Bittinger smacked a double and a single for Northern.

J.R. Bosley, who pitched four of the five frames, earned his second win of the year without a loss. He was relieved in the fifth by Phil Spaulding. They allowed the Huskies six scattered hits.

Rodney Lipscomb, who was relieved by Kyle Zehr in the fourth, absorbed the defeat.

Because the Rams are the number one seed in the regional tournament, they will host their opening game this Saturday at 2 p.m. against Linganore. If they win this game, they will host the winner of the contest between Woodward, seeded second, and Walter Johnson, the third seed, on Tuesday at 4 p.m. Woodward and Walter Johnson schools are both located in Montgomery County.

If the Rams win the Region I title, they will then compete in the Maryland Class B semi-finals on the following Saturday, tentatively slated to be held in Frederick.

Bosley will send his pitching ace, Jon Reneslacis, to the mound against Linganore this Saturday. Linganore is 8-9 on the season, however Bosley did not have much information on this team by presstime.

"The calibre of baseball in their area is probably comparable to ours, but they have the advantage of much better weather," Bosley said.

It remains a surprise to Bosley that his 1986 team has been so successful this season, in view of the fact that there were only two starters back from last season's team and that Southern moved from Class C to Class B.

"I really never dreamed we would do this well," he said. "But we are really excited to be here and can hardly wait until Saturday."

The coach said he hopes "lots of Southern fans" are able to attend the game on Saturday, for which there is no admission charge.

Southern's Rolf, Nelson Advance To State Event

Although the Southern High School track team did not place among the top teams in the District I, Class B tournament on Saturday, two members of the Ram squad have qualified for the State tournament by virtue of their individual efforts.

Karen Nelson, who tossed the discus 94 and one-half feet, placed second in that event, while Scott Rolf cleared 11 feet in the pole vault for a second place finish. The pair will travel to Lackey High School in La Plata this Saturday for the state event.

Nelson also placed sixth in the girls shot put event, Clark Warnick captured sixth in the 1,600-meter run, Danny Jackson won sixth in the high jump, and Vicki Dilgard was sixth in the girls 10-meter dash.

UP AND OVER the bar at 11 feet goes pole vaulter Scott Rolf of the Southern High Rams during the District I Class B tournament held this past Saturday. Karen Nelson will also represent the Rams in the state event, having placed second in the girls discus throw at the district level.

The boys relay team, consisting of Joey Shaffer, Mike Mongold, Warnick, and Rolf, took a fifth place in the 4 by 200 event. Shaffer, Mongold, Rolf, and Tom Smith won sixth in the 4 by 100.

The Southern girls relay team was expected to participate in the 4 by 100 and 200 events, however team member Marci Police could not make the trip because of illness.

Heart And Sole Run Slated For Saturday, June 7

The Heart and Sole Classic, a ten-kilometer run to benefit the American Heart Association, will be held in Oakland on Saturday, June 7.

According to Elizabeth Hutson, of the Western Maryland office of the American Heart Association, the purpose of the event is two-fold: to raise money for support of the life-saving programs and research of the AHA and to make the general public aware of the cardiovascular benefits of running.

Steve Hile, formerly of Garrett County and now of Cumberland, and Don Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, both running enthusiasts, are assisting with the organization of the local event.

The Oakland run will begin at 9:30 a.m. near the pavilion in Broadford Park. It will proceed north on the Broadford Road, veer east on the Pysell Crosscut Road to a turnaround point, and follow the same course back to the starting line. It is the same course used for several years for the July 4 10-K run sponsored by the Garrett County Business and Professional Women's Club.

Applications and pledge sheets are now available at The Republican newspaper office and various other locations in Oakland, or from the Western Maryland Heart Office at 551 North Centre Street, P.O. Box 1114, Cumberland; telephone 724-4011.

Runners who desire to participate in the event may do so in two ways: by paying a flat $10 entrance fee or by collecting at least $25 in pledges. A wide variety of prizes is available to those who collect pledges.

Persons electing to pay the $10 flat fee will receive a t-shirt. Those who earn pledges of $25 to $50 will receive a t-shirt and AHA shoe laces; $51 to $100, a t-shirt and wrist watch wallet; $101 to $175, a t-shirt and line warm-up jacket; $176 to $275, a t-shirt and Walkman radio; and above $275, a t-shirt, Walkman radio, and fleece warm-up suit.

There will also be trophies awarded to the top male and female finishers in the race, plus ribbons to the top three finishers in several age categories, male and female. The trophies and ribbons have been donated by the local Bausch & Lomb facility.

Runners will also receive free refreshments.

Persons planning to participate are asked to complete an entry form and return to the Heart office by May 30. It is also requested that all pledges should be collected prior to the run and turned in between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. at the registration desk the morning of the run. All contributions are tax deductible.

Persons desiring more information may contact Don Sincell at 334-3965 (before 5 p.m.) or the Heart office at the above number.

MAKING PLANS for a 10-kilometer (6.2 mile) run to benefit the American Heart Association are, left to right, volunteers Steve Hile and Don Sincell, while Jack King, representing the local Bausch & Lomb facility, observes. The Heart and Sole Classic is slated to be run on Saturday, June 7, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at Broadford Park near Oakland. Runners may elect to pay a flat entrance fee of $10 or collect a minimum of $25 in pledges from area residents. Application blanks are available from the Western Maryland office of the American Heart Association in LaVale (see story) or at various locations in Oakland, including The Republican Newspaper Office. Bausch & Lomb is donating trophies and ribbons to be awarded to the winners of the event. Participants will also be awarded prizes by the Heart Association for pledges that are collected.

Southern Sports Banquet Slated

The annual Southern High School Athletic Awards Banquet will be held this Sunday, May 25, at 3 p.m. in the school cafetorium. The event is again being sponsored by the Southern Garrett Athletic Association.

Persons may obtain tickets for the banquet at Southern from 3 to 5 p.m. today and Friday, or they may contact John Hill after 5 p.m. at 334-3062.

Golf Winners Noted

The Men's Association of the Oakland Country Club held a 36-hole two-member competition this past week at the local course. The point system was used to determine the winners.

Bill Fredlock and Leo Mazzone placed first with a 10-point total, followed by Walt Wotherspoon and Carl Pfirrman, nine points; Mike Kildow and Junior Shillingburg, six points; Jeff Orr and Mike McHenry, one point; and Jim and Harold Ashby finished fifth with one point.

Also at the local course on Saturday, Nick Dzendzel carded a hole-in-one on number 13.

Police Report Local Incidents

Maryland State Police at McHenry this week are investigating several incidents which occurred in the area.

A destruction of property incident was reported by Edward D. Shuttleworth, Deer Park.

Police said someone vandalized Shuttleworth's van which was disabled along the roadway between May 5 and May 12.

The van, a 1979 Ford Futura, was parked along Route 50, one mile east of the Table Rock Road.

Tfc. C.R. Smith, who is investigating, reported that $300 worth of damage was done to the windshield, passenger window, and paint job of the van.

A breaking and entering theft occurred at a storehouse shed belonging to Charles J. Brandl, Pittsburgh, between May 4 and May 17.

Tfc. Larry Rosage is investigating.

A theft occurred at the residence of William P. Keller, Friendsville, between May 5 and May 8.

Police said property was taken from a van parked on Keller's lawn.

Stolen items included cash, a flannel quilted jacket, and a pair of sunglasses. Total loss reached $132.

Parents Asked To Complete Program Survey

During the past school year, a committee of parents, teachers, and administrators has been meeting to formulate an elementary guidance plan for Garrett County. This committee was formed in response to a Maryland State Board of Education mandate which calls for the establishment of a coordinated program of pupil services for all students. Such programs are to include guidance services for students in grades K-12.

The programs are to encompass the following goals: (1) To facilitate the personal and academic growth of all students; (2) To ensure the development of educational and career decision-making skills of all students; and (3) To promote the development of interpersonal skills among all students.

Before developing a guidance program for elementary students of Garrett County, the local committee has decided to conduct a needs assessment of elementary students, teachers, and parents. Several needs assessments were screened by committee members and one assessment was adopted.

Employees of the Garrett County Board of Education have been trained to administer the survey which will be completed by a sampling of students in first through fifth grades during the last two weeks of May. All elementary teachers and all parents of elementary students will also be asked to complete a survey.

A member of the committee said, "These surveys are essential to the committee in establishing a need for an elementary guidance program and in developing a suitable program for Garrett County students. Therefore, we are urging all parents to take time to complete the surveys and to return them to their local elementary school.

Local Educator Earns Award At Alpha Beta Event

Roseanne Sherwood, member of Alpha Alpha Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma Society International, was recently named recipient of the Founder's Scholarship at the Alpha Beta State Convention held in Frederick.

Mrs. Sherwood has taught at Accident Elementary School for 15 years. She earned her bachelor's and master's degrees at Frostburg State College and has completed 30 hours of graduate study beyond her master's degree.

This summer, Mrs. Sherwood will be enrolled in an educational computing class offered at Frostburg. Her scholarship was awarded for summer graduate work.

A member of Alpha Alpha since December 1979, she served as secretary of the chapter from 1982 to 1986. In May she was installed as the second vice president for the 1986-88 biennium. On the state level she has served on the minutes review committee and is the region one member of the nominations committee.

Mrs. Sherwood is married to Richard Sherwood and they reside in Accident.

Correction Noted

In a story concerning the Garrett County Planning Commission's reviewing of the Rachuba-prepared economic impact report on the proposed PRD plan, it was incorrectly stated, due to a typographical error, that the proposed 150-room hotel would produce permanent employment for 550 employees. It should have read 50 employees. We regret the error.

Applications For Food Distribution Being Accepted

The Garrett County Community Action Committee is now taking applications for the June Surplus Commodity Distribution.

Eligibility is based upon household size and income. Households that received a surplus commodity card in March do not need to re-apply. Also, households that have had a change in size, address or income should contact the Community Action Office, 334-9431.

All new applications and information changes must be submitted to Community action by June 4, 1986.

Rev. John Grant, of St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park, will give the invocation at the beginning of the open house and Fr. Martin Feild, of St. Peter's Catholic Church, will give the benediction at 7 p.m.

During the open house the Garrett Highlander Pipe Band will perform. The public is invited to see the house, and share light refreshments.

How To Avoid The Dog House When Building A Log Home

HERE'S SOME HELPFUL TIPS:

1. To end up with a quality house you must start with a quality product. Consider logs, for instance. According to the U.S. Forestry Service, as reported in the Log Home Guide, Cedar logs are the best, followed by kiln dried Pine, preferably Eastern White Pine. At A&A Construction we offer both Cedar and White Pine.
2. Air—One of the biggest problems with log construction—you can't see it, but you can sure feel it. At A&A Construction we have the experience to eliminate the air infiltration problem with expert building techniques and products.
3. Settling, warping and twisting—It's been our experience to witness some severe problems of openings in walls and around windows and doors, most of which resulted from poor construction or use of inferior wood species like Yellow Pine, Spruce, or Hardwoods. Unfortunately, the log housing industry has suffered from Johnny-Come-Latelys who produce an inferior product that only looks good.

At A&A Construction we've served our apprenticeship in the log housing business, being one of the first to offer log homes in this area. If you are considering building a log home, we can help you. And save you money as well. We'll keep you out of the dog house.

P.S. We'll build the house, you make it a home.

He talked about two organizations aimed to prevent crime and HELP—Green Hands to help small children by residents of the community. The Neighborhood Watch asks that all residents be vigilant and report to the police any suspicious activities in the streets, residences, business buildings, etc. The Green Hands helps small children that may be lost in the streets and need guidance to their home, parents, school. Officer Feather is requesting support from every organization and all citizens to make these projects a success.

A "Neighborhood Watch" sign may be seen in several places around town to remind everyone that their alertness may prevent a crime. Bumper stickers may also be obtained from the police.

The second program was presented by Susan Sisler, a guest of Steve Forsythe. She belongs to the Cranesville Swamp Committee and spoke about the recent interest in making the swamp accessible to visitors. Crawford Speaks To Armed Forces In West Berlin

Susan J. Crawford, General Counsel of the U.S. Army, was the Law Day speaker to an international group of American and allies armed forces in West Berlin last week. Included in the group were members of the Judge Advocate General's staff, members of the British, French, and German judiciaries, and German civilian attorneys.

Crawford had attended a White House ceremony in April at which President Ronald Reagan signed this year's Law Day Proclamation stating the theme: Foundations of Freedom. During her speech, Crawford stated, "This theme has special significance in terms of West Berlin which stands as an outpost of freedom and a symbol of courage and commitment to people throughout the world."

From Berlin, Crawford traveled to NATO Headquarters in Belgium and then to Heidelburg, Headquarters of the U.S. Army in Europe, where she met with officials.

This is her sixth trip to West Germany since she became General Counsel in October 1983. Her official duties have also taken her to Korea, Japan, and Central America.

A former resident of Garrett County and member of an Oakland law firm, Crawford now resides in Falls Church, Va., with her husband, Roger Higgins, and daughter, Kelley. She is the daughter of Bill and Joan Crawford, Deep Creek Lake.

Yough Mountain Lake Property Owners Discuss Restorations

At the latest meeting of the Youghiogheny Mountain Resort, a division of Piney Mountain Corporation, the property owners were given hope as to the restoration of the resort area.

Chairman of the property owners association, Jean DeAugustine, reports that actions now in progress include road cleanup and filling in of pot holes, with road crews beginning work last Monday.

Much of the road equipment is being repaired and should be on the road shortly.

The gate is being repaired and a new unit will be installed. Residents will no longer be able to get in without a key-card. DeAugustine reminds residents that it will be necessary to keep their key-card in their car at all times. "If a resident no longer has a key-card, one is available in the office for a $5 fee," she reported.

Bumper stickers are being considered as identification on all vehicles, bikes, motor homes, snowmobiles, three wheelers, and automobiles.

Residents are asked to carry a pencil and paper in their cars at all times to write the license numbers of unauthorized vehicles they see in the resort. DeAugustine warns that residents should not attempt to stop any vehicle, but should turn the license number over to the office. They will follow through with a trace to find out if the vehicle is illegal.

The Garrett County Sheriff's office will periodically patrol the resort, and property owners are trying to organize a local neighborhood watch. A date for a meeting on this will be announced later.

The property owners hope that perhaps these actions will prevent the recurrence of robberies and injuries which have taken place recently in the resort.

The office is working on a new pay telephone to be installed at the gate for the use of residents without phones and for guests coming in who must be met at the gate for entry.

The present mailbox system will be scrapped and a new system installed. More information on this can be found in the property owners' newsletter.

PHOSPHATE WITHDRAWAL - PART II

With the new phosphate ban in Maryland, home launderers may be experiencing problems with their clothes and household textiles. Some solutions to possible problems were offered last week. The following suggestions will help you in achieving a cleaner wash, even with the phosphate ban.

FOLLOWING GENERAL GUIDELINES

*Avoid overloading the washer. Use water-level control for less than full loads, but make sure you have enough water for effective cleaning.

*Select washing temperature based on the kind and amount of soil, detergent fiber content, finishes and dyes. The hotter the water, the better a detergent cleans.

*Measure detergent and laundry aids carefully. For best results, add carbonate detergent to wash water and agitate to dissolve it before adding clothes.

*Avoid soil buildup. Launder items more frequently, so they will be easier to clean.

*Check labels, and select fabrics with a soil-release finish when possible. Follow instructions on care labels carefully.

*If you are in a moderately hard to hard water area, avoid carbonate-built detergents and use liquid laundry detergents. Also, you may want to consider conditioning your water.

USING LAUNDRY AIDS

*Use prewash sprays or concentrated liquid detergents to pretreat soiled areas of textiles before washing.

*Presoak stained and heavily soiled clothes.

*Add laundry boosters or a buffer to increase the effectiveness of the detergent. Buffers help maintain the alkalinity needed for successful cleaning, and boosters add some of the same components that are in detergents.

*Use chlorine bleach on white textiles to preserve whiteness if the label does not warn against bleach.

*Use sodium perborate powdered bleach (such as Clorox 2, Biz Bleach and Snowy) and liquid hydrogen peroxide bleach (such as Snow and Vivid) regularly to prevent gradual discoloration. They are not as strong as chlorine bleach and are safe for most fabrics.

*Add fabric softeners to decrease the harshness of fabrics washed in carbonate-built detergents and moderately hard to hard water. Fewer wrinkles and less static electricity result.

*Use a sanatizer (like Lysol Laundry Sanitizor) or 2 tablespoons of chlorine bleach in the wash water to help kill bacteria. That amount of bleach in a full load will not affect the color of most items.

The ban on phosphate-built detergents will be a hardship for some consumers. Coping with the ban is going to require knowledge, time, effort and money. Sort, pretreat, choose detergents and laundry aids carefully, and follow good laundry practices to get acceptably clean laundry without phosphates.

The Scholarship Bank announces a new 800 number program for high school and college students needing instant access to private scholarships and loans.

According to The Scholarship Bank, over 500 million dollars in private financial aid is available to students in the form of scholarships, grants, summer internships and loans. The average dollar value of each grant is over $1,000 and the bank will send students in excess of 65 separate grant applications. According to the director, students may qualify on the basis of major, occupational goal, geographic preferences, type of aid requested, religion, parent's union, military or employer background, and whether the student is willing to work in an internship, enter a contest or conduct specific research. Numerous grants are given by trade groups and corporations to students with a specific major or an expressed willingness to work for the donor following graduation.

Students should call 800-332-4432 and will then receive applications to fill out. Students applying for fall aid should plan to have completed scholarship applications returned to the individual donors no later than May 1, although some may have earlier deadlines.

According to the director, over 30,000 students have used the services of the bank, a nationwide non-profit organization. Students may also send a stamped, self addressed envelope to 4626 N. Grand, "J" Covina, CA. 91724

MSP To Begin New Highway Safety Effort

Maryland State Police are gearing up for the busy summer traffic season with the announcement of a new four-month pilot program aimed at "beefing up" the overall highway traffic enforcement effort.

Beginning June 4, Maryland State Police says it will deploy a specialized Motorcycle Enforcement Unit (MEU) which will expand various traffic enforcement programs on the interstate highway system. As a specialized patrol, the Motorcycle Enforcement Unit will be used in areas where accident data indicates the need for a greater emphasis on reductions in the number of motor vehicle accidents. The unit will also play an active role in the effort to reduce the number of traffic law violations in select problem areas where speed and alcohol have been identified as contributing factors in highway accidents. The unit will also participate in selective enforcement of hazardous moving violations on targeted highways where radar enforcement efforts have proven to be successful.

In announcing the pilot program, State Police Superintendent Colonel George B. Brosan said, "We are very encouraged by the development of this pilot project which will provide us an opportunity to augment our current highway safety programs. It is our hope that this new Motorcycle Enforcements Unit will enhance traffic safety on our highways."

"OH REALLY? I THOUGHT IT WAS HIGHWAY 55 AND THE SPEED LIMIT WAS 85."

Info On Respiratory Diseases Available From "Lung Line"

An estimated 42,000 children in Maryland have unpredictable attacks that leave them feeling "hungry for air." They are victims of asthma. Many of their parents have questions: How will household cleaners and chemicals affect my child's disease? Should the family move to a different climate to alleviate the symptoms? Are there any new treatments available?

In most cases, answers are available through Lung Line, a toll-free information service operated by the National Jewish Center for Immunology and Respiratory Medicine (formerly National Jewish Hospital/National Asthma Center) of Denver.

Lung Line, the nation's first consumer help line for respiratory and immune system problems, can be reached at 1-800-222-LUNG. It provides expert help from specially trained nurses who staff the phones Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., mountain time. These nurses are prepared to answer questions about detection, care and prevention of such diseases as asthma, chronic bronchitis, juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, food allergies and other respiratory and immune-system disorders.

If a nurse does not know an answer or does not have the information readily available, physicians and researchers at National Jewish are available for consultation. The nurse gets the answer and then follows up with the caller.

During off hours, an operator asks for the caller's name, phone number and question, and a nurse returns the call the next business day.

Since its inception in June 1983, Lung Line has handled nearly 800 calls from Maryland. "The majority of questions from parents concern asthma, since it is the leading cause of time missed from school," said Margie Kessler, R.N., coordinator of Lung Line.

Asthma affects an estimated 11.3 million children and adults in the United States and is one of the reasons that lung diseases are the third leading and fastest rising cause of death in the United States.

SUCCESSFUL COOKIE SALE — Brownie Scout Tooop No. 5523 hold the distinction of having the highest average per girl sale of cookies in the 1986 Girl Scout Cookie Sale in the Lafayette District. All Girl Scouts of Southwestern Pennsylvania sold an average of 70 boxes per girl. Troop No. 5523 averaged 124. For their efforts, they received a check for $25 from the Girl Scouts of Southwestern Pennsylvania. They may use the money for any program activity they choose. Troop No. 5523 is small, so they had to work hard to be able to participate in the "Grand Girl Scout Get-Together" held recently at Camp Hickory. They plan to visit Laurel Caverns and Fort Necessity National Battlefield in the future to help them learn about their country and its heritage. Pictured above, left to right, front row, are Brownies Salena White, Maryann Wolfe and Jennifer Shillingburg; second row, leaders Linda Wolfe and Donna White.

Something To Think About
R. Mark Durst
DIRECTOR

SHOULD THE BODY BE VIEWED?

Some people have strong views on this question and these should be respected. Others have no firm commitment one way or the other, and would answer such a question on the basis of circumstances. For these people, we would offer the following advice, based on many years of experience.

If the body can be made viewable, it should be viewed. It serves a number of very helpful and constructive purposes. In cases where the decendent has been living away from home, or confined to a distant medical institution, viewing can provide the confirmation that death has occurred.

It provides a way to recall the loved one as he or she should be remembered—free of the evidence of pain, wasting, or injury. Viewing is likewise considered therapeutic for people. It is especially helpful for a child who has experienced the death of one loved. Instead of relying on imagination, the child can begin to comprehend the real meaning of death.

Please tell me about James O'Sullivan, the actor who plays lawyer Pete O'Neill on "One Life to Live." — E.K., Kelowna, British Columbia, Canada.

Next time you're watching Betty White play dim-witted Rose on "The Golden Girls," pay attention to the dialogue she has about her deceased husband, Charlie. If you're moved by how the 37-year TV veteran delivers her lines, you'll be responding not just to Miss White's abundant acting talent, but to her real-life feelings about her former husband.

Betty White

White's husband, "Password" host Allen Ludden, died of cancer in 1981. They were married 18 years, and the actress helped raise his three children from a previous marriage.

"Rose's whole relationship with her husband, Charlie, was my relationship with Allen," says White, 63. "Just a wonderful, wonderful marriage.

"Trying to make a life after a relationship like that is difficult for both Rose and Betty," the actress adds. "But both are survivors."

White explains that the "Golden Girls" scripts had another close-to-home parallel for both her and co-star Bea Arthur, who plays Dorothy. Just as the show began its first season, the elderly mothers of both actresses died after long illnesses.

"For six weeks, the scripts called for heavy mother-daughter relationships for Rose and Dorothy when our own mothers were at their sickest," says White. "Bea and I would look at each other every time we picked up the scripts, trying to separate the stories from life. It was very difficult at times because my mother was my best friend. Then, just two weeks apart, both our mothers passed on."

Since then, however, White adds that the NBC series has been an absolute joy. "Sometimes I feel like calling the producers and demanding a pay cut because we're having so much fun," she says. "It feels like stealing to take the money."

When the actress is not reveling in her plumb job, she says she's spending most of her time working on improvements to her two homes; her favorite one is in Carmel, Calif.

"It's right on the ocean and I go there every three weeks," she says. "I can see the gray whales migrating and the sea otters patrolling the beach from my bedroom window. It took two years to plan and build, and I'm everlastingly grateful that Allen got to sleep in it for a couple of nights."

Aretha Franklin is one of the many performers who participate in "America Picks the #1 Songs," a live special in which Billboard magazine's number-one rated songs are judged. Dick Clark hosts the show which airs Wednesday, May 28 on ABC.

Rita's daughter is a real-life princess

By Cindy Adams

Yasmin Aga Khan is no fairy princess. She's the hard-working, poor little rich girl who left her husband Basil Embiricos shortly after their wedding, whose mother Rita Hayworth is an advanced victim of Alzheimer's disease, whose Alzheimer's benefit at the Pierre Hotel will find Yasmin "without an escort," and, so far, "Without anything to wear because I still must lose five pounds."

Yasmin Aga Khan

The stunning princess says her 4-month-old son Andrew "giggles, loves people and never cries. He looks like my dad (Aly Khan). He's got a widow's peak." Does her mom know about her grandson? "I put him in mother's lap," Yasmin recalls, "but there was no reaction. She is unable to understand." Yasmin is gung-ho on finding a cure for the dreaded disease. On Sept. 4 and 5, she'll be in Paris for Alzheimer's International. Representatives from Australia, Belgium, France, Britain and Canada will attend. On Nov. 7, 1985, she's booked into a fundraiser in Dallas. Says the princess: "I will devote all my energies to this fight. It's my life's work."

Candice Bergen Malle attended the opening night of "Social Security," the new Broadway comedy starring Marlo Thomas, and gushed: "I'm just back from Paris. I took my 5-month-old daughter so she can learn to speak French as early as possible."

Rita Hayworth

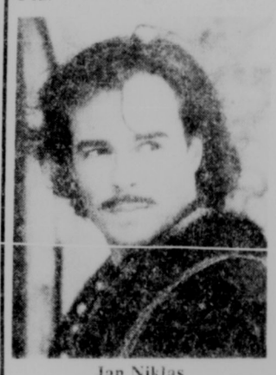
... The Andy Griffith-Jim Nabors-Don Knotts nostalgia trip, "Return to Mayberry," was so successful that it's booked for two reruns. Some showfolk want to stick it in theaters as a live show.

It's music to the ears when Leonard Bernstein conducts the Vienna Philharmonic in the second of three programs of Brahms orchestral music. This week, Gidon Kremer guest solos on the show, airing Friday, May 30 in PBS. (Check local listings.)

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

I'd like to know something about Jan Niklas, the actor who played the young Peter the Great in the recent NBC miniseries. Do you also know his address? — J.T., Naples, Fla.



Jan Niklas

Niklas was born in Munich, and studied acting at the prestigious Max Reinhardt School in Berlin. He is a well-known actor on German television. The actor has also had extensive stage credits in his homeland, where he performed in works ranging from Camus to Tennessee Williams. You may have spotted Niklas in the films "21 Hours to Munich" (1976) and "Night Crossing" (1981). You can send your letters to him c/o NBC, Burbank, CA 91505. Hopefully, the network will forward his letters.

I'm a big fan of Tracey Gold, the actress who plays Carol on "Growing Pains." Someone suggested you might be able to offer me her address. What's the scoop? — J.M., Halifax, Nova Scotia

Glad to help. Gold, who was born in New York City and raised in Southern California, can be reached c/o The Burbank Studios, Burbank, CA 91505. A bit of trivia: Did you know the actress has an extensive James Dean memorabilia collection?

What was the name of the series in which Dom DeLuise played a custodian for a New York City bus company? — W.J., Jamestown, N.Y.

The series was called "Lotsa Luck," and it ran on NBC from 1973-74.

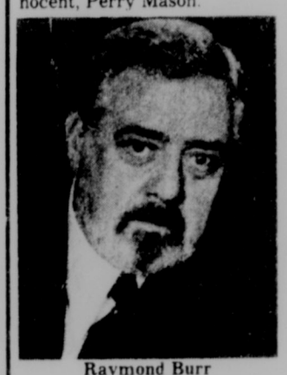
HOLLYWOOD REPORT

Verdict is in: Burr returns as Mason

By Ian Harmer

A hurricane that swept through Raymond Burr's Fiji estate, causing half a million dollars' worth of uninsured damage, receives credit for the actor's belated return to TV as that defender of the innocent, Perry Mason.



Raymond Burr

Since one of his many recent roles has been as a pitchman for an insurance company, Burr is quick to point out that it wasn't his fault that the ill wind dealt a severe blow to his bank balance. His partners in his South Seas venture overlooked the premium when it came due.

The actor, who moved to Fiji soon after his second hit series, "Ironside," went off the air in 1975, says his relocation was never intended to signal his retirement. He came out of exile frequently — he tackled a variety of stage, TV and movie projects — but preferred not to accept any commitment which would keep him away from his tropica paradise for too long. The hu ricane helped persuade Bur to cut back on his Fiji inves ments and spend more time a his new home in California wine country, and that, in turn made him more accessible t his old pals in Hollywood.

"Perry Mason: Case of th Notorious Nun," airing Su day, May 25 on NBC, come hot on the heels of last Novem ber's "Perry Mason Returns which shot to the top of the ra ings and ranked as the secon highest-rated TV movie of th 1985-86 season.

This month's movie is th second in what is intended be a series of five full-leng Mason mysteries — and the is even talk of reviving "Iro side" in a similar format.

"I couldn't be happier," sa Burr. "Back in the old days always wanted to do at lea one two-hour show a seaso because the books on which t series was based includ plenty of material which sim ply wouldn't fit into a singl episode format. But I nev got my way. We ended produ tion in 1966, and the followi year, I had 'Ironside' to thi about.

"I've never been opposed the idea of doing Perry Mas again," the actor adds, "bu wanted the best script pos ble, and to work with as mu of the old team as possible didn't want Mason's return be just a gimmick. We had have a good story to hook people who tuned in out of n talgia or curiosity, and the r ings prove we did that. It' challenge to see if we can d again and again. I think we ... or I wouldn't be here!"

Brown is proud to direct 'good shows'

By Frank Lovece

Director Georg Stanford Brown is no longer a rookie. He hasn't been for years. After he gained prominence playing novice cop Terry Webster in "The Rookies" (1972-76), Brown started channeling his talents elsewhere. He's since directed countless episodes of "Hill Street Blues," "Miami Vice," "Dynasty" and "Lou Grant," winning two Emmy nominations and becoming one of TV's top directors.

Georg Stanford Brown

"Parting Shots," this week's cliffhanging episode of "Cagney & Lacey," will mark Brown's fifth time directing that series. Even though his wife, Tyne Daly, is one of the stars, and even though Brown has long since proven himself, he admits he still is "nervous about directing. As soon as you say 'cut,' you have all sorts of questions: Should I have done this or that? That kind of energy is a nervous energy, but," he adds, "it's also, I'm happy to say, a very exciting energy."

Brown's voice is a rich, d baritone. "I set out to be an tor," he says, "and there longing. Until recently, been very difficult for m call myself a director. But found it satisfying, and it f me emotionally and artisti ly; I would hate to thin would lose all sense of self purpose if I were not per ted to act."

Brown still gets the cha to act occasionally; most cently in the minise "North and South." Yet th year-old Brown, who stu at the American Musical Dramatic Academy be graduating to New York C Shakespeare Festival eventual success in epis TV, says that, "In the m media, the representatio people of color has not great.

"It's frustrating," he co ues, "to be any kind of m ity in this country, becaus ery day you're const reminded that you do n the picture. It's easier fo than others; celebrity you a little edge. But wat television gets really repu at times. It's hard to a that you can make a pi that takes place in Los An that does not include, ev the background, a samp the 51 percent Latino po tion there! "With the good shows can always question this there is a concerted effo the part of some produce change this attitude. One blessings of directing," says, "is that I've gotten some of those good shows

Hirsch and Little lear how to age gracefull

By Marc Minnelli

The show has everything: two major stars (Judd Hirsch and Cleavon Little), witty dialogue from the award-winning playwright Herb Gardner ("A Thousand Clowns") and a splendiferous Central Park set created by Tony-winning scenic designer Tony Walton ("Pippin").

OUR LEGACY FROM THE MEDICINE MAN

Who would ever think on entering today's streamlined pharmacy that many of the medicines available had their early beginnings with the medicine man. Of course they have undergone many changes and refinements. In early days Indians chewed on roots or leaves of certain plants in order to extract a "magic substance". This later evolved to a "more sophisticated" technique of cooking the roots for hours and then boiling down the resultant liquid.

Thousands of years have passed since these earliest processes were begun. Our contemporary drugs may bear little resemblance to their crude ancestors. But many of the basic chemical substances originate back to the medicine man.

"A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?"

Medicare, Rural Elderly Hearing Set For June 9

There will be a field hearing on June 9 of the Subcommittee on Housing and Consumer Interests of the Congressional House Select Committee on Aging. The local Area Agency on Aging and Department of Health representatives urge participation in this meeting for the specific purpose of assessing the quality of health care available to the rural elderly under the Medicare Program.

The meeting will be held at 9 a.m. in Cumberland at the Allegany Community College, Willowbrook Road. Transportation will be available on a first-come, first-serve basis through the Area Agency on Aging.

Presentations will be made by the three western Maryland counties of Garrett, Allegany and Washington. "If you have had problems with recent Medicare changes which impact significantly in admission, discharge and deductibles for senior citizens now is your opportunity to show your concern," stated an Agency spokesman.

"Your support is necessary in making this an effective hearing. Participation will be as significant as testimony from county professionals and administrators," the spokesman said.

For transportation persons may call 334-9431, extension 225, by 4 p.m. on June 2.

Survey Results Of Potomac Basin Are Announced

The results of the North Branch Potomac River public opinion survey have been announced by the interstate commission on the Potomac River Basin (ICPRB).

The results of this survey summarize the opinions of 352 people living in the North Branch Potomac River area, specifically Allegany and Garrett counties in Maryland, and Grant and Mineral counties in West Virginia. The North Branch area residents were interviewed by phone during a six-week period in the spring of 1985 by 43 volunteers, mostly students and faculty members of Potomac State and Frostburg State colleges.

The key objective of the survey was to obtain guidance for future environmental education efforts. The general conclusion drawn from the survey was that future environmental education efforts should be aimed at:

(1) Clarifying the specific problems of the nature of acid mine drainage and soil erosion, as well as improving the public's general understanding of the watershed in which they live and its relationship to the Chesapeake Bay;

(2) Disseminating more public information on which agencies to contact when confronted with water pollution (particularly soil erosion) and flooding problems;

(3) Promoting improved awareness, value, and utilization of Bloomington Lake;

(4) Improving the understanding of the various options, costs and benefits of enhanced recreational opportunities in the area.

In summarizing the findings, the report shows that most people's sense of geographical location is narrow, that their sense of living in a watershed is minimal. Even though many respondents placed a value on the North Branch Potomac, and although roughly half say they live within 10 miles of it and find it easily accessible, few were able to identify the direction of the river's flow (northeast) or the location of the Potomac's mouth (Chesapeake Bay).

The respondents gave the North Branch Potomac water quality a somewhat better rating than the actual river monitoring data warrants. Half of the respondents rated the North Branch Potomac's water quality "fair" or "good," while technical water quality monitoring data analysis and judgments of professionals rank the water only in the "poor-fair" range.

The report showed that while many are familiar with the term "acid mine drainage," and acknowledge it as a serious water pollution problem, the survey responses reflect that the respondents are not sufficiently familiar with the nature of it.

The respondents seem to be generally aware of whom to contact when confronted with most water pollution problems, but appear to need more information on flooding and soil erosion.

While many of the respondents were familiar with, and had visited Bloomington Lake, the reason for its construction and its significant impact on the water quality of the North Branch was not clear to them. The responses also suggest that the public is not generally aware of the multiple-benefits of water projects. The responses confirmed that Bloomington Lake is an underutilized resource.

At the time of the survey, the respondents ranked the economy as the most serious of concerns, with environmental concerns ranking second in importance, particularly stream/river pollution resulting from acid mine drainage. Over half of the respondents believe environmental problems should be solved by a combination of local, state and federal governments. Most of the respondents stated that they believe the government should spend the same or more on environmental problems.

Fishing, swimming, camping and hiking, and hunting are the preferred recreational activities for the respondents. More than half of them pursue recreation activities within the county where they live. The majority of them believe that recreational opportunities should be for the benefit of residents and non-residents alike.

Full copies of the "North Branch Potomac Public Opinion Survey" (30 pages plus appendices) are available free, on request, from the ICPRB.

Tuition Money Available For Summer Classes

The New Horizons Program, a Single/Parent/Displaced Homemaker Project, sponsored by Maryland State Department of Vocational/Technical Education and Garrett Community College, announces the availability of tuition money for summer credit classes at Garrett Community College in vocational training. Credit tuition assistance is a new addition to the program this funding year and the New Horizons' staff is ready to make that money available to persons who qualify for the program and who are interested in credit classes in the vocational area.

To qualify as a client to receive this assistance an individual would have to be: a single parent (working or non-working) who is unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and has a minor child or children for which the parent has either custody or joint custody or, a homemaker who is an adult and who has worked primarily in the home to care for the home and family, and for that reason has diminished marketable skills. Special consideration is given to individuals who are separated, divorced, or widowed and who are considered to be displaced homemakers.

Arrangements have also been made to assist clients with the purchase of materials to be used in taking classes up to $20 per class on college books for credit classes.

There is a small amount of money left for child care and/or transportation assistance for low-income eligible clients as well.

To learn more about the New Horizons Program or to determine eligibility for assistance, persons may contact New Horizons between the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays at 334-9184, or visit the New Horizons Office at the Oakland Branch of GCC in Room 607.

Counties Share Alcohol, Tobacco Tax Revenues

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein reported that alcohol and tobacco tax revenues for the first ten months of fiscal year 1986, totaled $72.5 million. That's down slightly from the $72.7 million collected for the same period of fiscal year, 1985.

"while tax revenues for tobacco products and distilled spirits were down, the revenues for beer and wine showed slight increases," said Goldstein.

In addition, the comptroller reports that Baltimore City and Maryland's 23 counties received checks totaling $5,187,557 as their share of distilled spirits, beer and cigarette tax revenues for the third quarter of fiscal year 1986.

Garrett County received $17,731.38 in tobacco tax revenue, $4,948.22 in beer tax revenue, and $3,728.03 in distilled spirits tax revenue for the third quarter.

According to Goldstein, "Maryland's subdivisions have now received $18,142,817 in these revenues for the first three quarters of the current fiscal year. This total represents an increase of six-tenths of one percent over the comparable nine months of last year."

The $3,233,222 derived from the beer tax increased over the previous year's nine month distribution by 2%. The distilled spirits tax distribution of $3,741,169 increased by 1.4% and the $11,168,426 provided by the tobacco tax showed a slight decline from the same period of the previous year.

Distribution of cigarette tax revenue is based on a formula returning three cents of the 13¢ per pack tax to the subdivisions, based on population. One-third of the $1.50 per gallon distilled spirits tax and approximately one-half of the nine cents per gallon beer tax is returned to the subdivisions, based on delivery to retail licensees within the subdivisions.

Former County Teacher Earns Doctorate Degree

Mike McLaughlin, former teacher and counselor in the Garrett County schools system, has recently completed her doctorate in counseling psychology at West Virginia University, having successfully defended her dissertation before the doctoral committee.

The dissertation entitled "Stress Factors and Coping Strategies for Women Engaged in Multiple Role Life Styles" involved research and interview with career women who are wives and mothers to determine how they perform their multiple roles. These interviews were conducted in Garrett County, Morgantown and Falls Church, Va. Women who participated in this research will receive copies of the study in the near future.

McLaughlin has been invited to present her dissertation before the American Psychological Association Convention in Washington, D.C. in August, one of a select few to receive that distinction. She is currently completing a one-year clinical internship at the University of Maine Counseling Center in Orono.

Before entering the doctoral program at West Virginia University, McLaughlin had been a counselor at Northern Middle School, Northern and Southern high schools, and an elementary teacher at Center Street and Broad Ford schools. She holds a B.S. degree in journalism from West Virginia University and a M.S. degree in counseling psychology from Frostburg State College.

She is married to Keith McLaughlin and is the mother of two daughters, Erin and Katie. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, Deep Creek Lake.

Those who graduated this year include: Esther Aronhalt, Gene and Patsy Bevis, Randy and Susan Cavallier, Stacy Paugh, Audra Kitzmiller, Bud and Irene Whetsell and Paul and Freda Windell. The caller for the group is Bob Boswell. NEW GRASS beginning to grow in the center of this sod waterway will help prevent water runoff and erosion which will reduce the loss of topsoil and help prevent water pollution.

Sod Waterways, Diversions Control Erosion And Help Reduce Pollution

Sod waterways and diversions are two methods used to conserve water, control erosion, and reduce pollution of land and water from agricultural non-point sources.

Diversions are practiced on farmland which is subject to erosion from excess surface or subsurface water runoff, while sod waterways are used to safely convey excess surface runoff water in a way that will reduce erosion.

Some cost-sharing is available for establishing these erosion preventatives. For diversions this would include ditches or dikes and any subsurface drains that may be necessary for this method to function properly. Also included could be the installation of any pipe, chutes, underground or other outlets if they are needed for the ditch or dike to function, for a more even flow or to protect the outlets from erosion.

Cost-sharing, however, is not authorized for ditches or dikes designed to hold water for later use or that will be part of a regular irrigation system.

Finished diversions should be smooth enough to allow machine mowing and planted with a good grass cover.

Grass waterway cost-sharing is used for the site preparation, grading, shaping, filling, and the establishment of a permanent vegetative cover.

That cover may consist of sod-forming grasses, legumes, mixtures of grasses and legumes, or other types of cover that will provide the needed protection from erosion.

Both of the above practices should be maintained for a minimum of ten years to be eligible for cost-sharing.

Once the vegetative growth is established, the Soil Conservation Service gives some maintenance tips to protect the investment and the environment.

Most plantings fail, they say, because of the lack of fertilization or improper mowing. Plant food is manufactured and stored in the leaves. Cutting grass too short deprives it of the food needed to develop and maintain a strong root system.

They advise farmers to inspect the planting in the early spring and late summer and to make any necessary repairs, reseedings, and replacements during the planting season.

If the stand provides less than 90 percent soil coverage, they suggest that it be overseeded and refertilized using half the original applied rates.

If the stand is more than 60 percent damaged, they suggest it be reestablished, following the original fertilizer, seedbed preparation, planting time, and seeding recommendations.

The area should be fertilized in the spring according to soil test results. The area should be mowed, not for appearance sake, but to control weeds. Mowing legumes, however, is not recommended, as it removes the leaves where plant food is manufactured.

Grass in waterways and diversions should be maintained at a height of between six to 12 inches. Shorter grass will not provide enough protection against erosion, and taller grass will fall over on itself and die.

It is also suggested that mowing be avoided during wildlife nesting season, April 15 to July 15. Much vegetation serves double duty by providing food and habitat for wildlife as well as enhancing an area's natural beauty.

More specific information on waterways and diversions, their planting and care, can be obtained from the Garrett County office of the SCS by phoning 334-1900.

Search Begins For Garrett-Allegany Dairy Princess

All single young women between the ages of 16 and 22, and from a dairy farm background in either Garrett or Allegany counties, are eligible to compete for the title of 1986 Garrett-Allegany Dairy Princess.

The contestant selected as the Garrett-Allegany Dairy Princess will then compete at the state level for the title of Maryland Dairy Princess. The new Maryland State Dairy Princess will be crowned on July 31 at the Frederick Sheraton Inn in Frederick. The present State Dairy Princess, Sheila Bender, of Accident, will crown the new princess.

Since 1961, 25 state princesses and hundreds of local princesses have served as spokespersons for the dairy industry in Maryland. They appear at shopping malls, fairs, supermarkets and on radio and television to educate consumers about the dairy farmers' product.

Any single young woman, who has completed her junior year in high school, is not over 22 years of age, and whose parents or guardians have been engaged in dairy farming within the last four years, are encouraged to enter the competition.

The winner of the Maryland State Dairy Princess Pageant receives a $600 cash award. The first runner-up receives a $75 award and other finalists receive $35.

The outstanding presentation/skit and "Miss Congeniality" receive $15 each. The state title is honorary and does not involve the interruption of school or employment plans.

Young women interested in entering the Garrett-Allegany County Dairy Princess Contest should call 895-5952 or 826-8174, or contact the Garrett County Extension office at 334-1990. The deadline for entering is June 5.

ASCS Reminds Farmers Of ACR Requirements

The 1985 commodity programs require farmers to remove a certain percentage of cropland from production and devote the acreage to conservation uses. By diverting crop acreages, the programs are expected to help control excess wheat and feed grain and maintain a better balance between supply and demand.

"We have rules and regulations for determining the eligibility of cropland taken out of production to meet the acreage reduction requirements," Olin S. Davis Jr., chairperson of the Maryland State ASC Committee said. "When designating land for the acreage conservation reserve, (ACR) farmers should remember that these acres must meet certain eligibility requirements."

He said the land must have been devoted to row crops or small grains in two of the past three years. For summer fallow acreage, the cropping requirement is one of the last two years.

"Farmers need to be sure that their ACR land meets this cropping requirement within the specified time frame." Land designated as ACR under a previous year's program is considered to have been planted in the year designated.

After program participants meet their acreage reduction requirements they are required to establish and maintain approved vegetative cover or conservation practices on their ACR to protect it from wind and water erosion. Approved vegetative covers include annual, biennial, or preennial grasses and legumes, volunteer stands other than weeds, small grains, and crop residue from the use of no-till or minimum-till practices.

Davis said these acres also may be devoted to a conservation practice such as trees, sod waterways, filter strips and windbreaks, if installed in the current year or the fall of preceding year.

Under the 1986 farm program contract, approved cover must be established on ACR land as soon as possible after the normal planting period for spring crops. The ASCS official said program participants who do not meet the ACR requirements will be out of compliance and could lose program benefits.

Rebecca DeWitt Wins QH Colt

The winner of the 4-H Quarter Horse contest was announced this week by Garrett County Extension Agent Ted Sprangel. The winner is Rebecca DeWitt, the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. DeWitt of Kitzmiller.

Rebecca and 14 other 4-H members took part in the contest by attending four workshops and learning basic horse care. Using that knowledge, the contestants wrote a 500-word essay, which was judged and scored by Darla Rapp, a West Virgina school teacher and horsewoman.

To complete the contest, all 14 contestants were interviewed at the extension office by a panel of judges. Those judges were: Charles Babich Jr., Allegany County extension agent; Jean Brinsfield, Allegany County horse project leader; Joyce Brinsfield, Allegany County senior 4-H horse project member and junior leader; and Mrs. Rapp.

Those scores were then added to the essay scores, showing Rebecca to be the winner of the yearling colt, "Dexters Story." Dexters Story was donated to the county 4-H program by Danny Otto of Diamond D Quarter Horse Farm near Swanton.

To make the colt suitable for a 4-H-age youth to own and handle, he was gelded by Dr. Rick Jenkins of Pineview Veterinary Hospital, who donated his services.

Other 4-H members taking part in the contest were: Tim Williamson, Kimberly Miller, Heidi Hauser, Jackie Campbell, Julie Tichnell, Randy Tichnell, Jeremy Gorden, Cristy Martin, Tammy Martin, Joyce Noel, Tammy Holler, Julia Martin, Bobbi Jo Harvey, and Timothy DeWitt.

USDA, NCA Reach Buyout Agreement

An agreement was reached on May 9 between the USDA and the National Cattlemen's Association on how to lessen the dairy herd buyout program's impact on livestock markets.

The agreement will end the court case in which a judge issued a restraining order against the program. Under its terms, USDA will ask dairymen to voluntarily shift the disposal time for their herd from the first marketing period (April 1-Aug. 31) to either of the latter two periods (Sept. 1,'86-Feb. 28,'87, or March 1,'87-Aug. 31,'87).

The USDA also agreed to make additional red meat purchases on a pound-for-pound basis in line with the estimated slaughter of cows during each period.

All buyout participants will be notified by the USDA that there will be no extension of the slaughter deadlines and that failure to eliminate herds before the deadline will result in a loss of all program benefits and penalties of $1,000 for each violation.

With the exception of the commitment by USDA to match red meat purchases with increased slaughter, the impact of the agreement hinges on voluntary actions. Dairymen do not have to do anything differently. And according to some USDA officials, there is little incentive for producers to switch herd disposal periods.

One official said that most of the shifting will be done by dairymen who plan to export their cattle, giving them more of a chance to look for a better price.

NCA filed the suit last month against the wholeherd buyout program on the grounds that the program was devastating the livestock markets. According to the group, losses to cattlemen who sold cattle in the first week of the program amounted to more than $25 million.

Bulletin Clarifies Tax Exemptions For Farm Equipment And Supplies

Farm equipment, bought by a farmer to be used in his agricultural business, is exempt from state sales and use taxation. Agricultural equipment sold to farmers is considered personal property even if affixed to the realty. There is much misunderstanding about this tax exemption, however, by equipment salespersons as well as the purchaser of the farm equipment.

A bulletin from the office of the State Comptroller of the Treasury attempts to clear up this misunderstanding by listing agricultural items and equipment which are exempt. Those include the sale or rental to a farmer of farm equipment used to raise livestock and poultry and to prepare, irrigate, and tend the soil, plant, service, or harvest seeds and growing crops, and harvest, transport, clean, dry, and store the crops.

The following are examples of equipment which, if sold to a farmer for use in his farming business, will qualify for the exemption: balers, beekeeping equipment, binders, blowers, choppers, combines, conveyors, cribs, crushers, cultipackers, cultivators, diggers, drags, drills, dryers, dusters, egg handling equipment, elevators, farm graders, farm loaders, farrowing crates, feed grinders, forage harvester, grain handling equipment, haybines, irrigation equipment, milk coolers, milk strainers, milking machines, mowers, pickers, planters, plows, poultry cooling fans, poultry equipment, rollers, rotary hoes, scales, seed cleaners, seeders, shellers, sorters, sowers, sprayers, spreaders, storage tanks, subsoilers, threshing machines, tractors, vaccinating equipment, wagons.

Parts and Equipment

This exemption also applies to sales of equipment or parts for agricultural use, including equipment as described above, but which is used to produce agricultural products for sale, will qualify for exemption if the equipment is capitalized for the purpose of claiming depreciation in accordance with Sales Tax Regulation 83.

Farm Vehicles

The sale to a farmer, for use in his farming business, of farm vehicles and replacement parts or additional equipment for them, is exempt. A farm vehicle is any vehicle which would qualify for a registration plate containing the word "farm" if titled and registered in Maryland.

Agricultural Supplies

The following specific items are exempt from tax when sold for agricultural purposes:

(1) Seeds, fertilizers, land plaster, lime, fungicides, herbicides, insecticides, baler twine, and baler wire. This exemption applies to the raising of vegetables at home, but does not apply to the maintenance of a flower or other decorative garden or lawn.

(2) Livestock and poultry, and feed, bedding and litter for livestock and poultry. The breeding of horses is agricultural, but the maintenance or sale of riding, show, or race horses, or pets, is not agricultural. Medicine for any animals, including pets, is exempt.

(3) Containers, such as baskets, crates, or hogsheads, purchased by a farmer to transport the products he raises to market for sale. Containers used to hold products retained by the farmer for his own use are not exempt.

(4) Motor vehicle or other liquid fuel for use in a "farm tractor", which is a motor vehicle designed and used as a farm implement for drawing farm equipment, or for use in "farm equipment", which is a vehicle that is designed and adapted only for agricultural operations or for lifting or carrying such a vehicle.

Subject to Tax

Any item not sold under the specific conditions described above is subject to tax unless some other provision not specifically related to agriculture applies, such as sales to a licensed vendor for resale or sales to the state. In addition, many items used in agriculture have no specific agricultural exemption and are subject to tax, such as hand tools for any purpose, carpentry, cleaning, maintenance and miscellaneous supplies and equipment, materials to be incorporated into real property, and personal items.

Among the items of property subject to tax are the following: anti-freeze, barbed wire, brooms, cement, clothing, detergents, electric drills, fencing material, general water systems, hammers, home appliances, incinerators, light bulbs, lubricants, lumber, motor oil, pails, paint, paint brushes, post-hole diggers, pruners, rakes, riding lawnmowers, roofing materials, sandpaper, saws, shovels, snow blowers, three-wheeled vehicles, and water pumps.

Records of Sales

Where the record of sale does not clearly include all elements necessary to justify exemption, a vendor may require his customer to certify in a signed written statement to any necessary information, for example, that the purchaser of agricultural equipment is a farmer, or that fertilizer will be used for agricultural purposes. A vendor must collect the tax if he knows or should know that the purchase does not qualify for exemption.

Additional information and copies of Regulation 83 may be obtained from the Taxpayer Service Section by telephone at (301) 225-1300 or by letter to Retail Sales Tax Division, 301 W. Preston St., Baltimore, MD 21201.

Genetic Testing In California Approved By EPA

Steven E. Lindow, a University of California genetic researcher, has been given permission by the Environmental Protection Agency to conduct field tests of what could become the nation's first genetically engineered pesticide.

A pioneer in the field, Lindow was granted two experimental-use permits for altered strains of the bacterium Pseudomonas syringae, which he and others believe can protect plants against frost damage.

A federal court had blocked Lindow from performing the experiment in 1984, saying that the National Institutes of Health committee that had approved the experiment had failed to conduct an environmental assessment first.

Though that assessment was performed, and the committee concluded that there would be no impact, Lindow chose to proceed through the EPA, whose pesticide approvals do not require environmental impact statements.

Lindow is an associate professor of plant pathology at the University of California at Berkeley and plans to coat potato seedlings with a solution of the bacteria, and to spray it on potato plant foliage at the university's agricultural experiment station at Tulelake, Calif.

Pseudomonas syringae is found by the billions on many plant leaves. It comes in two varieties, one that produces a protein that provides a nucleus on which ice crystals may form and one, called "ice-minus," that does not.

Researchers have used gene-splicing techniques to delete the gene responsible for producing the protein, and they hope that this altered, man-made "ice-minus" can colonize the plant leaves, squeezing out the "ice-plus' form and enabling the plant to survive temperatures as low as 23 degrees without damage.

A similar experiment is proposed by Advanced Genetic Sciences Inc. of Oakland, Calif., for strawberry plants. The EPA revoked that company's permit after discovering it had not complied with plant toxicity testing guidelines.

EPA Assistant Administrator Jack Moore said he has "every confidence that the experiments pose minimal risk to public health or the environment," particularly since EPA staff members visited the Tulelake site and checked Lindow's experimental records.

Jeremy Rifkin, the anti-genetic engineering activist who filed the lawsuit that stopped Lindow before, has asked Moore to hold up the permit because, he said, the University of California's liability insurance will expire July 1 and the university so far had not obtained renewed coverage. Moore, however, said federal pesticide law did not give him any authority to act on those grounds.

Rifkin said he would sue the EPA to stop the Tulelake experiments.

Reduction Program Shows 186 Million Acres Enrolled

Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng said producers have signed contracts to place 186.3 million acres of upland cotton, extra-long staple cotton, feed grain, rice and wheat crop acreage bases in the 1986 acreage limitation programs, according to a report issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Signup was held March 6 through April 25. The total acreage required to be taken out of crop production and devoted to an acreage conservation reserve totals 43.9 million acres. The final acreage conservation reserve may be smaller since requirements are based on actual plantings.

The enrolled acreage represents 79.4 percent of the 234.6 million acres of total crop acreage bases established for these commodities. For the 1985 programs, 67.7 percent of the 240.3 million acre crop acreage base was enrolled.

Base acreage enrolled in the programs includes 94 million acres of feed grains and 74.8 million acres of wheat.

Producers who participate in the acreage limitation programs agree to reduce their plantings by at least 20 percent for feed grains, or 18.2 million acres; and 25 percent for wheat, or 18.7 million acres. Additionally, wheat producers had the option of further reducing their plantings by either five or 10 percent or 1.6 million acres.

Participating producers will be eligible for program benefits such as Commodity Credit Corporation loans and purchases and deficiency payments. In addition, at the time they enrolled in the programs, feed grain and wheat producers had the option of requesting 40 percent of their projected 1986 deficiency payments.

Also, feed grain and wheat producers could obtain 100 percent of their land diversion payment at anytime during the program enrollment period.

A producer who accepted an advance payment, but who later does not comply with program provisions, must refund the amount of the advance payment with interest.

Dry Weather Affects Md. Crop Planting

Many Maryland farmers are beginning to delay spring planting due to dry soils, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

The lack of rainfall has caused spotty emergence of field corn and has begun to reduce the effectiveness of herbicides in lower-lying parts of the state.

Corn planting, at 74 percent completed on May 11, was 77 percent finished a year earlier and an averaged 55 percent completed by the same time over the past five years.

Eighty-five percent of the acreage in Maryland had been prepared for spring crops by May 11, compared to 95 percent a year earlier and a five-year average of 83 percent.

Oat planting was 97 percent completed as of May 11. Last year 98 percent of the oats had been planted by this time and the average over the past five years is nine percent planted.

The condition of the small grain crops on May 11 was fair to good throughout the state. Farmers in down-state Maryland began to cut hay crops last week, with 13 percent of the alfalfa and five percent of the clover and other hays harvested by May 11.

An average of nearly six and one-half days were suitable for fieldwork during the week of May 5-11. Topsoil and subsoil moisture were short to very short throughout the state.

Temperatures for the week ended May 9 averaged three degrees above normal. High temperature mostly in low 90's; lows dropped to the mid 20's in the far west and to the mid to high 30's elsewhere in the state. Precipitation averaged 0.06 of an inch, ranging from zero for most of the state to 0.57 at Oakland.

Restricted Pesticide Sales

Restricted use of pesticide dealers will be required to maintain records on the sale of restricted pesticides as of July 1, 1986. The records will be kept for two years and will include the following information: pesticide name and formulation sold; date of sale; name and address of purchaser or receiver; name and address of certified applicator if different from purchaser or receiver. Pesticide applicators will have to provide proof of certification to dealers before purchasing a restricted pesticide.

Wool Marketing

This year, the Somerset Pool will be on Tuesday, June 10, from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at the Somerset County Fairgrounds at Meyersdale, Pa. For the fifth year in a row the Prouvost-Lefebvre Company purchased the pool's wool and the following prices will be paid: 3/8 & ¼ Staple, .6969; 3/8 & ¼ Clothing, .6426; Low ¼, .6575; ½ Staple, .7650; Fine Staple, .8115; Fine & ½ Clothing, .7425; Fine & ½, .7215; 3/8 & ¼, .6329; Natural Colored, .3200, Tags, .1100. A marketing charge of six cents per pound will be deducted to cover the pooling costs. Producers with enough wool to fill a wool bag (approximately 20 fleeces) may bring their wool bagged, tied or loose fleeces, and it will be bag graded. This grading system saves the producer at shearing time and the pool employees at the grading floor. Shepherds with a few fleeces or many fleeces are invited to participate in this marketing and grading operation. However, be sure that the wool is dry and free of contamination by dirt, sisal twine or plastic twine. Hand spinners will be able to buy the wools of their choice for $1.50 per pound.

Cabbage Root-Maggots

Root maggots are very common in our vegetable gardens. These small worms penetrate the roots of a plant causing it to appear very unhealthy and many times kills the plant. The root maggot can very easily be controlled by using diazinon at planting time. Be sure to follow directions on the label very carefully.

We will be leaving the Friendsville fire hall at 5 a.m. and will be leaving Kings Dominion to come home at approximately 7 p.m.

The club decided to do things for the community, such as mowing grass for senior citizens, clean cemeteries, etc. Also, we talked about selling 50-50 drawing tickets at the Country Flea Market, located on Route 42, south of Friendsville on May 31.

The next meeting will be held May 26 at 8 p.m.

Maryland Begins Gypsy Moth IPM Pilot Project

More than 83,000 acres of Maryland trees were stripped of leaves by gypsy moth caterpillers in 1985. Fortunately, the battle against the gypsy moth is taking a new turn in Maryland where the leaf-eating insect is the target of an ambitious federal-state pilot project that could serve as a model for use by other infested states.

First found in Cecil County 15 years ago, the gypsy moth is now the greatest threat faced by the valuable forest and ornamental trees of Maryland. It has spread southward and westward so that large populations have become established throughout the northern half of the State down to Prince George's and Anne Arundel counties, while only a few isolated infestations exist in Charles and Calvert counties.

The traditional tactic in combating gypsy moth outbreaks has been aerial application of insecticides. But the effectiveness of this method is limited to the locality treated and often only for a one-to-three year period.

Recently, there has been growing interest in an alternative approach to pest control problems, one that minimized reliance on chemical insecticide sprays. This new approach is IPM, which stands for Integrated Pest Management. IPM is considered a balanced approach in which every available control tool is considered for short and long term effectiveness, environmental safety and cost.

In 1983, the USDA Forest Service teamed up with the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Gypsy Moth Control Section in a comprehensive, five-year IPM evaluation project called the "Maryland Gypsy Moth IPM Pilot Project."

Its objectives are to monitor gypsy moth populations annually and to apply selected, mostly nonchemical control methods in the project area to maintain gypsy moth populations at acceptable levels. At the end of five years, the IPM area will be compared to an infested area treated by traditional control methods, including chemical insecticides.

The first phase of the project was to gather preliminary information on the gypsy moth in several less-infested Maryland counties. Based on these survey results, a project area was selected that included 500,000 acres in Prince George's, Anne Arundel, and Howard counties.

This area was surveyed to determine the distribution and abundance of the gypsy moth and its natural enemies. Next came the selection of areas to be managed with environmentally safe tactics. This is being followed by annual evaluation of treatment tactics and long-term evaluation of the IPM approach by comparing the benefits and costs of the project to standard gypsy moth suppression programs.

Tactics being evaluated included:

—ground and aerial application of a naturally occurring insect virus which is specific to gypsy moth caterpillers and does not affect other insects or man;

—aerial application of a naturally occurring bacteria, Bacillus thuringiensis;

—release of tiny stingless wasps that are natural parasites of gypsy moth caterpillers;

—use of a sex attractant to prevent male moths from finding females;

—ground and aerial application of sterile egg masses. These artifically sterilized egg masses produce sterile moths which mate with normal moths and hinder population growth.

Maryland was selected as the site for the project for several reasons; it has a diversity of forest types from highly susceptible to more resistant stands; the forests of Maryland are not continguous but are broken up with farm land and urban areas; the state has had an aggressive gypsy moth survey program which provides a wealth of background information not available in other states.

Futhermore, Maryland has an automated geographic information system that can produce maps of forest type, vegetation areas, resource and endangered species. Few other states have such a complete computerized system. "This IPM project is the most comprehensive effort ever conducted to manage gypsy moths in an area where they have yet to become a problem," said Dr. Douglas Kolodny-Hirsch, project supervisor with the Maryland Department of Agriculture. "Hopefully, this project will develop cost-efficient and effective monitoring and management techniques which can be transferred to other agencies interested in employing an IPM approach."

He cautioned, however, that "We cannot kill every larva and every moth or destroy every egg mass. To try to do so would be extremely costly and environmentally questionable. Nor can we stop the winds on which the young larvae float into uninfested acres. Therefore, the insect will continue to make its slow, natural expansion of the generally infested area."

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. points out that agriculture, including forestry, is the number one industry in the state. Forestry is important because half the state's land is forested.

"The IPM project," said the secretary, "is an excellent example of a cooperative program involving federal, state, county and local agencies and organizations, plus private citizens all working together. It doesn't usually happen that way," he added.

On a regional basis, the gypsy moth defoliated an all-time high of 13 million acres in the Northeast in 1981. After a three-year decline, the defoliation figures resumed a climb in 1985 when 1.8 million acres were defoliated as compared with only 900 thousand acres one year earlier.

In the peak year, nearly 700,000 northeastern households spent an estimated $15 million on control costs and experienced losses exceeding $500 million due to reduction of property values. Timber losses amounted to $72 million from gypsy moth caused mortality. Because this timber will not be available 10 or 15 years from now, we can expect higher prices at that time to the mortality that took place in 1981.

GOP Counsel Seeks Info On S&L Crisis Cost

The Special Counsel appointed by the Maryland Republican Party to investigate the savings and loan crisis has filed a number of requests for disclosure of information under the Maryland Freedom of Information Act, according to Maryland Republican Party Chairman Allan C. Levey.

Special Counsel Daniel J. Hurson, a Rockville attorney and former federal prosecutor, said he has requested the Maryland Deposit Insurance Fund to disclose:

1. the amount and nature of legal bills paid by the state in connection with the crisis;
2. any reports on the crisis compiled by agencies or organizations other than the State government;
3. any financial projections regarding the ultimate loss to the State from the crisis, and;
4. a list of individuals who withdrew more than $5,000 from insured savings and loans during the sixty days preceding the crisis.

"The amount of legal fees which may ultimately be passed on to Maryland taxpayers from the savings and loan crisis is enormous," Hurson said. He noted that since the beginning of the crisis legal fees paid solely to the law firm representing the State on Old Court are at least $1.6 million, according to MDIF, and published reports indicate the State is paying $250,000 a month in legal fees to untangle the Community Savings and Loan "EPIC" morass. He also pointed out that the State has recently estimated its administrative costs that can be specifically calculated (not including outside counsel fees) to be nearly $5 million.

"These legal fees may or may not be necessary," Hurson said. "But in any event, the public should see what the lawyers are doing and how much we may end up paying for their services."

On the issue of withdrawal disclosure, Hurson said it is necessary to determine who made large withdrawals from savings and loans to confirm or deny persistent rumors that politically connected insiders were tipped off about the impending savings and loan collapse. "We owe it to the thousands of depositors whose funds are frozen to see if this insider information was released to a privileged few," Hurson said.

Hurson indicated that his inquiry is continuing and he will produce an interim report soon.

GRANTEE/GRANTOR WHO'S WHO?

In these columns, I write for the general public. Therefore I usually refer to "buyers" and "sellers" because readers understand this and that's what counts. However, when you read over legal documents concerned with the purchase or sale of real estate, or if you happen to pick up a book on real estate written from a legal point of view—you'll often see the words grantor or grantee which refer to the same parties. You will also see the shortened word "grant" used often. It deserves an explanation.

A grant is the transfer of real estate by a written contract. A private grant is the transfer of real property from one person to another. A public grant is the transfer of property from a government to a person.

A grantor is a person who transfers real estate by deed. In other words, the grantor is the seller.

A grantee is a person who receives real estate by deed. You guessed it—the grantee is the buyer.

More Balloons Are Found By County Residents

Many balloons have been found in Garrett County this spring, and reports continue to come in on balloon findings and the distances they have traveled to reach this area.

A second balloon has been found by Anthony Miller, son of Paul D. and Carla Miller, on his farm near Accident. As reported in last week's Republican, Anthony had found a balloon released by a student in Swissvale, Pa. This time the balloon came from Bridgeport, Ohio, and was released from St. Joseph Central School by Ron Naylor. Anthony has returned the first balloon tag and will also return the tag from the Ohio balloon.

Two brothers, Michael and Jerod Minnick, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Minnick, found a balloon in the wooded area near their home just west of Accident on May 8. The balloon was launched by Bryant Brown, a student at Wells School, Steubenville, Ohio. The brothers have written to Bryant, hoping to find out when the balloon was launched. Michael is a second grade student of Mrs. Anna Miller at Accident Elementary School, and Jerod is a pre-schooler.

Two National Science Week balloons were found by Robert W. Hinebaugh on May 12 about one mile from his home on the Blooming Rose-White Rock Road. He found the balloons along the road while traveling home from work. They were part of a nationwide student investigation of atmospheric currents. One balloon was released by Dave Tomcik a 12th grade student. The other by Dawn Campbell an 11th grade student. Both were from South Allegheny High School, Liberty Boro, Pa. The balloons were found by Hinebaugh just three and one-half-hours after they were released in Liberty Boro.

Larry Shreve, the 11-year-old son of Eugene and Mary Shreve of Swanton, found a balloon in his driveway on the evening of May 15. The balloon had been released by a sixth-grade student, Jason Graham, of Evans City Elementery School in Evans City, Pa. It had been launched on the afternoon of May 12.

MSTA Supports Sachs For Gov., Barnes, Carey

The Maryland State Teachers Association recently endorsed Attorney General Steve Sachs for election as Governor, Beverly Corelle Stonestreet, MSTA president announced at a news conference following action by the MSTA Representative Assembly.

In addition to the Sachs endorsement, the 35,000-member organization of Maryland educators will throw its support behind Congressman Mike Barnes in his bid to become Maryland's next U.S. Senator. MSTA has also endorsed Eleanor Carey for Attorney General.

The endorsement decisions were made by the Representative Assembly, the policy-making body of MSTA, which met in special session in Baltimore.

In making the endorsement of Sachs, the Representative Assembly followed the recommendation of MEPAC, the political action committee of MSTA, which called Sachs "the most pro-teacher candidate ever to seek the office of Governor."

MSTA President Stonestreet, in reporting MEPAC's recommendation, cited Sachs' "courageous support for education and improved funding for schools." As Governor, Stonestreet said, "Steve Sachs will be a leader for education. He will set the tone, exert the necessary leadership, and provide the resources our schools so badly need. Maryland schools need a governor who will be a champion for education–not a roadblock to reform."

In recommending support for Mike Barnes, Stonestreet noted that he has a long record of 100 percent support for issues of concern to teachers, parents, and students. As a Congressman, Barnes has consistently voted against cuts in education funding, Stonestreet said. He is "unequivocably opposed" to tuition tax credits and voucher plans, and has been "philosophically attuned to the crying needs of education," she said.

Stonestreet went on to predict that Barnes would be "one of the most outstanding U.S. Senators the country has ever seen." Barnes will not just be "one of one hundred," she said. "He will emerge as a leader in that august body."

The Barnes recommendation will require formal endorsement from MSTA's parent organization, the National Education Association, before it becomes official due to federal election rules. All other MSTA endorsements are effective now.

The MSTA Representative Assembly also voted to endorse Eleanor Carey for the office of Attorney General. Carey's support of collective bargaining for public employees and her support for the development of a public employees labor board were among the reasons she was selected, Stonestreet said, in addition to her experience as an assistant attorney general. "I know she will be a staunch advocate for teachers and students," Stonestreet said.

Following the vote of the Representative Assembly, Stonestreet urged the MSTA membership to make the personal and financial contributions needed to elect the endorsed candidates.

"Let us practice our political arithmetic," she said. "If every teacher would take just two other citizens to the polls, our support can translate into over 100,000 votes for a candidate.

"Rarely have we had such clear choices to make. The fate of our public schools hinges on the elections this fall. Let us continue to play a major role in deciding the outcome. Let us work together to improve the quality of education through political action," she concluded.

Elwood Groves Support Group Recently Formed

The formation of a new political action organization known as Friends For Elwood Groves was recently announced and filed with the Board of Supervisors of Elections, according to Charles H. Tressler, a local businessman and Mayor of Loch Lynn Heights.

Tressler, who will be serving as chairman of the group, stated, "As concerned citizens and taxpayers of Garrett County, we want to re-elect Elwood Groves to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners. We feel Groves has made a positive impact on the fiscal health and stability of the county and that he has proven himself to be a true voice for Garrett County's taxpayers."

According to Tressler, two public organizational meetings are scheduled in the near future and all interested persons are encouraged to attend. A northern Garrett County meeting will be held at the Hilltop Restaurant in Grantsville on Wednesday, May 28, at 7:30 p.m. A southern Garrett County meeting will be held at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College on Monday, June 2, at 7:30 p.m.

Also serving as officers in the newly-formed group are John E. Hinebaugh, Sang Run, as vice chairman; Nina L. Wagner, McHenry, as secretary; and Carl R. Fike, Mountain Lake Park, as treasurer.

Alpha Alpha Chapter Installs New Officers

The Alpha Alpha Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International held its initiation and installation of officers at a dinner meeting at the Bittinger Fire Hall on May 9.

Preceding the initiation ceremony, Anna Bishop, president, gave a presentation of Delta Kappa Gamma, "What It Means and Its Purposes." The initiate was Sandra Nesline, county coordinator for Early Indentification Program, early childhood specialist for pre-kindergarten education program, and elementary resource teacher for Garrett County. She has been in Garrett County for eight years. Previously, she taught fifth and sixth grades in Baltimore County and was a director of a nursery school.

Following the initiation, the newly elected officers were installed. Officers for the 1986-88 biennium are: Lillian Reckner, president; Barbara Flinn, first vice president; Rosanne Sherwood, second vice president; and Rosetta Rodeheaver, recording/corresponding secretary. The treasurer and parliamentarian will be appointed by the president and approved by the Executive Board.

Participating in the installation were the outgoing officers Anna Bishop, president; Lillian Reckner, first vice president; Barbara Flinn, second vice president; and Rosanne Sherwood, secretary.

Price Jump For Copies Of Vital Records Noted

The Division of Vital Records of the state Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has announced that fees for all copies of birth, death and marriage certificates will increase to $3.00, effective July 1, 1986.

This fee increase, which also includes the cost of searches for copies of vital records, was legislated by the 1986 General Assembly and signed into law by Governor Hughes, April 29, 1986.

"We are elated about the passage of the bill because it will enable the Division of Vital Records to use funds generated from the fee increase to update and automate our operations and provide more efficient service to the public," said Julia E. Davidson-Randall, State Registrar. "Once the operations are automated, we will be able to retrieve copies in a few seconds, serve counter customers in less than 15 minutes and answer mailed requests in less than a week."

For more information on the fee increase, persons may contact the Division of Vital Records, Department of Health & Mental Hygiene, 201 W. Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland, 21201; (301) 225-5988.

GCC Considering Holding Classes In Bloomington

Garrett Community College will have a representative at the Bloomington Elementary School on Tuesday, June 3, at 7:30 p.m.

This meeting was requested by residents of Bloomington interested in taking psychology or English sometime during the summer if the session could be held at a Bloomington location, according to a GCC spokesman.

"If sufficient interest can be shown at this meeting, GCC will bring these and any other classes needed to this area," the spokesman noted.

"For those students interested in transferring credit, Garrett Community College is a fully accredited institution. College credits have transferred to over 90 institutions in over 28 states," he said.

All interested persons are welcome to attend. Those who cannot attend this meeting, but would like to take classes, credit or noncredit, in Bloomington, are asked to call Darlene Tressler, Admissions Office, 301-387-6666 (out-of-state call 800-533-1000) for more information.

NOTICE

We've changed our name . . . our yard post signs and our colors . . . but we still give that same friendly service you've been accustomed to for years from HAYWOOD AGENCY, INC. You see . . . we have come to realize that it is better to be "PERSONALIZED" . . . and not "FRANCHISED". This is what we have discovered after working with so many Property Owners in our marketing area. Our yard signs are no longer yellow and brown on a yellow post. Today they feature the symbolic colors of RED, WHITE & BLUE SIGNS on a WHITE YARD POST. So please, look for our new signs all over Garrett County . . . and don't be surprised to see so many of the same signs all over Allegany and Mineral Counties as well. (We have over 200 properties for sale with yard post signs on them). Even though we still maintain "National" connections, we have come to prefer more "Localized" connections with 3 Real Estate offices in Deep Creek Lake, Keyser, and Short Gap, W.Va. We've been here in Garrett County for 20 years and out Agents know the territory. They're experienced, seasoned Professionals who don't like to brag . . . rather we are PROUD TO SAY, "WE KNOW GARRETT COUNTY!!"

THANK YOU,
Herman J. Haywood

New ring drive for the Patz Model RD-820 Silo Unloader

NEW RING-DRIVE: Models with the new roller-chain ring drive use only one motor to power the machine

AUTOMATIC LOWERING: An electric winch lowers the RD-820 automatically after each complete revolution.

GATHERING CHAIN: The Patz cutters and claws cut loose frozen and hard-packed silage efficiently, and then move it to the blower fast.

POWER CUTTER: Spring tension keeps high-speed, self-sharpening blades tight to the silo wall to shave it clean.

You Won't Find A Better Value In A Grand Piano

A grand piano is the grand total of the piano maker's skills. It's an instrument reserved for those whose talent and commitment require the best in tone and performance . . . for those who maintain the highest standards for themselves and the instrument they play.
Yamaha Grand Pianos measure well against such standards. Their outstanding action, tonal richness and clarity reward the professional and serious pianist.
The beauty of the cabinetry is ageless. Its classic styling is at home anywhere in the world . . . enhanced by any architecture or interior design. The mirror-like, polyester finish will not be dulled by time. And the solid brass hardware exemplifies the quality found throughout the instrument . . . quality that is obvious at first glance and after careful examination.
Available in Polished Walnut, Polished Ebony and Polished White Finishes.

Meeting Slated For Whitewater Championships

A meeting of the full committee of the 1989 Whitewater World Championship organization will be held Tuesday, June 3, at 1:30 p.m. at Garrett Community College, Room 010 of the Administrative Building.

Tom Jones, Garrett County Development Corporation director and local coordinator for the Whitewater Championships, recently sent a letter to Joyce Decot, executive director of the American Canoe Association to summarize the activities of the local organizing effort.

Jones said the committee was "beginning to get a handle on the entire planning effort and commencing to make real progress in a number of areas.

Official Logo

The committee has been working on various design suggestions which have been submitted for the official logo of the 1989 World Championships. The logo was adopted by the committee in April. The logo and thematic "take-offs" have been registered by the committee and have been made available under license agreements to manufacturer, distributors, and vendors of souvenir items, apparel and written materials. An official pin and sticker displaying the logo will be available from the committee early next month.

Site Planning

A draft site plan has been completed by the architectural firm of Catherine Mahan and Associates, assisted by the University of Maryland School of Architecture.

A finalized version of the Master Plan was adopted by the committee in May. Implementation of certain segments of the plan have already begun.

The Maryland Conservation Corps will again this summer be working at the race course site.

Last summer the primary emphasis of their activities was general course clean-up, brush cutting, some trail restoration and enlargement to the primitive camping area.

That work was followed up this fall by the Maryland Department of Resources' crew grading a vehicular access ramp into an area near the Slalom Course finishline that will be used by emergency vehicles, administrative access, and as a more convenient "take-out" facility. The access grade at the Piedmont Dam has also been improved and seeded.

It is planned that the

YOU ARE NOT FORGOTTON — These are the words on the POW-MIA Flag carried by Charles "Butch" Appel on his cross-country march to bring the plight of POWs to the attention of the public. Appel, a Vietnam Veteran, began his walk at "the wall," the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C. He plans to hike via Route 50 to Los Angeles, Calif, stirring the public consciousness of the men he says are just about forgotton. The flag he carries was donated to him by Proctor Kildow Post 71 of the American Legion in Oakland. Appel has the support of the American Legion, VFW, DAV, as well as the VVA for his POW Awareness Walk, which takes him 20 to 25 miles west each day in all kinds of weather. Shelter is planned ahead in towns and cities along the way, but shelter and a good word is welcomed along the rural stretches in between. Appel is determined, "I have a purpose; it's what I believe in. To me it's a do or die situation."

Bank Robber's Term Reduced

The jail term for Donald R. Oldaker, 31, Oakland, was reduced from 10 years to nine years last week during Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Oldaker had been convicted of the October 22 theft at the Mtn. Lake Park Branch of the Garrett National Bank.

Tusing Named President Of Bankers' Assoc.

Courtney R. Tusing, Chairman of the Board and president of First United National Bank & Trust, was recently named president of the Maryland Bankers Association at its annual convention held in Boca Raton, Florida, May 18 through 21. Tusing had previously completed one-year terms as vice president, and later president-elect of the association.

Tusing holds the distinction of being the only banker from Garrett County to serve in this statewide office.

The Maryland Bankers Association, whose office is located in Annapolis, has the membership of all state and nationally chartered banks in the state of Maryland. The principal thrusts of the association's activities are in the areas of communication among the state banks in a wide range of common interests, including

Rabid Raccoon Found Near Hutton

The year's fourth case of rabies has been reported by the Garrett County Health Department. A rabid raccoon was discovered near Hutton, next to the West Virginia state line by Kim Powell last Thursday.

Powell, after arriving home about 2:30 p.m., noticed that the two family dogs had been fighting some animal. While searching the area, the raccoon was found in a tree.

Al Bourgeois, Forrest, Park and Wildlife manager, was called to the scene. He was able to collect the raccoon, and submitted it to the health department. Reports from that agency later proved the raccoon to be rabid.

Both dogs had been vaccinated and will only need booster shots. Health Department officials remind residents that rabies is still prevalent in Garrett County. All pets should be vaccinated and revaccinated every three years.

Approximately 363 animals were vaccinated in spring clinics. That number of dogs and cats is lower than other years, according to the health department. More clinics will be scheduled in the near future for areas not yet covered. County residents are urged to have their pets vaccinated.

Oakland Presses State To Complete Treatment Plant Design Review

Because of the need of a sewage treatment plant for the town of Oakland, the state Department of Health an Mental Hygiene pressured the town fathers for years. Now the shoe is on the other foot, and the mayor and town councilmen are urging DHMH for a reply regarding the design review so that the project can be put out to bid and construction can begin.

Oakland was ordered to submit designs to DHMH for review by December 9, 1985. Morgan France, design engineer, mailed those plans to the state agency on December 2, 1985. At this time, no final review has been completed. "They haven't found any major problems, but haven't made any final review either," said France.

Sull McCartney, of Potomac Engineering and the administrator of the grant for the treatment plant, was told on February 3 that the review would take two additional weeks to complete. He therefore reported to the town council that the review should be finished by the week of February 25.

On March 3 McCartney was told the review should be finished by the first of the next week. On March 20 he was told the review would be complete on Monday or Tuesday.

Morgan France contacted DHMH on April 2 and was told the review was almost finished, that there were no major problems; but on April 7, he was told the review was still not completed.

These reports prompted Oakland Councilman Robert Boal, sewage committee chairman, to write Earl Quance, DHMH construction grants and permits program administrator, listing these contacts chronologically and urging him to expedite the review.

"We are concerned with the consequences of bidding a project of this nature late in the season when many of the construction companies have already committed themselves," Boal wrote. "We also are very concerned about the possibility that a late start on construction this year may push the completion date to 1988. We feel that the extra cost involved if this were to happen would be disastrous."

On behalf of the town, both Delegate George Edwards and Senator John Bambacus contacted Quance's office requesting cooperation with the town in this urgent matter, however, Boal's April 9 letter remained unanswered and the councilman wrote Quance again on May 21.

County Schools To Close June 9

As a result of having to make up six school days due to weather-related factors, the school year for Garrett County students will be extended through Monday, June 9, 1986.

On that day, as well as Thursday, June 5, and Friday, June 6, students at Bloomington, Broad Ford, Crellin, Dennett Road, Kitzmiller, Loch Lynn, Red House, Route 40, Swan Meadow, Southern Middle and Southern High will be dismissed at 1:00 p.m. Due to the split-shifting plan in the northern portion of the county, students at Accident, Friendsville, Grantsville, Yoder, Northern Middle and Northern High will attend school on their regular schedule for those three days.

The last day for all teachers in the county will be an 8:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. close-out day on Tuesday, June 10.

Meyersdale Man Sentenced To Five-Year Term

A Meyersdale, Pa., man will serve a five-year jail term as a result of a trial held last week in Garrett County Circuit Court.

Paul E. Fisher, 26, was found to be guilty of uttering a forged document and sentenced to five years in the Department of Corrections by Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer. A charge of theft was nolle prosequi.

The court recommended that the condition of any parole be that Fisher pay restitution and court costs. He was committed to Sheriff M. Van Evans.

The charges were filed following a June 30 incident at Grantsville Foodland involving a check for $343.10.

In another case, the judge ordered a pre-sentence investigation and revoked bail for Albert N. DeWitt, 19, Oakland.

DeWitt was found to be guilty of assault with intent to murder and burglary. Charges of attempted murder, robbery with a dangerous and deadly weapon, robbery, assault with intent to commit robbery, theft, destruction of property, and assault were not prosecuted by the court.

The charges were filed following a May 26, 1985, incident in the Rosedale area.

According to court documents, DeWitt robbed Marjorie M. Bell, 57, and hit her over the head several times with a garden hoe, causing her serious injury.

DeWitt was committed to the Garrett County Sheriff's Department pending sentencing. He was represented by Bill L. Smith, a Cumberland attorney.

High School Graduations Set For Sunday

Commencement exercises for both Northern and Southern High Schools will be held on Sunday, June 1.

Northern's ceremony is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. on the athletic field, with 108 students graduating, according to Principal Ed Green.

Delegate George Edwards, a 1966 graduate of Northern, will deliver the commencement address.

Should inclement weather prevent the outdoor exercise, the ceremony will be held in the Northern Middle School cafeteria, with invited guests only permitted to attend.

Graduation at Southern High School will be held at 4 p.m. on the football field, with 218 students graduating, according to Principal Arthur Refosco.

In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will take place in the Southern High School gymnasium, with tickets being required for admission.

A complete list of graduates from both schools will appear in next week's edition of The Republican.

Fire Destroys Mobile Home Of Jailed Couple

An arson fire Thursday night destroyed the mobile home of a Bloomington couple who are presently jailed in conjunction with a child abuse case.

Bruce Allen Sarver, 29, Swanton, and Donna Lynn White, 26, Bloomington, are lodged in the Garrett County Jail on $100,000 cash bond and $10,000 respectively. Their rented mobile home was entered sometime Thursday night and ignited, according to Guy Carola, Garrett County fire marshal.

Carola said the culprits apparently entered through a rear door and used a flammable liquid to set the trailer on fire. The trailer was owned by Frank R. Mattingly, Oakland, and rented by Sarver and White.

The fire marshal estimates the damage at $15,000. The trailer was located one-half mile east of Bull's Restaurant on State Route 135. According to Carola, a cross-burning occurred on the property earlier last week.

Sarver and White have been charged in connection with the severe injuries suffered by a four-year-old female. The child remains in the intensive care unit of Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, and her condition has been upgraded to "serious" from "critical," according to a hospital spokesman.

Sarver has been charged with child abuse, assault with intent to maim and assault and battery. White is charged with caused child abuse.

Deep Creek Lake Clean-Up Effort Set For June 7-8

The Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association will be sponsoring a drive to clean up the Penelec buffer strip and land around Deep Creek Lake on Saturday, June 7, and Sunday, June 8.

Through a cooperative effort with the Deep Creek Lake Businessmen's Association, the Garrett County Roads Department, and DNR, the Property Owners' Association hopes that this will become a yearly effort which will ensure the beauty and integrity of the shoreline surrounding the lake.

The most important contributor to the success of this project, however, will be the efforts of the individual landowners with property around the lake. It is hoped that all landowners in the lake area will take the time to gather up any trash or debris around the lake shoreline and transport it to the county landfill located four miles north of Oakland on the Oakland-Sang Run Road. For this weekend, the landfill will be open on Saturday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Sunday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

For those persons around the lake who do not have vehicles capable of hauling the larger articles of debris such as barreis or scrap lumber from docks, a group of volunteers will travel the roads adjacent to the lake with suitable vehicles for the pick-up of such articles.

These volunteers from the Property Owners' Association and the Businessmen's Association will only pick up articles of debris of a convenient size which can be lifted by the average person. Those items which the volunteers will pick up include old dock flotation, separated pieces of lumber from old docks, and empty barrels, provided holes have been punched in both ends of the barrel.

Such articles should be placed on the lake side of roads immediately adjacent to Deep

County Treasurer To Step Down After 20 Years

Garrett County Treasurer Arzella Parsons said this week she will not seek re-election for a sixth term in that office.

Parsons, an Oakland resident, has served as county treasurer for five terms, a total of 20 years. "I've been debating for a long time about this and now that the decision is made I'll just have to adjust. I've always been a very busy person."

Parsons is married to Donald R. Parsons and they are the parents of one son, Donald Jr. They have one grandchild, Donald R. III.

"I appreciate all the help and confidence the people of Garrett County have given me," the treasurer stated.

Dr. Stephen J. Herman Appointed New President of Garrett CC

Dr. Stephen J. Herman was appointed to the position of Garrett Community College president Saturday. The Board of Trustees made the announcement at a public meeting at the college.

Dr. Herman is currently dean of students and community services and professor of philosophy at Quinebaug Valley Community College in rural northeastern Connecticut. Prior to that he served on the faculty of Western New England College in Springfield, Mass; was dean of students at Windham College in Putney, Vermont; and served as assistant director of the Southwest Residential College of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst where he earned his master's degree and doctorate in philosophy.

In making the announcement, Board of Trustees Chairman Katharine L. Smith commented, "He brings to GCC broad experience in higher education. He is an experienced and highly qualified professional."

"Major considerations in Dr. Herman's selection are his academic credentials and his demonstrated success in working collaboratively with college staff and with the community at large," said Smith.

The board chariman further stated that Dr. Herman had an impressive record in institutional planning, fiscal operations, community programming, curriculum and program development, grant development and fundraising. "He is co-author of the Generalist Model, an innovative approach to providing student services. He enjoys teaching and plans to teach one course each semester as a way of keeping close to students," Smith continued.

Dr. Herman plans to arrive in August and said he intends to make listening his first goal.

At a press conference Tuesday, Dr. Herman stated, "I am honored to have been selected president of Garrett Community College and to have the privilege of leading it forward to a better future. I recognize the magnitude of the task and the challenges ahead. In recent years the college has been divided against itself, and its reputation has been sullied locally and beyond. Individuals have been wounded both personally and professionally in the process, and in some instances the wounds run wide and deep."

Herman continued, "My first task as president is to begin a healing process. In a context of suspicion and injury, we cannot expect that the healing will be quick or easy. It will take time and patience."

The newly appointed president said he would not begin the process by imposing solutions from outside. "Instead, I will begin by listening carefully and respectfully. I have come to GCC without malice toward anyone and without preconceptions," said Herman. "I want to learn from those who know best—the employees of the college, the student body, and the residents of Garrett County."

He stated that he would meet individually with every employee of the college and would talk informally with the students at the McHenry campus as well as the Oakland Center. He said he would also confer with the community leadership and community residents, probably in a public meeting forum.

He further stated that after he listened carefully, he would issue a report to the college and to the board of trustees. He said he would make no substantive

An ad hoc committee representing several community organizations has received a grant from the Maryland Humanities Council for the purpose of presenting a series of Summer Public Interest Programs for the residents of Garrett County and summer visitors to the area.

Organizations represented are the Garrett County League of Women Voters, Garrett County Arts Council, Friends of Mtn. Lake Park and Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library.

Sherriff's Dept. Reports Arrest, B And E Theft

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week arrested an Oakland man for a charge of battery.

Harold W. Schmidt Jr., 22, is being held in the Garrett County Jail.

According to reports filed by the department, the arrest was made Sunday after an incident in Loch Lynn.

The department is investigating a breaking and entering theft which occurred recently at a summer cottage on the Stockslager Road.

Alma Burns, caretaker, reported that a microwave oven and a radio were taken from the cottage of Michael Burke, Alexandria, Va.

Entry was apparently gained through a rear door, and other items in the cottage were untouched.

Pa. Woman "Satisfactory" After Mishap

A Saxonburg, Pa. woman was listed in "satisfactory" condition this morning by a spokesman at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where she was transported following a single-vehicle accident on Saturday.

Marilyn A. Bittinger, 58, was operating a 1981 Volkswagon Rabbit in a southbound direction on the Mattingly Hill Road. According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Bittinger apparently lost control of the vehicle as it rounded a left curve. The vehicle then left the road and struck a drainage ditch.

Tpr. Jon B. Dudiak investigated, reporting that no charges were made.

An Oakland man was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol following a mishap Saturday.

Robert Walter Stemple, 48, was operating a tractor on the Crellin Underwood Road. Sylvia A. Rodeheaver, 36, also of Oakland, was operating a 1976 Buick LeSabre

Police said Stemple was traveling south in the northbound lane. Rodeheaver came over the crest of a hill and veered left to avoid the tractor. Stemple then veered sharply to the right, causing the car to strike the tractor broadside.

Stemple was ejected from the tractor, but apparently not seriously injured.

Cpl. Richard Graham investigated the mishap, charging Stemple with DWI and not keeping to the right of the roadway.

FOUR OF THE LAST SIX surviving World War I veterans who are members of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, are among those vets who will be honored during Memorial Day ceremonies this Friday, May 30, in Oakland. Those who are able will ride in the Memorial Day parade, slated to begin at about 10:15 a.m., and then place a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Soldier at the Oakland Cemetery during memorial services. Pictured above are Richard E. Maroney, left, and Harry Friend, both of Oakland. Below are Dick Shaffer, Oakland, and Earl W. Alexander, Accident. World War I veterans not pictured are William R. Savage, Cumberland, and Comm. Louis Girard, Rockville.

A FUND-RAISING EFFORT to cover the cost of the Maryland Vietnam Veterans Memorial, being constructed at historic Federal Hill in Baltimore, has begun in every county of Maryland. Garrett County's effort is being coordinated by James Shipe, president of Chapter 245, Vietnam Veterans of America. The quota for Garrett County for this two and one-half million dollar project is $20,000, which Shipe noted could be easily accomplished with just a $1 donation for every citizen of Garrett County. Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, has contributed a check for $540, which is one dollar for each member of the Post. Shipe, pictured left, accepted the donation from Ernest C. Strobel, commander of Post 71. Persons wishing to donate to the fund may send their tax-deductible contributions to Shipe at Rt. 1, Box 125 B-1, Sunnyside Road, Oakland. A more detailed story about the project will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Picnic Tables Stolen From Local School

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department is investigating a theft which occurred last week at the Kitzmiller Elementary School.

Two picnic tables were taken from the school yard between 9 p.m. Thursday and 7:20 a.m. Friday.

The picnic tables had been in place for about one month, and were donated to the school by the Kitzmiller Lion's Club. Each was worth about $90, and was made of wolmanized material and black metal tubing.

Quick Action By Firemen Saves Kitzmiller House

Quick action by volunteer firefighters from Kitzmiller and Elk Garden early Friday morning resulted in the saving of a Kitzmiller residence.

According to a spokesman for the Kitzmiller VFD, an overheated kerosene stove caught fire at the Gene Hawk residence shortly after 5 a.m. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze and damage was confined to the stove and immediate surrounding area.

Oakland and Deer Park firefighters were summoned to Oakland Motel early that same day when a mattress in a lower level motel unit caught fire. Upon their arrival, firemen found thick smoke coming from the level underneath the office section of the motel. They quickly extinguished the fire and, according to Chief Robert Rudy, fire damage was confined to the mattress and headboard of the bed, while the room sustained slight smoke damage.

They remained on the scene for about 45 minutes. The cause of the fire was believed to be accidental in nature, Rudy said.

Deer Park firemen were returned to their station before arriving on the scene. Also called was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries.

"Eating Together" New Name Given To AAA Program

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging (AAA) announces a new name for its nutrition program. As of June 1, 1986, the nutrition program, offering both congregates and home delivered meals to individuals 60-plus years of age, will be referred to as "Eating Together in Garrett County".

Adina Brode, Coordinator of Nutrition, Information, Activities, and JTPA Programs, said "the Maryland Association of Nutrition Programs (MANP) would like to see all counties incorporate the "Eating Together" logo. There is often confusion between AAA nutrition programs and Meals on Wheels. The logo will help alleviate this problem and the elderly will be able to easily identify and locate nutrition sites anywhere in the state."

Mrs. Brode stated, "Another problem faced by nutrition programs is the term 'congregate'. Many people are unclear as to its meaning, which is to come together into a group, crowd, or assembly. Hence, 'Eating Together' says it all".

The home delivery program offered is often mistaken for Meal on Wheels which is generally operated by a hospital. Frequently requests are made for special diets which are not available through the AAA due to a lack of funding and resources.

Currently the Area Agency on Aging has 10 sites open two days and one site open three days each week throughout the county. Five of the sites have the capability to provide home delivered service to eligible seniors.

To receive a home delivered meal, a client must be homebound due to illness or incapaciting disabilities, unable to prepare their own meals and have few or no support systems available to them.

Mrs. Brode stated, "Senior citizens are encouraged to attend the sites and enjoy a nutritious, well-balanced meal and the companionship of others. Quite often the elderly, regardless of financial resources, suffer from malnutrition because they don't take the time to prepare a nutritionally balanced meal. Eating alone is often depressing and snacking appears to be more convenient."

The "Eating Together" nutrition programs throughout the state are funded by Older Americans Act funds under the auspices of the State Office on Aging. The only requirement to participate is to be a minimum of 60 years of age. A contribution of $1.00 is suggested and encouraged whenever possible.

Further information about "Eating Together in Garrett County" may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Brode at the Area Agency on Aging, 334-9431.

LIVING UP TO A CHALLENGE — "It's a challenge for anyone to call a wild gobbler in with a caller and expect to bag a turkey," said 76-year-old Elbert Hershman of Pleasant Valley, who has lived up to that challenge 13 seasons in a row by bagging a wild turkey gobbler. Hershman, who delights in turkey hunting, said he wasn't always that successful. "It took me about four seasons to learn the characteristics of the wild turkey before I was able to bag one," he said. As a trophy, Hershman keeps the beards of the turkey gobblers and mounts them on a board. When asked what he will do if he gets another turkey now that the board is full, he replied, "I'll just enlarge the board." Hershman says, "I thank God for my good health which enables me to accomplish the thing I like to do best—enjoy the outdoors."

BIG BOOST FOR HABITAT — The Garrett County Chapter of Habitat for Humanity, Inc., received a big boost this past week in the form of a $2,000 donation from the School of Sisters of Notre Dame. Julie Lewis, bookkeeper for the local Habitat chapter, left, accepted the check from Sister Therese Feeley, a member of the School of Sisters. Since its beginning in 1984, Garrett County Habitat has received $10,500 from the religious order. The money comes from a sharing fund set up by the Sisters to support self-help projects. Habitat is a non-denomination housing ministry, which constructs houses for low-income persons who are granted interest-free loans by Habitat. Occupants of the houses also assist in the construction work.

A New Beginning . . .

Goodbye, Dr. Puzzuoli. Hello, Dr. Herman.

There has been another change at the top at Garrett Community College as turmoil and instability have apparently continued to plague that institution. While we know that some of the difficulties at GCC are real, we also believe others have been purposely created and blown out of proportion by certain individuals. There has apparently been deceit, game-playing, and self-serving tactics employed by some. We also feel that some local media has led the charge in keeping things stirred up at GCC, for reasons we can only speculate.

Some have accused us of bias reporting on the issue, while others believe we have not reported enough. We can only state that our primary interest is in reporting news, not fabricating controversy. We have tried to maintain our objectivity in covering this highly emotional crisis and be as fair as we can to everyone involved. We also believe that the college does not need nor deserve to be in the media limelight day after day, week after week. While we recognize the fact that it is an institution supported by tax dollars and that the public therefore has a right to know what is happening there, the people in charge must be allowed to do their job without having reporters watch every move they make.

Even though the board of trustees, Dr. Puzzuoli, some of the faculty, and some of the staff have been at odds, we still believe that the great majority of all those involved have the same goal – to make GCC as good as it can be.

To the members of the board, we thank them for hanging in there under all the pressure and suggest they leave the day to day operation of the college to the president.

To the faculty and staff members, we hope they will leave the past behind, not make pre-judgments about the new president, and do all they can to work with him.

To Dr. Herman we extend a sincere welcome to Garrett County and appreciation for his willingness to come here and take on such a tough job.

To Dr. Puzzuoli, we extend our appreciation for giving it absolutely all he had. We know for a fact that, day for day, hour for hour, no one in the history of Garrett Community College has been more dedicated and worked longer, harder hours than he has, to do what he believes is best for GCC.

To the community, we hope people will greet the new president, give him a chance to do his job, and be careful not to pass judgment based upon hearsay and mis-information.

It is time for a new, fresh, positive beginning at GCC. Unless this happens, then we are almost certain that GCC will soon cease to exist.

To the Editor:

It was most gratifying on Monday to attend Memorial Day Services at the Bittinger cemetery conducted by American Legion Post #214, Grantsville.

The seventeen Grantsville Legionnaires gave up the majority of their holiday to pay tribute to the many veterans now deceased.

How often we take for granted the many volunteers who feel obligated to put forth the extra effort to take part in this type of activity and the many other volunteer activities in the county.

God bless you all and may we all be thankful for all the volunteers and their work.

To the Editor:

The Southern Garrett Athletic Association held its annual sports banquet at Southern High School on May 25. We feel that the coaches of the football staff were very unfair in the way they choose who deserves trophies. If your name is not "Bosley," if you are not in the backfield, if you don't make it to a conference game, or if you don't kiss . . . , then you may as well forget about getting a trophy. I'm not the only senior who feels this way and there are a lot of parents who feel this way too.

To those seniors who did get an award, you are among the elite: good for you! At least we seniors got some recognition.

"An Untalented Senior Football Player"

To the Editor:

Once again SGAA outdid themselves with a great sports banquet. It is appreciated by every athlete and parent. This is the athlete's day for recognition and praise.

A memorable day was ruined as I sat at Southern on Sunday and heard the head football coach begin by telling his graduating seniors they were the least talented boys he had coached in sometime. I'm sure this was good for each boy's self-esteem.

Accordingly, he went on to tell about their injuries (and this was about all the recognition they got!). He made it sound as though the seniors didn't play past the first game. But coach, you wouldn't have had a 7-3 season without those poor, crippled, untalented seniors, who were always the backbone of your team.

Yes, I am a parent, and I'm proud to say I'm the parent of a senior. Yes, my son was injured, but he played every game and on first string.

Every year I see the awards for football changed from what they were the year before to suit the coach's mood. Every year the same people usually get all the trophies, and are always mentioned.

Mr. Woods, there is a lot of talent on your football squad that is never used. Maybe it's time some of the other boys had a chance.

There is more to a good team than a winning season and a trip to play-offs.

This year's seniors didn't let you down; they gave you all they had . . . you let them down.

Name withheld by request

To the Editor:

I'm a senior at Southern High School and a member of the Southern High Track and Field team. The track team was started last year with only a few students competing in the events. This year, the track team expanded its limits to all events. The team competed in the 100-meter dash, 200-meter dash, 4x100 relay, 4x200 relay, 4x400 relay, 1600-run, 3200-run, 400-run, hurdles, high jump, long jump, triple jump, shot put, discus and pole vault. The team couldn't have participated in all these events without the help of the coaches.

Mr. Bill Freyman and Mr. Bob Quick helped the track in so many ways. They helped me a lot. I would like to extend my greatest appreciation to Coach Freyman and Coach Quick for helping me in my senior year. Without them, I don't think I would have been the best I could be. Track is not an easy sport, but it did bring out the best in me. Thanks to the great coaching staff, I made it to the state tournament and I competed with the best in Maryland.

Thanks, coaches, for all your help. I really do appreciate it.

To the Editor:

I am sure that everyone is aware of the case of child abuse that has left a little girl in critical condition in a Cumberland hospital.

What in the world does it take to stop this? Why does Social Services take one child out of a home and leave the other to be killed? It seems to me that the time to do something about this is when it is reported, and I know for a fact that it was reported before this awful thing happened. How much suffering this poor little child must have gone through and only God knows for how long.

Every time you go to a doctor, dentist or to a grocery store you see a bunch of young people with medical cards and food stamps. If these punks were made to go out and get a job, they wouldn't have time for child abuse and other such things. This thing of saying, "I can't find a job" is a crock. You can't find a job if you don't look for one. The Welfare hands out to people like this and an old person can't get help at all. Nine times out of ten, these people they are helping out go out and climb in a car with a beer can in one hand and a cigarette in the other. As long as the Welfare is going to keep people like this lying around doing nothing, we are going to have all kinds of trouble. It is time (past time again) that our Welfare and Social programs are checked out.

If these people can afford a car, gasoline, cigarettes, beer and other things that aren't necessary, then they don't need on Welfare and food stamps. That is why our older people can't get any help. I am sure there are other people who will agree with me 100 percent.

Most people think if they can't get a job making big money they won't do anything at all, and that is just what they do, nothing. They have too much time for things that can lead to trouble.

Now is the time for people to get involved and try to stop another child from ending up in a hospital near death from brutal beatings. Don't be afraid to report things like this and don't stop until something is done. Thank God for the people who got involved, but in this case it was too long before anything was done.

I am angry and I am sure that a lot of other people are too.

Wanema G. Gnegy

To the Editor:

For Garrett Countians, history is made to come alive in a new series of lectures and discussions currently offered at Garrett Community College each Tuesday evening at 6:30.

Mary Love's sequal to last year's series on "Garrett County Rivers, Roads and Railroads" is now examining changes on various aspects of Garrett County society and lifestyle over the years.

This series might be expected to appeal to long-time residents of the county who wish to refresh or enhance their own perspective, and to others interested in tracing evolutionary changes in a variety of aspects of local community life.

Subjects still to be explored weekly by local guest speakers through July 29 include education, medicine, lumbering, law enforcement, mining, music, private sports, performing arts, transportation and tourism.

For all the problems which GCC has experienced and endured, the availability of this course at the college is still another example of the viability of the institution and that in fact it is a place "where the community comes together."

Its mission is too important to the entire community to allow its potential to be diminished or extinguished by narrow, self-interests or incompetence at any level.

It is within the hands of this communities leaders to see that GCC emerges as a proud monument to the county's foresight and capabilities, not as a tombstone to its failures.

Sincerely,
Richard H. Peake Jr.

To The Editor:

The public hearing to consider use of Deep Creek Lake land is an important one. We heard about the hearing by reading an article in The Republican, which we purchased during a recent visit.

Our first visit to Deep Creek Lake was August, 1985. Since then, we've returned three times and we love it. Though you may think you already know it, you can't possibly realize what a beautiful place it is. It deserves protection and limitations to keep it special for everyone, residents and visitors, for generations to come.

We live very near the Portage Lakes. In some ways it is similar to Deep Creek. It is a state park; it is open to the public; there is boating and swimming. There is also private development of this lake which probably started out much like Deep Creek. Unfortunatly, as the years have gone by, an almost unrelenting build-up of the area has occurred with many establishments and lakeside bars opening up. These also have dockside areas for incoming boats.

Boating accidents are fairly frequent. The lake is a haven for both fishermen and waterskiers. This past summer a girl's hand was severed in an accident caused when a speeding boat crossed her tow line. In another skirmish, two young men were killed when the occupants of the two boats they occupied began to argue about fishing rights versus boating rights.

Times have had to be set up for fishing and skiing. Lanes have been marked. There are actual traffic jams in the water with boats passing under certain inlets. Commercial development is rampant and gaudy signs abound. Houses range anywhere from the very elite to shacks.

Read carefully the above description because without proper controls and without a total disregard for anyone's greed, this could be Deep Creek Lake. We certainly hope that Deep Creek doesn't fall into the same trap as the Portage Lakes and may other formerly beautiful and unspoiled water areas.

The Portage Lakes has been rendered almost useless for many. The beauty of the lakes has been covered with so-called entrepreneurs who don't care a bit about wildlife or clean water.

We are not the type of people who want Deep Creek Lake to stay nice just for us when we visit and to heck with the people who call it home. We know that people have to work, and the lure of promoters wanting to put in this and that, with promises of lots of jobs for locals is tempting to be sure. Watch out!

Without watching closely, the things that make Deep Creek Lake special for everyone will be lost. A convention center–we saw signs about that. Here come the bars, etc. You need a convention center in Deep Creek Lake like each resident needs a hole in his head.

Employment opportunities can be created for Deep Creek residents, with controlled residential growth, service-related businesses and all the things that money can't buy. The big fast buck is not where Deep Creek gets its charm.

Preserve it.

Sincerely,
Eric and Karen Nelson

To the Editor:

It amazes me at the number of people in Garrett County that malign the black bear as unpredictable, ferocious and downright dangerous to human life and limb. It would hustle a grizzly bear to live up to a reputation like that and their record of coexistence with humans does leave something to be desired. To say that I was sorry to hear about the totally inexcusable slaughter of the black bears with unborn cubs would be a major understatement, that was an unconscionable act against the wild kingdom which the black bear is a part of and rightfully belongs in the woods with the other creatures of nature. The '60-'80 year record on black bears by the wildlife managers shows no fatalities or injury to humans and virtually no threat to livestock.

But with or without the record the letter to the editor by Mr. and Mrs. Kemp of Texas has my stamp of approval. They put it all together and are telling it like it is.

More power to the black bear.

Summer School Offered At High, Middle Schools

According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, a summer school program will be offered at both the middle and high school levels this summer from June 23 through August 1.

On the middle school level, language arts, reading and math will be offered at Northern and/or Southern Middle Schools.

The high schools will offer review credits in English for grades nine through 12, math for grades nine and ten, science for grade nine, U.S. History, civics, and biology. These classes will be held at Garrett Community College.

According to Ryscavage, review credits can be earned only by retaking a course for which a student previously was denied credit. It could be possible for a high school student to earn two review credits during the summer months.

Tuition for Garrett County middle school students is $100 for the entire program, and $50 per course for all Garrett County high school students. An out-of-county additional fee of $10 will be charged to non-Garrett County students.

Students are expected to attend every session of the class. According to the superintendent, if a student takes an unexcused absence he/she will not receive credit for the course. However, a student may have up to three excused absences and still receive credit for the course, provided all work is made up and a passing grade is maintained.

Ryscavage stated that students are expected to be in class on time. If tardiness becomes a problem, the teacher and principal will consider this the same as an unexcused absence.

The regular school regulations and discipline will apply in summer school. According to the superintendent, any student whose behavior becomes disruptive will be dropped from the summer school at the discretion of the principal, and there will be no tuition refund in such cases.

Students are responsible for their own transportation. Students will not be permitted to remain in the school building after class is dismissed except by special permission from the principal.

Ryscavage said a report of the student's progress will be made to parents at the mid-term and at the end of the session. Percentage grades will be given by teachers for each course. The guidance staff will record the summer school grade, and credit if earned, on the appropriate student record card.

Report card dates will be July 14 and August 1. A grade of 70 percent or better for each course will be required for the student to pass and/or earn credit.

Registraion will be held at both high schools and middle schools any week day beginning at 8:30 a.m., and at 4 p.m. June 9 through June 20. All fees must be paid in full at the time of registration. Registration after the above date will require a $12.50 late fee, according to Ryscavage. Brochures and registration forms may be obtained from any of the schools listed above.

The Book Mark

by Mark Fulk

The novel, Woman of Substance, by Barbara Taylor Bradford, was an intriguing novel about a woman who rose above her circumstances to become wealthy and powerful. She had to face betrayal in her own family, the deep-seeded corruption in her corporation. In Hold the Dream, the sequal to A Woman of Substance, the story of Emma Harte continues. This story centers around Emma's beloved granddaughter, Paula Fairley, whom Emma places in charge of her vast corporations and corporate holdings. The family members, once divided asunder by the betrayal of four of Emma's five children, try to gaze past the wretched past and into the future and the focus upon the need for a strong family in a crumbling world.

In the panoramic novel, a background of lively, vibrant characters exists, including: Emily, Emma's loving granddaughter and the family "spy"; Shane, a man torn apart by his developing love for one who is unaccessible to him; Edwina, a "spoiled little rich girl" learning to grow up the hard way; and Jonathon, the family's "dark spectre." This book has intense emotion, a well-developed plot which began in its predecessor and is a definite "page-turner." If you have not read Hold the Dream, I recommend that you get it, and enjoy.

The two books I will be reviewing in the next edition of this column will be Mindbend by Robin Cook, and Richard Bach's A Bridge Across Forever.

Summer Products I'd Like To See
by Susan Alvarez

With the lazy days of summer fast approaching, here is my list of suggestions for new products that would not only be sell-out hits, but would help to make summertime even lazier.

Full-grown grass—This is a species of grass which reaches a certain height and then stops growing—just as people do when they reach certain heights. The perfect height for full-grown grass would be about two inches. And as we do not mow full-grown people, we would not have to mow full-grown grass.

Recreational robot—This robot could be programmed to walk around your neighborhood and at the single push of a button have over a thousand wholesome, invigorating, fun-packed ideas for the kids who constantly ask, "We're bored, mom. What can we do?"

Weeding dogs/cats—These highly trained animals can be taught to patrol the yard and garden. Instead of leaving evidence of their presence, they can be taught to dig weeds out of the yard and garden.

Sand repellent—This product can be sprayed on floors, in shoes, on car seats, beach towels and in children's hair. When used as directed, sand will not dare to adhere to any surface which has been sprayed.

The ultra-ice cream cone—This ice cream cone will refuse to drip on floors, shirts, hands or car seats, despite the fact that it's 90 degrees outside and the cone is being held upside down.

Self-expanding bathing suit—This suit will automatically grow one size larger once it is put away for the winter, giving the owner the distinct satisfaction of pretending that he or she hasn't gained a single ounce since last summer.

Self-cleaning charcoal grills—Come on! Someone came up with the idea of self-cleaning ovens. Now where is that grill that will self-destruct burnt-on cheese, hamburger grease and barbecue sauce?

Creek Lake. All items for pick-up must be placed at the roadside no later than 1 p.m. on Sunday, June 8. It should be noted that the volunteers will not pick up leaves, brush, tires, household litter, stumps, or driftwood.

banking education and in legislation affecting banks.

As president of Maryland Bankers Association, Tusing will serve as a member of the Conference of State Associations as well as a participant in the American Bankers Association Banking Leadership Conference.

Tusing is a graduate of Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., and the Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University. His career consists of thirty-seven years of banking experience, including over twenty years with First United.

Tusing started with First National Bank of Oakland in January 1966. At that time, the bank had only three branches. Through his tenure he has seen the bank grow to its present total of fourteen full-service offices.

Tusing and his wife, the former Mattie Webster, have two children: Mrs. Cynthia T. Pike, Greenville, South Carolina; and Lt. Commander George M. Tusing II, United States Navy, Norfolk, Virginia. The Tusings, who presently reside at Deep Creek Lake, have five grandchildren.

New President

changes whatever until the report was issued.

"To do otherwise would, I believe, be foolhardy since I am a newcomer to Garrett County and to Maryland," Herman stated. "If I am to be a helpful partner in rebuilding a happy, harmonious, and productive institution, the solutions must emanate from within the college and the community. My role is a small one. It is to act as a catalyst encouraging each and everyone of you to join with me in a collective and inclusive enterprise, all of us together, contributing our collective wisdom to building a college which reflects our shared values and hopes."

Dr. Herman will be moving to Garrett County with his wife, Gail, who earned her doctorate from the University of Connecticut in curriculum and instruction with an emphasis on language arts in elementary education.

Mrs. Herman has taught at Keene State College, the University of Connecticut, Wesleyan University, Eastern Connecticut State University, and Quinebaug Valley Community College. She is also a specialist in arts education and in using activities to support learning in the basic curriculum. She is an arts consultant and evaluator and designs curriculum for gifted and talented education programs. In addition, she is a professional storyteller for children and adults.

The Hermans have a 19-year-old daughter, Leta, who attends Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass. They enjoy theatre and dance, water sports and cross country skiing.

Dr. Herman replaces Dr. David A. Puzzuoli, who served as interim president from September, 1985 to the present.

The new president met with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners on Tuesday morning. The commissioners expressed hopes for a "better relationship" with the new president and said they liked his "tentative approach to the situation at GCC."

Treatment Plant

In that letter Boal said, "Since the town government was told during the first week of February that the design review would be completed in 'about two weeks,' the mayor and council are understandably upset by all of the delay in prompt completion of this review as well as in the lack of official communication as to the review's progress.

"It seems as though there was much communication when the town was being pressured, not to mention being fined, concerning getting the plant design completed, but now that the ball is in the court of the Maryland DHMH we are faced with a totally different scenario."

Both Boal and McCartney say they are very dissatisfied with DHMH. "It's a Frankenstein monster," said Boal.

When the design review is completed, the town will be given permission to advertise for bids. According to France, there are two separate contracts; one for the collection system and one for the treatment plant itself.

France explained that parts of the existing collection system must be relaid—Liberty Street, from the scales to Second Street, and Third Street, from Green to Center Streets. New sewer construction will be needed in Mitchell Manor, Dennett Road, Third Street, and a short distance on Oak Street. Also some spot repairs will be made in town.

France said the new pump station will be constructed west of Tablelands Milk Producers, between the highway and the river. This will include a pressure sewer to the head of the treatment works at Bradley Run. The treatment plant itself will consist of four ponds, two new ones and two existing ponds.

Conservation Corps will be performing more intensive walkway development, including application of stone chips, construction of boardwalks in poorly drained areas and stepways in the more rugged terrain.

Pan Am Cup Races

The final green light has been given to the planned final race series of the Pan American Cup Races at the Savage River this Labor Day weekend. Members of the local committee expect to be volunteers manning many aspects of the event.

While not primarily being responsible for the Pan Am Cup races at Savage River this year, the committee has been working with the Upper Potomac River Commission to assure water releases that weekend.

The committee is also preparing a consolidated area accommodations guide that can help those who require lodging or camping assistance.

Fundraising/Promotion

The committee is currently launching a major two-prong fundraising initiative. First, a solicitation of state and local governmental units requesting funding for promotion and event administration.

The second prong of their efforts is aimed toward major national companies with certain marketing objectives which parallel the sport like beverages, beer and sports equipment. A 10-page full color brochure touting the significance of the event to potential sponsors has been printed also.

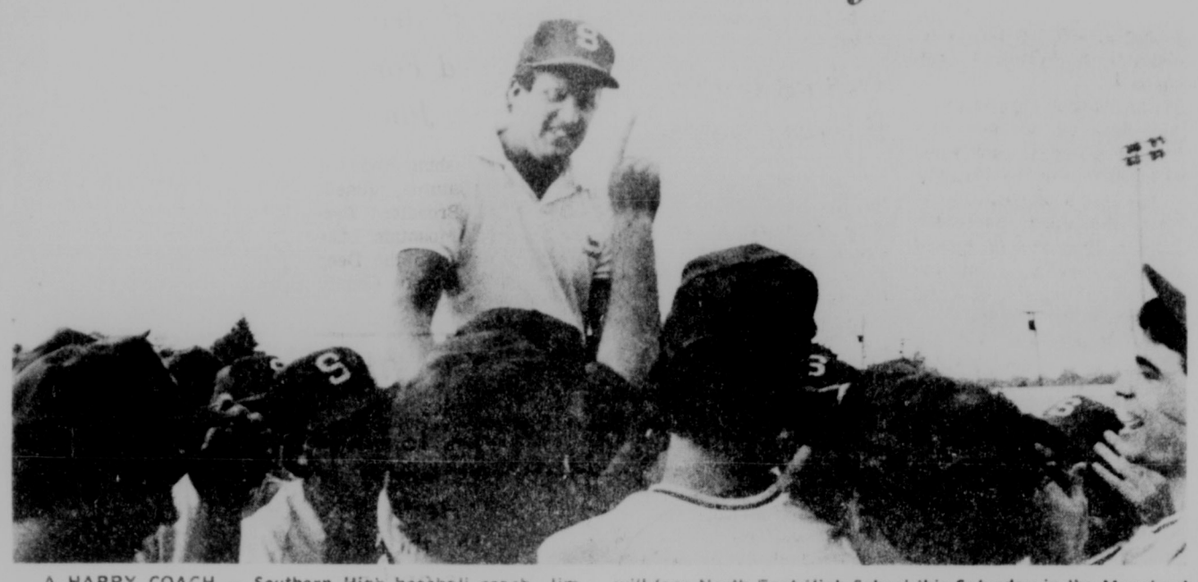
Rams Regional Champs; To Face North East In State Semifinals



A HAPPY COACH — Southern High baseball coach, Jim Bosley, was probably the happiest man in the county last night after his team won the Class B Region I championship. The Rams will face North East High School this Saturday in the Maryland Class B semifinals.

By virtue of an 8-1 win last evening over visiting Woodward High School of Montgomery County, the Southern High Rams are the Region I Class B champions and are automatically in the semi-finals of the Maryland State Class B Tournament.

Coach Jim Bosley's 18-4 squad, seeded third in the state tourney, will face defending Class B champion North East High School this Saturday, May 31, at noon at McCurdy High School in Frederick. North East, which is located in Cecil County, is undefeated on the season (18-0) and is seeded second in the tournament.

The other semi-final will pit number one seeded Pikesville (17-2) against the fourth seed, Atholoton (14-6) and the winners of these games will meet for the state title on the following Saturday, also at McCurdy field in Frederick.

The Rams, who have won 17 of their last 18 games, earned a spot in the regional finals by whipping Linganore on Saturday, 6-2, in Oakland. Jon Reneslacis, who has been the ace pitcher for the Rams all year, tossed both wins to up his personal record to 9-0, by far the best in the area.

Reneslacis gave up only three hits and struck out five in going the distance against Linganore in the regional semi-finals on Saturday.

Donnie Horner, who is sporting a .444 batting average, led things off for the Rams with a two-out, two-run double in the second inning.

The Lancers narrowed the gap to 2-1 in the top of the third frame with an unearned run, however the Rams came back to ice the victory with four runs in the bottom of the third.

Bruce Bosley, who came into the game with a team-leading 20 RBIs, led off the Rams' third by reaching base on an error and then moved to third on a double by J.R. Bosley. Bruce Bosley came home on an error, Jeff Sweitzer followed with a triple to score J.R. Bosley, and Rich Goad squeezed Sweitzer home to complete Southern's scoring on the afternoon.

Linganore came back for a single run in the top of the fifth, but could get no closer.

Judd Wilson, who was relieved by John Krzysiak in the sixth frame, took the loss on the mound. The Lancers concluded their season with a 9-9 mark.

Reneslacis aided his own cause last night in the game against Woodward by pounding out a double and two singles, while teammate Tim Chapman also hit a double and two singles in the Rams' 11-hit performance.

Reneslacis pitched five innings and was then relieved by Phil Spaulding so he could rest for Saturday's game against North East. The duo gave up only five hits and each pitcher had four strikeouts, including four straight by Spaulding to end the game.

The Rams scored twice in the first inning on a sacrifice fly by Bruce Bosley and a single by Chapman.

In the bottom of the second Southern stretched its lead to 6-0 behind a bases-loaded double by Chapman, which scored three runs.

The Montgomery Countians came back in the top of the third with their only run of the game, produced when Joe Collins doubled and came home on a two-out single by Pete Leake.

The Rams added a pair of insurance runs in the fourth on an RBI triple by Jeff Sweitzer, followed by Goad's squeeze bunt which plated Sweitzer.

It was the Rams' 13th consecutive win, while Woodward finished with a 12-6 mark.

"I'm still shell shocked," stated Coach Bosley this morning after a late night of celebrating last night. "We are still on fire, just like we have been for several weeks now. Our hitting was just incredible, we got super pitching, and our defense was excellent. That's really all it takes to win. We seem to get the big hits right when we need them.

"This is just a great bunch of kids," Bosley continued. "We are having a great time and can hardly wait for Saturday's game."

Fans planning to attend Saturday's game should follow U.S. Rt. 70 East; take the first Frederick exit, which is U.S. Rt. 40 W; pass the Frederick Town Mall and look for Frederick High School which will be about one mile past the Mall on the left; bear right at the stop light at Frederick High School, go one block, turn right, and the McCurdy field will be in sight. The field is easily spotted because it has lights.

"We certainly hope a lot of local fans are able to come to the game," Bosley said. "It really does make a difference."

Nesselrodt Reflects On Laker Season, Notes Individual Player Highlights

Benny Shreve
MVP

Top Offensive Player

Jim Keller
Top Defensive Player

Vaughn Yenich
Top Pitcher

Although the Garrett Community College Lakers didn't last long in the Region XX Tournament this spring season, Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt was quite pleased with the Lakers' efforts this season and reflected this week on his team's records and accomplishments.

"I'm going to miss this group," the second-year coach and former GCC player stated. "They have done an exceptional job both on and off the field."

After jumping off to an 8-3 start, the Lakers dropped into a slump that resulted in a 9-9 mark midway through the season. But then everything started clicking for the GCC squad, who came on to win 16 of their final 21 games and earn a spot in the Region XX event. Three of the eight teams in the tourney were ranked as high as tenth, 11th, and 12th in the nation.

Until this year, 16 teams were eligible to play in the Regional tournament; however that number was cut in half this year, "which makes our presence there even more of an accomplishment," Nesselrodt aid.

"Our region plays an excellent brand of baseball as is shown by the national stats," he said. "The nation's leading hitter, the second ranked hitting team, and two of the top ten home run leaders were all representatives from our region."

Among the highlights of the Laker season were a single-season team home run record with 36, a team batting average of .333, and 88 stolen bases out of 100 attempts. The team was not shut out during the spring season and was blanked only once in the fall segment. They posted a 6-5 fall record and a 25-14 mark during the spring for a combined total of 31-21, one win short of the school's single season record.

The Lakers were not without their star players, as two of them were ranked among the top in the nation in hitting.

Infielder and team co-captain Benny Shreve, who was named to second team All Region for the second year in a row, was ranked as high as sixth in the nation, holding a blistering .520 average in mid-April. He set three school records: most triples in a season (six), most triples in career (10), and most doubles in career (35). His GCC career batting average is .408.

"Benny gave 100 percent all the time, both on and off the field," Nesselrodt said. Shreve was graduated with a 3.0 average.

The other nationally ranked player in a GCC uniform was Kent Freeman, who finished the season with a .469 batting average, ninth best in the United States. He holds four GCC records, including most home runs in a season and career, 56 and 96, respectively. He also maintained a 3.0 average in the classroom.

"Kent had a year that most people just dream about," his coach said, "truly one of the best I have ever seen. His bat overshadowed an outstanding defensive year." He was named the top offensive player on the GCC team.

Winning the top defensive player award was Jim Keller, who played third base "as well as any player in GCC history," Nesselrodt said. He also finished with a .317 batting average and provided a number of timely hits throughout the year. He was a 3.0 general studies major.

Vaughn Yenich, who finished the year with a 7-4 record on the mound, was the recipient of the top pitching award. In 67 and a third innings, Yenich fanned 77 batters and was one win away from the GCC record.

"Vaughn got the tough calls all season," Nesselrodt said. "His big wins came against CC Beaver, Catonsville, and Marietta JVs. Another bg highlight was his no-hitter against Dundalk."

Phil Carr, former Northern High standout and team captain at Garrett, finished with a .322 batting average and received the top physical education student award for his academic efforts (3.2 average).

"Phil was easily the most improved player on the team this year," his coach stated. "He raised his batting average 80 points and played solid defense, moving from left field to first base."

Another offensive catalyst for the Lakers was Lynny Shook, who batted .308 for the year and reached base nearly 50 percent of the time. "Lynny had a great all-around season for us serving as our leadoff hitter and also in the outfield where he earned the top defensive award last season," Nesselrodt said. Shook also holds a 3.3 gpa in the classroom.

Rick Harasti, the starting centerfielder, led the Lakers in stolen bases, collecting 19 on 21 attempts for a 39 of 44 mark in two seasons. "Rick plays a very good defensive centerfield and provided some punch in the line-up with a .438 on-base percentage and three home runs," Nesselrodt noted.

Freshman Brad Basinger was one of the more versatile players on the squad, seeing action at first base, third base, as a designated hitter, and on the mound, where he compiled a 4-1 record. He hit .293 on the year, including four home runs. "Brad will head the list of returning Lakers next year," Nesselrodt said.

Rick McPeek, who earned the job of starting at second base, recorded a .325 batting average and stole 11 bases on 13 attempts. "Rick came on and did an outstanding job for us by solidifying our infield," Nesselrodt said.

Brian Wagner, who served a dual role as pitcher and catcher, scored 14 runs while batting an impressive .354 and a 1-1 mark on the mound.

Dave McLaughlin, former top Southern High athlete, played numerous positions for the Lakers while registering a .340 average and five doubles.

Matt Moore, who led the Lakers' hitting in the fall with a .49 mark, was the workhorse behind the plate where he did "an exceptional job" according to Nesselrodt.

Jeff Varitek, who was used primarily as a pinch/designated hitter, compiled a .303 average, while Bruce Erminio, another freshman expected to anchor next season's team, rapped three home runs during the Lakers' winning flurry at the end of the season.

Other pitchers with good performances were Denzil Evans, who had five saves and a 1-0 record, Bryon Gray, who finished with a 4-1 mark, and Chris Huyett, last season's top pitcher, finished with a 3-2 record, despite arm trouble throughout much of the season.

Bill Liller, although posting a 2-4 record, tossed a complete game in a victory over CCAC Boyce when the staff was reduced to five players because of injury. Stacey Viands finished at 3-2, with one of his wins a no-hitter over CCAC Boyce and another a one-hitter against Ohio Valley.

"We had some fantastic performances this year and now I'm anxious for the fall season to begin," Nesselrodt concluded.

Oakland Opens Pen Mar Action With Two Wins

The Pen-Mar Baseball League began its 38th consecutive season of play this past Sunday on a high note for Garrett County fans, as Oakland defeated defending league champion Moorefield in both ends of a doubleheader, 4-3 and 8-4. Oakland has been in the league since 1973.

It took 10 innings for the Oaks to top the West Virginians in the first game. Stan Fitzwater, last season's pitcher of the year, started for Oakland and was relieved by Dave Shallmo in the sixth inning. The two combined for an eight-hitter and fanned nine batters, as Shallmo was given credit for the win.

Bill Liller, who tossed for Garrett Community College this year, started on the mound for Moorefield and was relieved by Craig Turner in the eighth.

Mike Matthews led Oakland's hitting with a homer in the first frame and a single in the tenth. Dave McLaughlin smacked a one-run double in the seventh to knot the score at 3-3. Wayne Brown provided the game-winning hit in the bottom of the tenth for Oakland, an RBI single.

Mike Landis hit a solo homer and Craig Turner recorded a pair of hits for Moorefield.

Scott Stem, who took over on the mound in the fourth inning, earned the win in the second game, while Lynn Mathias absorbed the loss. Mike Brady had started for Oakland and struck out four batters in three innings.

Mike Gustave paced Oakland with three hits, including a run-producing double and a solo home run. Matt Moore added three singles, Lawrence Nesselrodt, coach of the GCC Lakers, collected a pair of hits and a stolen base for Oakland, while Matthews added a two-run single in the first.

Brady and Stem limited Moorefield to just three hits.

Besides Fitzwater, Shallmo, Brady, and Stem, Oakland pitching staff also includes Rick Czekau, John Helmick, and Steve Mohr. Catchers include McLaughlin, Moore, and Brown. Infielders are Matthews, Nesselrodt, Ed Wildesen, Phil Caruso, Dave Shotwell, and Francis Mouse. Outfielders are Gustave, Phil Carr, Steve Zumpano, Dave Bender, and Terry Helbig.

The coaching staff includes Helbig, Caruso, and George Brady.

Oakland will travel to Elkins this Sunday for a 2 p.m. doubleheader at Blue Grass Field.

Golf Winners Noted

The Men's Association of the Oakland Country Club held a low-net club tournament May 24-26 at the local course.

Southern Middle Students To Host New York Penpals

Approximately 40 Brooklyn, New York, students and students from Southern Middle School will be meeting on June 1-2 as part of a unique opportunity for these penpals to gather, share their talents, and learn about one another's lifestyles.

The New York students are mostly sixth graders who attend PSI in Brooklyn and are quite active in the performing arts. With the direction of their teachers, Loraine Conforte and Isabel Santiago, the students are preparing a combination drama/dance and vocal program. This program is to be presented to the students of Southern Middle School on Monday, June 2. In addition, an evening performance open to the public is planned for the same day at 7 p.m. with a time of refreshments to follow. This will be an opportunity for the public to meet the Brooklyn students and their teachers.

The student hosts and hostesses are approximately 70 seventh grade students of Southern Middle School, their language arts teacher, Dianne Dean, and their social studies teacher, Shirley Spiker. These students and the Brooklyn students have been corresponding since February. Additional 7A team teachers will be assisting in several other planned activities to allow time for the pupils to be together before the Brooklyn group returns to New York on June 3.

The public is invited to attend the evening performance.

Hospice Appoints Dr. Kaiser As Medical Director

Dr. Margaret Kaiser was appointed to the position of medical director of Hospice at a meeting of the Garrett County Hospice Board of Directors last week, according to Wayne Johnson, executive director of Hospice.

Dr. Kaiser replaces Dr. Walter Nauman who resigned that post recently.

Dr. Nauman held the position of medical director for Hospice since its formation.

"Dr. Nauman, Nancy Trimble and the board members were the guiding influence in developing policies, describing functions, and outlining the entire program as it is today," stated Johnson. "Dr. Nauman has communicated with physicians referring to Hospice of Garrett County to be certain that patient care was of the highest quality. When hospital patients needed a local physician, he filled that need. It is with great appreciation that the board recognizes the time and efforts of Dr. Nauman in making Hospice of Garrett County a success."

Dr. Kaiser is an internist in Oakland. "She has shown support for Hospice over the years and has made numerous referrals to the program. She supports the efforts to make patients and families as comfortable as possible during a terminal illness," stated Johnson. "The board is grateful that she is willing to add the duties as Hospice Medical Director to her busy schedule and looks forward to working with her."

Johnson said Dr. Donald Richter has also offered his assistance to Hospice and will be working with Dr. Kaiser. The executive director said the board was pleased to accept his support.

Also at last week's board meeting, it was noted that Sandy Park and Aloise O'Neill have accepted the position of co-directors for the Hospice Auxiliary. The auxiliary is involved with fundraisers. Currently, a raffle is being held for a "Weekend-Get-Away". A yard sale is slated for June 28 at Broadford Park and a bake sale will be held July 4.

Johnson said anyone wishing to become a member of the auxiliary should contact Park at 334-2270 or O'Neill at 387-4884. Those desiring additional information about Hospice should contact Johnson at 334-8111 or 895-3111.

A fall class for Hospice Volunteer Caregivers will begin September 11 and run through November 13. All classes are scheduled on Thursday evening. Those interested may call Johnson at the numbers mentioned above.

Finally, a fundraising report was given. The recent membership drive tallied approximately $1,500 of a goal of $3,000 and $470 was realized from a load of firewood donated by Glotfelty Lumber Company. A total of $2,600 will be donated to Hospice by state employees in Garrett County and the state of Maryland through the United Charity Campaign of Maryland State employees and retirees.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst
DIRECTOR

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY

Many people desire to express their sympathy by sending flowers or some other memorial in addition to extending their condolences in person. Others do this because they cannot attend either the visitation or the service.

For the most part, those who wish to demonstrate their feelings should be able to do so, in the way they prefer and which is most natural for them. Flowers, for example, have a message all their own—one which is universal. They also add beauty to the casket setting and to the funeral service.

While it is considered proper for the family to suggest a certain memorial (such as a donation to a particular charity), this should not be done in such a manner as to exclude alternate expressions of sympathy. It should also be presented in such a way so as not to be construed as a tangible solicitation of sympathy. The funeral director can advise on these and similar matters.

The president, M. Sue Shockey, gave a report on the Regional meeting she attended on May 17, in Frederick. The Southern and Northern women provided the table decorations for the Regional meeting.

Capt. Rentschler Graduates From Medical School

Captain Lawrence L. Rentschler, M.D., graduated from the USUHS F. Edward Hebert School of Medicine, Bethesda, on Saturday, May 17. Commencement, promotion and regular USAF commissioning exercises were held at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Washington, D.C. for the 153 class of 1986 medical officer graduates.

A Kennedy Center rooftop terrace reception for the graduates and their immediate family members followed. A personal reception provided by Dr. Rentschler's wife, Maureen, and his sister, Jeannie Gallagher of Parkersburg, W. Va., was later held for family and friends at the Bethesda Marriott on Saturday evening.

Dr. Rentschler is the son of former Oakland resident, Mrs. Geneva Rentschler, Destin, Fla. and the late Robert V. Rentschler Sr.

He attended school and junior college in Garrett County and later received his bachelor of science degree in chemistry, cum laude, from the University of South Dakota in 1982. For the past 10 years, he has been a member of the uniformed services.

Dr. and Mrs. Rentschler and their children, Gabriel, Austin and Jennifer, will reside in Biloxi, Miss., where he will continue his medical training as a pediatric intern at the United States Air Force Medical Center, Keesler Air Force Base beginning July 1.

Mower Safety Meeting Topic At Local Parks

Mower safety was the topic of the Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Park and Potomac/Garrett State Forest safety meeting for May. Dennis Shaffer and Foster Lewis, the unit safety officers, introduced the employees to the program demonstration instructors. After reviewing information they obtained at the Farm Safety Rescue course held at Broad Ford School several weeks ago, Robert Stemple, a long-time employee at Herrington Manor, discussed the hazards associated with riding mowers and demonstrated how to use the mower safely. Phillip Jarusek of Sang Run presented a short talk about push mowers and possible accidents and/or injuries which may occur if a mower is used improperly.

A flail mower was exhibited by Shaffer and its use was explained. Flail mowers are powerful cutting machines powered by a tractor power take-off. Because the mower cutters operated at high RPM's and with centrifugal force, Shaffer said accident potential is high unless proper procedures are followed.

Rick Wakefield of Potomac State Forest discussed with the group the hazards involved while working around backhoe and loader equipment. The agency's backhoe is stationed at Herrington Manor, and is used extensively throughout Western Maryland by trained employees on public lands.

Awards for the three top safety suggestions for the month were announced by Lewis and Shaffer. A fishing rod and reel was presented to Robert Stemple for his first place suggestion. Phillip Hebb received $10 in cash from the Oakland American Legion for his second place suggestion. The third place award was split between Carol Lucas and Connie Morgan. They each received $5 worth of gasoline from Gibson's Store in Crellin. Shaffer and Lewis again noted their appreciation for the support of the local forest and park safety promotion effort by local business and groups.

CONDUCT WORKSHOP — Human and medical genetics was the topic of a workshop that was held in the assembly room of the Garrett County Health Departmnt on May 14. The event was a collaborative effort of several organizations and agencies, including the Health Department, the Mid-Atlantic Regional Human Genetics Network, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, the Division of Hereditary Disorders, the Garrett County March of Dimes chapter, and Crippled Children's Fund. The goal of the workshop was to provide genetic information to science teachers who could then incorporate the material into their existing curriculums. Teachers from Garrett and Allegany counties and Preston County, W.Va., participated. The presenting faculty included, left to right, Susan Panny, M.D.; Peggy Ledwith, R.N.; and Marcia Schwartz, M.D., all from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Goldstein Tells Bankers To Adopt Disclosure Policy

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein told the Maryland Bankers Association, meeting in Boca Raton, Fla., on Tuesday, that they should adopt policies of disclosing financial information to the public similar to the state's practices.

The comptroller stated that Maryland's full disclosure policies helped the state get through the savings and loan crisis with its prime triple A general obligation bond rating intact.

"Now, you don't represent savings and loans and I don't regulate them. But the crisis in financial confidence and credibility they created has left its mark on . . . anyone who has the duty of financial stewardship and public trust," he said.

"We went to work right away to preserve that rating," he told the bankers. "We didn't hold anything back, and our reputation was already so strong, and confidence in Maryland was so firm, that we weathered the S & L crisis with our credit - and our credibility - intact."

Comparing the dozen banks entering the Maryland market to a herd of stampeding cattle, Goldstein warned the Maryland bankers not to be fooled like the emperor in the fairy tale who thought he would disdain the people who couldn't see his new clothes.

"The emperor put his faith in an illusion when the truth would have served him better.

"Your industry has faced many challenges and problems, including the S & L crisis, increased competition, interstate banking, deregulation and more," he said. "One of the greatest assets you have as you face these challenges and the changes in your business is a cloak of credibility, the mantle of honesty and full disclosure.

"I urge you to make public disclosure by the banking industry one of your assets, the way the State of Maryland has made financial disclosure one of ours," he said.

Goldstein told the association that, as a member of the State Banking Commission, he would continue to urge full disclosure by Maryland banks.

The comptroller noted that his concern with full disclosure of state finances has made Maryland a leader among the states and one of only three states to hold the coveted Certificate of Conformance in Financial Reporting—international recognition of the state's disclosure practices.

He noted that Maryland was one of the first states to respond to a changing bond market in the 1970's by publishing a complete financial disclosure statement in connection with general obligation bond sales.

"We were also the first state to publish our official financial reports, containing the opinion of an independent auditor. Today, the independent audit is becoming more and more a requirement of investors, rating agencies and the bond market. And Maryland was the leader," he said.

Goldstein warned the bankers that they, like the state, have a stewardship responsibility. "You must offer not just a good product, but also confidence and credibility," he concluded.

A MAJOR ANNOUNCEMENT was made last week by a Garrett County realty company. A&A Realty, based at Deep Creek Lake, was selected by the Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service as its exclusive member in Garrett County. Unveiling the company's new sign last week was Karen Spiker, president of A&A. She said the new affiliation will allow the company "to offer more services to consumers and give the local company the expertise of a national real estate organization."

Maryland IRBs Top $700 Mil

Industrial revenue bonds (IRBs) issued by Maryland state government and its local jurisdictions totalled over $700 million in 1985, according to data released recently by the Department of Economic and Community Development.

During 1985, the Maryland Industrial Development Financing Authority (MIDFA), Baltimore City, the state's 23 counties and other jurisdictions reported issuing 238 IRBs with a total value of $714.9 million, an increase of 13.7% over 1984's total of $628.9 million. A total of 236 IRBs were issued statewide in 1984.

IRBs are loans to companies in which interest paid by the company to the lender is exempt from federal taxes, and serve as an indicator of future growth. State law requires that all IRB users in Maryland report to DECD within 60 days after the date of issue.

The heaviest users of IRBs in 1985, excluding those issued by MIDFA, were Baltimore City, Baltimore County and Prince George's County. Baltimore City issued 49 RBs valued at $159 million. Baltimore County issued 26 valued at $109 million and Prince George's County issued 23 valued at $64 million. The Maryland Industrial Development Financing Authority, A DECD business financing agency, issued 23 IRBs in 1985 with a value of $23 million.

Locally, four IRBs were issued in Garrett County in 1985 having a value of $1,509,000.

By Renee Ross

Richard Simmons, America's favorite exercise maniac, admits he's hooked by his own good advice.

Richard Simmons

"If I don't exercise every day, you might as well throw me out a window," says Simmons, 38, whose TV shape-up series airs on the Lifetime Cable Network.

"When I get up in the morning, I exercise even before I brush my teeth. I'm on the road a lot, so I have to do workouts wherever I am. I do lots of things like stretches right in my hotel room. And I walk a lot," adds 5-foot-6, 141-pound Simmons, who once weighed in at 268 pounds as a teenager.

"When I'm traveling, I watch what I eat because I'll always be a compulsive eater. The problem is, I'm just a phone call away from a lady named Miss Room Service — she'll bring me anything my heart desires. You have to be very careful," he says with a smile.

"I avoid salt in my diet, and eat no sugar, red meat or pork. The whole secret is to eat proper portions, a person can't expect to give up eating everything he loves."

Though he's one of the nation's top fitness motivators whose string of books and videos have been best sellers, Simmons disagrees with those who believe in huffing and puffing to excess.

"I call people who overdo exercise 'aerobic Stepford Wives,'" he explains. "They're like robots who only care about the visual effects of exercise."

Simmons has spent much of the last two years researching his latest book, "Reach for Fitness." A companion video has also been released.

"It's for people who are physically challenged," he explains. "We're trying to get words like 'handicapped' and 'disabled' out of our vocabulary. I got a lot of fan mail from people, but couldn't offer any help because I didn't have enough medical knowledge.

"So I researched like crazy and consulted several hundred doctors and experts to put the project together." All proceeds will go to the Richard Simmons Reach Foundation, a non-profit organization that helps establish nationwide exercise programs for people with special physical requirements.

"This project is the most important thing I've ever done," he says. "If I get hit by a Sara Lee truck tomorrow, at least the Reach Foundation is finally a reality."

Checking out facts on 'Hospital' star Reilly

By Kimberly Redmond

I've fallen in love with John Reilly, the actor who plays spy-turned-businessman Sean Donely on "General Hospital." Please tell me about him. — L.M., El Paso, Texas.

John Reilly

Reilly, who grew up in Chicago, married while in college and later divorced. He was single for 15 years before he married his current wife, Liz. They have shared the upbringing of her two daughters and his two daughters from their previous marriages. Two of the girls are already actresses. One is a model, and the youngest has also shown interest in show business. In the early '70s, Reilly starred as Dan Stewart on the CBS soap "As the World Turns." When he's not working, he likes to spend time with his wife and family. He works out every day, likes to swim, play tennis and read mystery novels — spy stories, of course.

I missed some of the "Guiding Light" episodes that aired in 1983, and I never found out what happened to Alan Spaulding's wife, Hope, and their son, Alan Michael. Can you fill me in? — L.B., Jamestown, N.Y.

Unable to deal with Alan's philandering ways (Alan was played by Chris Bernau), Hope (who was played by Elvera Rousseli) divorced him and moved with their son to New York City. About three years ago, Spaulding was left to defend himself against some restless natives who stormed a jungle airplane runway while his pals escaped in a plane. He was never heard from again.

San Francisco opens its golden gates to welcome "Good Morning America" host David Hartman in "David Hartman ... There's Gotta Be a Better Way," a special airing Wednesday, June 4 on ABC.

'Roanoak' explores images of Indians

By Frank Lovece

Unfortunately this will come as news to a lot of people. But the American Indians of the old West were unlike those you see in John Wayne movies. The Indians of the East were even less so. If "Roanoak" — the three-part "American Playhouse" miniseries chronicling the settlement of the famed "lost colony" — does nothing else, it will at least show a facet of native American culture as it really was. Parts two and three air, respectively, Monday, June 2 and Monday, June 9 on PBS.

Edward Benton-Banai

"This may be the first time a program about Indian people has been made that's aware of the deep spiritual and cultural implications," says Edward Benton-Banai, 52, the series' language/cultural consultant.

Benton-Banai is a Wisconsin Ojibwe Indian of the Fish Clan. He is also a renowned author and scholar who co-founded the Red School House, the St. Paul, Minn. institution that offers a culture-based curriculum to primarily Indian students.

Benton-Banai's largest contribution to "Roanoak" was the translation of the script to Ojibwe, a dialect of the Algonquian language spoken by the 16th-century Roanoak Indians. He and other teachers fluent in Ojibwe spent three weeks tutoring the Indian actors. On the program, the Indian parts are subtitled.

"Algonquian is a language family much like the Germanic family," he explains. "It was the predominant language of the East Coast tribes and is still a functional tongue. But it's colloquial by region, even from tribe to tribe. Ojibwe is one of the major dialects."

Adding to the authenticity is the fact that the Roanoaks are played by native American actors, including Benton-Banai and his wife, Sherry. The cast also includes Indians from the Cherokee, Creek, Delaware-Lenape, Kiowa, Lumbee, Ojibwe, Osage, Santo Domingo, Pueblo and Yaqui tribes. Benton-Banai, who has done local theater, helped recruit actors affiliated with the Red School House.

"Getting to know (producer) Tim Marx and all the other people involved," he says, "I could sense the sincerity of what they were trying to do. The old movies were ludicrous, and there's still a great ignorance of this continent's aboriginal people. But over the last decade — especially with historically and culturally accurate things like this — there's been a greater appreciation. Roanoak is," he says strongly, "a story for Americans."

ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

With all the news about Joan Rivers leaving "The Tonight Show" to host her own syndicated talk show, I started wondering about her background. How many times has she been married? And how many years has Rivers been married to Edgar Rosenberg? — A.F., Woodstock, N.Y.

Joan Rivers

Rivers has been married twice. She met her first husband, James Sanger, while working as fashion coordinator for Bonds, a national clothing store. Sanger was the son of the merchandise manager for the store's New York City outlet. Rivers admits she married for "peace and security, not love," and the marriage lasted six months. On July 15, 1965, Rivers married Edgar Rosenberg. Their daughter, Melissa, was born on January 20, 1969. For more information about her early life, career, check out "Enter Talking," Rivers' autobiography, which has recently been published by Delacorte Press.

Tony Danza: The name alone sends shivers down my spine! How old is this hunk, and where can love-starved fans write to him? — G.D.F., Boise, Idaho.

COMING ATTRACTIONS

Cilento hopes to be a show-biz 'Big Deal'

By Marc Minnelli

Wayne Cilento is depressed. "Jerry's Girls," the Broadway revue highlighting the works of prolific composer Jerry Herman ("Mame," "La Cage aux Folles") just closed. Cilento did the choreography.

Wayne Cilento

"Just Once," a cabaret act based on the music of Barry Mann and Cynthia Weill ("Here You Come Again," "Running with the Night") just closed. Cilento did the choreography.

"Liza in London," Liza Minnelli's 90-minute special which recently aired on HBO, was slaughtered by most critics. Cilento did the choreography.

And "Big Deal," Bob Fosse's splashy but stagnant stage show which marks Cilento's return to acting after an eight-year hiatus, is floundering. Critics were not kind to the $4 million-plus musical, and though it's been nominated for five Tony Awards, "Big Deal" is simply not a big deal. The winners of the coveted Tony will be announced during "The 40th Annual Tony Awards," airing Sunday, June 1 on CBS.

"It hurts," Cilento says, slumped in a chair in his small dressing room, "because nothing has worked out. It hurts because I'm not making any money on those shows. It hurts to be beat up so much."

Cilento, 36, hopes to finally win a round by crossing into the mainstream of film and music. "I'm a special kind of personality," admits Cilento, who created the role of Mike ("I Can Do That") in "A Chorus Line."

"People think the only thing I can do is dance, and I can't seem to get over that hump. My agent tells me that though I'm acting in 'Big Deal,' the words don't mean anything. Well, I want to find words that do mean something. I'm afraid fame is going to pass me by."

Cilento would like to break into film ("I'll do three lines in a beer commercial!"), but confesses a real desire to sing. "And I don't mean just as part of a big Broadway show," he says.

"I want to become a singer in a rock 'n' roll band. I want to be a white singer doing black music," adds Cilento, who has worked on videos for Billy Joel and Barry Manilow. "I want to pop — real big. I don't mind choreographing commercials for Roy Rogers and McDonald's, but I wanna have it my way."

CINDY SAYS

By Cindy Adams

Former sex kitten Brigitte Bardot, 52, is the veteran of three marriages. She's now itching for a fourth. Brigitte, whose first hubby Roger Vadim immortalized her in his recently published memoirs, is in St. Tropez all by herself: no parents, no guests, no lovers, no prospects — just cats and dogs. "For the first time in my life I was alone this past Christmas," she says. Admittedly "hard to please," Brigitte admits she flunked matrimony because she "was not ready."

Jackie Gleason

Brigitte Bardot

Brigitte told France's Le Figaro she's looking for a man who "must be intelligent, understanding, funny and a bit savage. I do not have to see him around the clock. It's enough for me to know someone loves me and thinks of me. I've always been different. Now, when people all live together, I want to get married."

A 50-foot high King Kong joins Southern California's Universal Studios Tour this summer. Kong's fiberglass dentures will have eyeteeth that are eye-openers: They are 10 inches long! ... Jackie Gleason did his first TV commercial. It was for MasterCard International, and was shot in Florida. The Great One copped $850,000 for three hours' work. Sid Caesar will play Dracula in producer Marty Cohen's big-screen flick "Sherlock Holmes vs. Dracula." Sid's reading scripts now — at night, naturally.

Johnny Cash is writing a song to go along with his upcoming religious novel "Man in White." ... For Disney's upcoming film "Outrageous Fortune," Shelley Long is studying fencing at UCLA. She's also studying ballet. Sounds tutu much, eh?

Bellwood leaves show for her own 'Dynasty'

By Ian Harmer

HOLLYWOOD — We're now officially at that time of the year when loyal fans of the TV supersoaps are expected to sit anxiously on the edge of their seats until September, chewing their nails as they wait to find out who lives and who dies — on "Dallas," "Dynasty," "Falcon Crest" and "Knots Landing."

Pamela Bellwood

But Pamela Bellwood is evidently a compassionate woman. She doesn't want anyone losing sleep over the fate of Claudia Blaisdel of "Dynasty." In last month's cliffhanger, a fire threatened to make pot roasts out of the show's leading characters. The actress says she's been itching to escape from "Dynasty" for more than a year, and it's no secret that after six seasons of mayhem and madness, poor Claudia has finally gone out in a blaze of glory. And now, Bellwood finds herself with a problem that is the reverse of the dilemma which hampered her career when "Dynasty" was first created.

"I'd played a succession of tough, self-sufficient women until then," the actress recalls, "and the producers wondered if I could be convincing as someone who was meant to be a victim. Now everyone associates me with Claudia. Although things were getting better for her on Dynasty — before the fire, that is — she's never had much to be happy about."

Bellwood says she wanted out when she discovered that she was pregnant, but the producers persuaded her to stay an extra year.

It came as no surprise to the actress that ratings dropped when viewers finally became exasperated with the incredible goings-on in and around the Carrington mansion.

"Instead of making a splash with all of that, they very nearly drowned the lot of us," she says. "I'd heard before that successful shows develop a death wish after a while, and now I've actually seen it with my own eyes."

At least Claudia's flaming finale wasn't just another human sacrifice to the gods of TV ratings. "My son Kerry will be six months old soon, and I have found out that playing a mother is the best role I have ever had," says the actress. "I'm very pleased with my timing. There'll be other parts in other shows, but Kerry will never be a baby again, and I don't want to miss a minute of it."

Women's Commission Conducts Statewide Meeting In Garrett Co.

Recently members of the Maryland Commission for Women held a statewide meeting in Garrett County. The agency identifies and researches issues and recommends solutions and policies on behalf of Maryland women. It works to change policies and practices which prevent the full and equal participation of women in today's society.

The commission is composed of 24 members who are appointed by the governor and serve as volunteers. The first Commission on the Status of Women was established in 1965. In 1976, after a decade of examining the status of women in Maryland, the name of the commission was changed to the Maryland Commission for Women.

The commission alerts and informs women of their rights and responsibilities. It develops and maintains a statewide network of cooperative groups concerned about women's issues. It advises and informs governmental officials, leaders of business, education and industry, legislators, and the public about issues confronting Maryland women.

The commission studies issues of importance to women and publishes the results. It expands public awareness of women's issues through conferences, special programs, and press coverage. It serves as a clearinghouse for information about women's activities throughout the state.

Recommendations are made by the commission for appointments to boards and commissions and other positions of influence.

One of the commission's functions is to bring together governmental agencies and private interest groups to promote services for women. It gives recognition to the contributions and achievements of women in the state.

Among some of the commission's recent accomplishments are: a study of pay equity; data on female offenders in the Maryland Correctional Institution; creation of an insurance coalition; personnel policies studies; sponsored "Tomorrow's Woman: A Conference for Disabled Young Women and Their Families;" co-sponsored Women's History Week; and supported legislation which provided for earnings withholding for the payment of delinquent child support orders, and other legislation concerning and benefiting women.

Ground Control In Mining Conference Is Scheduled

A workshop on surface subsidence due to underground mining will be held June 9-11 at the Sheraton Lakeview Resort and Conference Center near Morgantown, W.Va.

The conference, sponsored by the U.S. Office of Surface Mining and Enforcement and West Virginia University, is intended to disseminate current knowledge of surface subsidence resulting from underground mining.

Areas to be covered include subsidence prediction, subsidence monitoring, subsidence and structural control, abandoned mine land, hydrology, mine void detection, and regulatory insurance issues relating to subsidence.

Speaker at the June 9 banquet will be Brent T. Wahlquist, assistant director for program operations of the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement. Dr. Wahlquist will discuss current issues relating to federal subsidence regulations.

Prior to his federal appointment, Wahlquist was deputy director of the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources, where he managed the reclamation and water resource divisions.

For information about the conference, contact the Department of Mining Engineering, West Virginia University, P.O. Box 6070, Morgantown, WV 26506-6070, or phone (304) 293-5695.

Mining Workshop To Be Held In West Virginia

The director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, Robert C. Horton, will be the featured speaker at the fifth conference on ground control in mining to be held June 11-13 at the Sheraton Lakeview Resort and Conference Center near Morgantown, W.Va.

The conference will focus on problem solving in mining operations and is intended to promote closer cooperation among researchers, consultants, manufacturers and mine operators.

The five general areas which will be discussed by conference speakers include ground support; measurements for ground control; in-situ, geological and human factors; assessment of strata behavior; and longwall mining.

Horton will discuss current Bureau of Mines research projects and future directions for research at a June 11 banquet.

Horton was appointed bureau director by President Reagan in 1981. Prior to his appointment he was director of the geology division of the Bendix Field Engineering Corporation.

He earned a bachelor's degree in geological engineering from the Mackay School of Mines, University of Nevada, in 1949, and he received an honorary doctorate from the University of Nevada-Reno in 1985.

The conference is sponsored by WVU, the U.S. Bureau of Mines, and the U.S. Mine Safety and Health Administration.

For information about the conference contact the Department of Mining Engineering, West Virginia University, P.O. Box 6070, Morgantown, WV 26506-6070, or phone (304) 293-5695.

"WELLNESS TOGETHER"

Smoke Stoppers

The proven way to stop smoking

The instructor shuts the doors and windows of the classroom and puts on a gas mask.

Each of 25 students lights up a cigarette and begins puffing as fast as possible without inhaling and without removing the cigarettes from their lips.

The cigarettes have been tainted with a foul-tasting, harmless substance sometimes used to discourage thumb-sucking and nail-biting. They quickly become hot and soggy, and with smoke irritating their eyes, noses and throats, the students begin shifting uncomfortably in their seats. An occasional cough erupts.

As the room fills with a nearly unbearable amount of smoke, the instructor presents a slide show that intersperses vivid hospital photos of advanced emphysema, lung cancer and heart disease with glamorous cigarette ads. The glowing skin of glamorous models in a stark contrast to the gray, prematurely wrinkled skin of the heavy smokers in the clinical slides.

"Smoking reduces the blood supply to the capillaries of the skin, and that makes a thirty-year-old smoker look forty," explained Mike Samuelson, executive director of Smoke Stoppers, who acknowledges that the scene just described is "strong stuff"

"It's meant to be," he said. "In addition to our main thrust—education—we use such 'negative smoking exercises' to assault the senses as well. We dramatize that smoking is unnatural and unclean, that a smoke-filled room is really a poison-filled room."

Headquartered in Ann Arbor, Michigan, Smoke Stoppers, a new, remarkably effective smoking cessation program, is again offering its course in Garrett County through the "Wellness Together" progam. To date, some 24 local residents have successfully completed the program.

A free introductory session for smokers who want to become nonsmokers will be presented Wednesday, June 11, from 6 to 7 p.m. in the Board Room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

"The health hazards of smoking are no longer in doubt," Samuelson said. "No reasonable person disputes the danger. Just ask your family doctor."

Samuelson ought to know. He saw his father endure a series of operations that removed a cancerous lung, part of his stomach, a toe, a foot, then an entire leg, and in September of 1977, the other leg. The tragic, smoking-related sequence lasted 13 years and led to his father's death in October of 1978.

"Both my father and I knew his health problems were caused by heavy smoking," Samuelson recalled. "Ironically, we reacted the way most smokers react to stress: we smoked more. We were both well beyond two packs a day."

Samuelson kicked his habit through Smoke Stoppers, as have all program instructors.

"We know what we're talking about because we've been through it," he said.

Samuelson emphasized that smokers are not "deliberately suicidal." "Complex physical and mental processes mislead us into believing smoking does good things for us, even when reason tells us otherwise," he explained.

"Knowing the truth isn't enough," he said. "The American Cancer Society estimates that 90 percent of all smokers need an organized program to stop and stay stopped."

Samuelson believes Smoke Stoppers is effective because it reflects the complexity of the habit, offering a vast array of behavior change techniques based on sound educational and psychological theory.

"No gimmicks," he said. "Our program uses the multicomponent strategy recommended by the Surgeon General's smoking and health reports of 1964 and 1979."

"Our entire program hinges on the idea that smoking is a harmful method of tackling a basic human need: the reduction of tension and stress," he said. "Therefore, our goal is not simply to eliminate smoking, but to replace it with healthy ways to fulfill this basic need. When healthy alternatives are not taught, former smokers often overeat and overdrink, which are other potential hazardous attempts to reduce stress."

The three-phase program (preparation, cessation, transition) offered through "Wellness Together" is spread over five weeks, June 11 through July 9. Twelve "contact hours" with professional staff are provided. The diploma awarded at the end entitles the recipient to repeat the program, or any part of it, free of charge.

Further information may be obtained by calling 334-2155.

Dr. Schindler Named Diplomate In Orthodontics

The American Board of Orthodontics recently announced that Dr. Fred S. Schindler, LaVale, successfully completed all phases of its comprehensive examination for certification and was awarded status as a Diplomate of the American Board of Orthodontics. The American Board of Orthodontics is recognized by the American Dental Association as the only certifying board in the specialty of orthodontics.

He is a member of the American Association of Orthodontists and the American Dental Association.

He is a member of the faculty of the Allegany Community College and has received the Certificate of Merit presented by the American Society of Dentistry for Children.

He conducts a practice specializing in orthodontics in LaVale and at the Medical Building in Oakland.

Schindler and his wife, Dr. Donna Truesdell, have one child, William Blane.

The Board was established in 1929 and is the oldest specialty board in dentistry. Currently, there are about 8,000 orthodontists in the United States and Canada and 1,200 have attained certification as a "Diplomate of the American Board of Orthodontics."

Lutheran Group Aids Red Cross, House Of Hope

Lutheran Brotherhood Branch No.8483 of Western Maryland/West Virginia announced during its spring fellowship meeting held in April that they have raised $2,725.74 to which the Lutheran Brotherhood added $2,000. The money was donated to the American Red Cross for distribution to the flood victims of the November 1985 flood. Money was also donated to the House of Hope.

Chapter Red Cross manager, Donald B. Dudley Jr., stated, "On behalf of the thousands upon thousands of people whose lives were tragically affected by the November 1985 flooding, I extend the warmest, heartfelt thank you. The impact of your gift is exceeded only by the magnitude of the disaster."

Dudley went on to say that the money went directly to areas affected by the flooding.

The local Lutheran Branch also contributed $600 to the House of Hope in Oakland recently.

Sister Mary Ann Mazza responded to the donation, "Please extend our most sincere thanks for the generous gift of $600 toward the purchase of food. With this huge sum of money we purchased enough ground meat to add much needed protein to the food baskets for many weeks to come. We can't see it sometimes, yet the numbers of people who come to us to help them feed their children attest to its very real presence. God bless all for your concern and assistance."

HELPING YOUR REALTOR SELL

Every home is unique in some way. Nobody knows this better than the owner. Perhaps the construction was made superior by certain additions or materials. The heating system may be extremely economical. It's possible that the drapes, carpeting or other fixtures are of unique or expensive quality. It could be that adjacent land will never be developed because of certain zoning. The point is—if there are important unseen assets to your home, let your Realtor know. It will help sell your home. This is especially true in the kitchen area if you have modern, updated appliances.

During the showing, it is helpful if you are available to answer questions, but let the agent lead the tour and do the showing. Following the showing, a professional agent will provide you with feedback on the client's reaction. Often, the comments will give you valuable hints if some minor upkeep or cosmetic improvements will help make the sale easier. Selling is a team effort.

Farming In Maryland.....

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Maryland Agriculture Secretary Wayne Cawley Visits Garrett Co.

"We've accomplished a lot in the last few years with cost share-funds. It's done a lot for farmers; it's done a lot for the Bay." These were the words of Maryland Agriculture Secretary Wayne Cawley during his visit to the county last week to review the county's conservation program with SCD officials.

A tour of three Garrett County farms where cost-share projects have been established was also a part of the secretary's agenda last Wednesday, May 21.

Accompanying Sec. Cawley on his Garrett County tour were: Jim Wallace, internal auditor for Maryland Department of Agriculture; Dan Bard, area coordinator for Maryland Department of Agriculture; Jim Schlossnagle, local SCS district conservationist; Shaun Sanders, local SCD manager; George Bishoff, chairman, Garrett SCD Board of Supervisors; Harry W. Hummel, vice chairman, Garrett SCD Board of Supervisors; Marvin Kolb, Garrett SCD supervisor; and Dave Thomas, Garrett SCD associate supervisor.

The farms visited by the group were Ken Bachtel's 100-acre dairy farm, where cost-share practices over the years have included contour strips, spring development, waterways, and a 180-day ag-waste storage structure for 40 cows.

The father-son operation of Ray and Tom Ridder was the secretary's next stop. The Ridders milk 70 cows on their 280-acre dairy farm and raise all the feed for their cattle on the farm. Conservation practices which are used on the Ridder farm include the planting of no-till corn, cover crops, contour farming, pasture management, and the installation of a 240-day ag-waste storage structure for 70 cows.

The group's last stop before returning to Oakland was the Harvey Brothers farm on Pleasant Valley Road. Harvey Brothers own/rent approximately 1,000 acres for growing potatoes and raising beef cattle. Practices used by Harvey Brothers have been cost-shared both state and federally and include a three-acre pond, spring development, 10 acres of grass waterways, diversions, and 100 acres of contour strips.

Sec. Cawley spoke with the owners of each farm and asked their opinion of the cost-share program and what results they have seen since the projects have been installed. All gave him favorable reports of the results these conservation practices have produced and admitted that the cost-share funds had made them possible. All were glad they had taken advantage of the program; as Ken Bachtel said when asked if cost-sharing had helped him install his ag-storage, "It wouldn't be here without cost-share."

On his return to Oakland, Sec. Cawley lunched with the Garrett County Commissioners. That evening he met with Garrett and Allegany Farm Bureau officers at a joint meeting at Barton's Restaurant near Cumberland.

The 12 Farm Bureau officers attending discussed such topics as water rights and farm legislation with the state secretary. While discussing legislation, Sec. Cawley commented that the Maryland Farm Bureau and all county Farm Bureau members were fortunate to have an individual in Annapolis like Jack Miller to lobby for the good of Maryland farmers.

Sec. Cawley, along with his sons, operates a 1,800-acre grain farm on the Eastern Shore. He is the former vice president of the Denton National Bank and a director of the bank's farm department, the former vice president of the Caroline County Farm Bureau, and was named Caroline County's "Outstanding Farmer" in 1974. He has been a visitor to Garrett County many times during his tenure as state agriculture secretary.

WAYNE CAWLEY, Maryland Secretary of Agriculture, visited three Garrett County farms last week while in the county to meet with Soil Conservation District Officials to discuss the activities and operation of the conservation program. Sec. Cawley is pictured above, right, with Ken Bachtel, whose farm he visited to view an ag-waste system Bachtel recently installed using state cost-share funds.

Many Maryland Farmers Facing Severe Drought

Garrett and Allegany counties have been fortunate to receive the amount of rain which has fallen this spring. The week ending May 16 was the third consecutive week with little or no rainfall for most of Maryland.

Corn planting came to a standstill for farmers in many Maryland counties as they began to wait for precipitation before doing any more planting, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

The Palmer Drought Severity Index the eastern shore and southern counties west of the Chesapeake Bay, as well as southern Delaware, were in a severe drought as of May 10. The remainder of the two states except for western Maryland remained in a mild drought.

With little or no rainfall for the weeks of May 11 and 18, the index figures are expected to worsen still further in the moderate and severe drought areas.

April Weather Noted

In April, Maryland's temperatures averaged near normal, but rainfall was well below normal. April snowfall, except for a few traces in northern areas, was confined to Garrett and western Allegany counties. Heaviest monthly total snow fall was 14.5 inches at Oakland. Eleven inches of Oakland's monthly snowfall occurred between April 9 and 11.

The average monthly temperature for Maryland was 53.7 degrees (normal, 53.6). High temperatures for the month reached into the 80's while low temperatures were mostly in the low 30's except in extreme western Maryland where lows dipped into the 20's.

Precipitation for the month averaged 2.45 inches (normal, 3.44 inches) compared with last year's record dry April when only an average 0.63 inches of rain fell. Most of the rainfall occurred between April 15 and 17. For the rest of the month, precipitation was generally light.

Over-The-Top Herbicides for Weed Control in Corn

Dual + Atrazine can be applied overtop of corn before grass and broadleaf weeds pass the 2-leaf stage and before corn exceeds five inches in height. Dual should be applied at a rate of 1½ to 2½ pts. per acre in combination with 1½ to 2½ lbs. of Artazine 80W per acre. A good combination for small grasses and broadleaf weeds.

Bladex 80W or Bladex 80W plus Atrazine 80W can be applied overtop of corn through the 4-leaf stage of corn growth, but before weeds exceed 1½ inches in height. The maximum use rate is 2½ lbs. of total formulated product per acre, but you should not exceed the dosage rate specified by soil texture for preemergence broadcast application. An excellent herbicide combination primarily for grass control.

Atrazine plus Oil can be applied at a rate of 2½ lbs. of Atrazine 80W plus 1 gallon of emulsifiable oil per acre. Annual grassy weeds, especially foxtail, that are less than 1½ inches tall are effectively controlled. Fall panicum will not be controlled with this treatment. Annual broadleaf weeds can be taller (4-6 inches) and be effectively controlled. Do not apply when the crop is under stress or crop injury will result.

Banvel is labeled for up to two applications per year. From planting until corn is five inches tall, Banvel is labeled up to 1 pt. per acre. From five to 36 inch tall corn, Banvel is only labeled at a rate of ½ pt. per acre. Drop nozzles should be considered if weeds are covered by corn leaves or if spray drift is a problem. Greater risk of crop injury and drift will occur when applications are made at temperatures of 85 degrees F. or greater. An excellent herbicide for annual and perennial broadleaf weed control.

2,4-D is similar to Banvel and controls a wide range of broadleaf weeds. Unfortunately corn may be more brittle after 2,4-D applications and cultivation for seven to 10 days after treatment is not recommended. Use rate is ½ pint per acre overtop when corn is four to five inches tall. Increase the rate to one pint per acre as corn reaches eight to 10 inches in height, but use drop nozzles and direct spray to base of plant.

Basagran can be applied overtop of corn at a rate of 1½ to two pints per acre and is very effective on many broadleaf weeds. Special situations for its use would include the control of Canada Thistle and Yellow Nutsedge. When these two weed species are eight inches tall, apply one quart of Basagran per acre. A second application at the same rate may be required. Basagran is also labeled for use as a tank mixture with Atrazine and Oil concentrate.

Buctril or Brominal can be applied at 1.0 to 1.5 pints or .5 to 1.0 pints per acre, respectively. Both materials provide broadleaf weed control if applied when weeds are small, generally less than 4" tall. They may be applied over-the-top of corn less than 8" tall or with drop nozzles on larger corn.

Milk Production Up

The number of milk cows on Maryland farms during April was up two percent from a year ago but down almost one percent, or 1,000 head, from March.

Milk per cow increased 25 pounds compared to April 1985. Total milk production for April was 149 million pounds, up four percent compared to last year.

On May 1, milk production surveys were conducted in 21 states having about 85 percent of the U.S. milk production. Milk production in the 21 states has been expanded to a U.S. total using the January-March relationship of the 21 states to the U.S. total production.

All states in the U.S. will be surveyed for milk production data on a quarterly basis and only the specified 21 states (including Maryland), will survey dairy producers monthly.

Milk production in the 21 selected states totaled 10.7 billion pounds, up five percent from April 1985. During the January to March period, the 21 selected states produced 84.5 percent of the total U.S. production.

If producers in the 29 states not surveyed on May 1 followed the trend shown by the reporting states, U.S. milk production would total 12.7 billion pounds for April. Production per cow in the 21 states averaged 1,162 pounds, up eight pounds from March. The number of milk cows averaged 9.21 million head, down one percent compared to last month.

Cash receipts in the U.S. for milk sold by producers to plants and dealers rose one percent in 1985, compared to 1984. In Maryland, dairy producers received three percent more in cash receipts for their milk.

Increases resulted from the higher total milk production during 1985: United States, up six percent from 1984, and Maryland up 10 percent from 1984.

The price dairymen in Maryland received per 100 pounds of milk decreased in 1985 from 1984 by 90 cents per 100 pounds to $13.10 cwt.

Protect Crop Bases By Filing Acreage Report

All farmers should file an acreage report, whether they participate in the 1986 commodity programs or not, to protect their crop acreage bases, according to Olin S. Davis Jr., chairperson of the Maryland State ASC Committee.

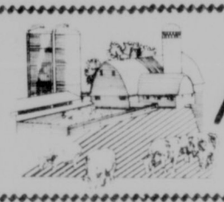
"By certifying crop acres, farmers establish documentation for future crop acreage bases as well as eligibility for different benefits if they decide to participate in farm programs."

Davis said it is very important for farmers who are participating in the 1986 programs to file an acreage report, because without it they are not really participating. "We must have the report in order to determine the level at which producers are eligible for price support loans, deficiency payments and other program benefits.

Farm program participants are required to report crops and acreages planted, the uses to be made of these crops, and cropland acres to be devoted to the acreage conservation reserve. When farmers report to the county ASCS office, they can review aerial photographs of their farm and pinpoint the fields in which the crops are grown. This information is then documented for program compliance and crop acreage bases.

Final certification dates for program crops are: wheat, barley and oats, June 1; and corn, grain sorghum and soybeans, July 15.

Farmers who are not participating in the 1986 programs are encouraged to report their crop acreages to insure future benefits and protect acreage bases.



After The Chores

After The Chores is a calendar of farm meetings and activities which will be printed the last week of each month. Farm organizations' officers or individuals should call Bernice Kepple at 334-3963 with dates of their club's activities by Tuesday noon before the last Thursday of each month.

Subsidized Phone Service Offered

A cooperative effort between the Maryland Department of Human Resources and the C&P Telephone Company will enable as many as 70,000 low-income elderly and disabled Maryland residents who are certified recipients of General Public Assistance (GPA) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) to participate in Tel-Life, a new subsidized telephone service.

Tel-Life will be available July 1, 1986, and will include local residential telephone service plus 30 local, untimed calls per month. Participants will be billed by C&P for only 50% of its approved charges for this service which equates to $4.40 per month, plus any applicable taxes and 911 fees. The remaining 50% will be recovered in the form of a credit against C&P's Gross Receipts Tax.

"Tel-Life will ensure that those low-income elderly and disabled Marylanders who may have the greatest need for telephone service are not precluded from such service due to cost," said DHR Secretary Ruth Massinga.

Certain restrictions are built into the program. For example, a participant may not have any other local telephone service in his or her dwelling unit and may not have any premium services such as Call Waiting or Three-Way Calling. However, since some disabilities preclude the use of regular dial telephone service, touchtone service is available at a 50% discount. Participants in the Tel-Life program are required to pay the full, approved rate for all other services—including the total charges for any local calls after the first 30—and for all long distance calls.

Approximately 20,000 cases are administered under the GPA Program. Participants are generally adults under 64 years of age who do not qualify for other programs and, for either physical or psychological reasons, are temporarily not employable. The majority are disabled. Some 50,000 recipients of the SSI Program would also be eligible for Tel-Life service.

According to Carolyn Owens, Tel-Life Project manager at DHR, starting in May C&P will begin mailing information about Tel-Life service to existing recipients of SSI and GPA. The information packet will include an application form for customers to mail to the Department of Human Resources. The Department of Human Resources will screen and certify applicants who qualify for Tel-Life service. "Once the Department notifies C&P of a person's eligibility, C&P will then contact the individual to complete arrangements for establishing Tel-Life service," Owens said. "Future applicants will automatically be advised of Tel-Life service when they submit applications for SSI or GPA benefits."

Information Booth Staff Kept Busy

The weather for the federal Memorial Day weekend was perfect for the many travelers who chose Deep Creek Lake as their vacation spot for the holiday, according to Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Deep Creek Lake/Garrett County Promotion Council.

Wolfe said the staff at the Information Booth was kept busy with over 260 tourists seeking information about Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County. A large percentage of the travelers were seeking directions to special attractions and businesses.

The Information Booth is open seven days a week, Memorial Day through Labor Day, and is managed by the Promotion Council. The booth is staffed by Jill Fuller and Donald Oates.

Herrington Manor Lake To Close For Treatment

The Herrington Manor State Park Lake will be closed to fishing, swimming, diving and boating from 8 a.m. June 2 through 8:00 a.m. June 5, according to Gerald Sword, park manager. During this closure a limited treatment will be completed in the lake to reduce nuisance weed growth, Sword said, who noted that shallow water lakes in which weed control is not carried out, soon become choked with weeds such as water milfoil and others. Once this occurs, the lake is no longer desirable for fishing, boating, diving or swimming.

All required permits and approvals have been applied for and received by the park from the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, Maryland Fisheries Administration, The Maryland Water Resources Administration and the Maryland Department of Agriculture, he said. The work will be carried out under the direct supervision of Roger Riley, assistant park manager.

Public cooperation is desired during this official closure, he said. Persons having questions about the project may call Riley at (301) 334-9180.

NOTICE
We've changed our name . . . our yard post signs and our colors . . . but we still give that same friendly service you've been accustomed to for years from HAYWOOD AGENCY, INC. You see . . . we have come to realize that it is better to be "PERSONALIZED" . . . and not "FRANCHISED". This is what we have discovered after working with so many Property Owners in our marketing area. Our yard signs are no longer yellow and brown on a yellow post. Today they feature the symbolic colors of RED, WHITE & BLUE SIGNS on a WHITE YARD POST. So please, look for our new signs all over Garrett County . . . and don't be surprised to see so many of the same signs all over Allegany and Mineral Counties as well. (We have over 200 properties for sale with yard post signs on them). Even though we still maintain "National" connections, we have come to prefer more "Localized" connections with 3 Real Estate offices in Deep Creek Lake, Keyser, and Short Gap, W.Va. We've been here in Garrett County for 20 years and out Agents know the territory. They're experienced, seasoned Professionals who don't like to brag . . . rather we are PROUD TO SAY, "WE KNOW GARRETT COUNTY!!"
THANK YOU,
Herman J. Haywood

Numerous Cases Heard In Local District Court

In Garrett County District Court proceedings last week, a Mtn. Lake Park woman was sentenced for a bad check charge.

Carrie Zang, 19, was sentenced to 89 days in the Garrett Couny Jail. The judge then suspended the sentence, placing Zang on six months unsupervised probation.

The charge was filed by Clinton Englander following an October 21 incident.

Zang was represented by John R. Toston, public defender.

The judge ordered presentence investigations for Melvin D. Davis, 19, Deer Park, and Robert W. Sweitzer, 18, Oakland, for false statement charges.

The charges were filed by Sgt. Robert E. Friend following an April 16 incident. According to court records, the two were responsible for a bomb rumor at Southern High School.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Claude Slate II, 20, Oakland, after finding him to be guilty of charges of unlawful possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of drug paraphernalia.

The charges were filed by Tfc. Cindy R. Smith after a March 20 incident. According to court documents, suspected marijuana was found in Slate's vehicle after he was stopped for a traffic violation.

Slate was represented by Toston.

The judge also ordered a presentence investigation for Kenneth B. Peters, 22, Pittsburgh, after he found him to be guilty of a theft charge.

The charge was filed by Tfc. David W. Broadwater after a March 23 incident at the Oakland Motel.

According to court records, several towels and a washcloth from the hotel were found in the trunk of Peters' car.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Brian K. Sites, 25, Pittsburgh, for a theft charge following the same incident at the Oakland Motel.

The judge granted probation before judgement to William L. Shreve Jr., 25, Oakland, for charges of animal cruelty and malicious destruction of the property of another.

He was placed on six months unsupervised probation and fined $25.

The charge was filed by Tfc. David W. Broadwater following a March 17 incident in the Oakland area involving three Jersey heifer cows owned by Amanda Upole.

The judge also granted probation before judgement to Rick L. Eisler, 29, Frostburg, for a charge of selling alcoholic beverages to a minor.

He was placed on six months unsupervised probation and fined $250.

The charge was filed by Sgt. Robert E. Friend following a January 10 incident at Chestnut Ridge Liquor, Grantsville.

Eisler was represented by Toston.

Placed on the stet docket were two bad check charges and two theft charges against Willard M. Ashby, 27, Oakland.

The charges stemmed from checks which were written to the Ringer Petroleum Company in August and September, 1985.

The judge found Paul Mellott, Oakland, to be not guilty of a battery charge filed by Donna L. Schramm, Oakland, following a November, 1985, incident at Swallow Falls.

Mellott was represented by Michael Morrissette.

Local Fire And Rescue Units Aid In W.Va. Drill

Garrett County Fire and Rescue units supports West Virginia Test Exercises in Elk Garden recently, according to a spokesman from Garrett County Emergency Management.

Mineral County Emergency Services in conjunction with the Elk District Fire Department and the Elk Garden Rescue Squad, conducted a full-scale field training exercise at the Elk Garden High School.

Some 260 firemen and rescue personnel responded to the simulated training exercise which was a "dress rehearsal" for potential hazardous materials incident.

Barbara Sutton, acting director, said the test drill scenario for the hazardous materials incident was a tanker truck loaded with ether with an unknown number of injuries.

Due to the limited communications capabilities in Mineral County, the communication center had to relay its messages through three other communication centers, Garrett County Emergency Management, Grant County Communications Center and Allegany County Civil Defense.

Operation CARE Kickoff Noted By State Police

Maryland State Police are joining law enforcement agencies nationwide in this year's annual kickoff of Operation C.A.R.E., the Combined Accident Reduction Effort.

Operation C.A.R.E. is a selective enforcement effort on 55 MPH highways designed to reduce accidents associated with increased holiday travel. This year's kickoff is timed to coincide with the Memorial Day holiday and featured a news briefing on Wednesday along interstate 95 in the Jessup section of Howard County. Maryland State Police hosted the allied law enforcement community from neighboring jurisdictions including Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Police will be monitoring holiday traffic patterns with particular emphasis on speed, alcohol, and other hazards on the interstate highway system. In Maryland, troopers will be operating conventional as well as unconventional vehicles using radar, VASCAR, and other methods to reduce the number of traffic accidents, deaths, and related injuries as well as property loss. Members of the Special Traffic Enforcement Unit will be detailed to Worcester County beginning Friday, May 23, and on weekends throughout the summer. This specially trained team will concentrate their enforcement efforts on U.S. Route 50, Route 90, Route 113, and other Eastern Shore highways adjacent to Ocean City that have shown a high incidence of alcohol and speed related accidents.

Maryland State Police have also teamed up with the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc., and AT&T in a pilot program to report incidents of driving while intoxicated on the interstate highway system. Motorists using Interstate 95 in Maryland will be able to report drunk drivers by calling a nationwide toll free hotline, 1-800-525-5555.

This toll-free hotline will operate 24 hours a day and will handle calls concerning drunk driving and other traffic offenses and roadway hazards along Maryland's portion of Interstate 95. Maryland becomes one of six states participating in the pilot program including Iowa, Louisiana, Missouri, Nebraska, and Virginia. This program is funded by a federal grant obtained by the International Association of Chiefs of Police from the United States Department of Transportation, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"We are pleased to be a partner with the Maryland State Police in the effort to improve the safety of our highways," said Barry Wager, Regional Vice President of Marketing for AT&T Communications--the long distance and international unit of AT&T.

Operation C.A.R.E. will continue throughout the rest of the year and will bring the allied law enforcement agencies together for a combined accident reduction effort during other holiday weekends including the Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving, and Christmas. Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel George B. Brosan said, "Operation C.A.R.E. provides an excellent opportunity for Maryland State Police to work together with other law enforcement agencies toward a common goal of safer highways for everyone. We need the continued support of the motoring public to help us reduce the unnecessary carnage occurring on our highways. Iurge all motorists to buckle up, obey the speed limits and don't drink and drive."

Attending from Aurora were Frances Roth and Lauren, Elizabeth Loughrie, Phyllis Vandevender, Linda Terrant and Ernestine Sisler.

Aurora PTO

At the May 20 meeting of the Aurora PTO, it was announced that the planned Book Fair had been cancelled. As the intercom system had not been repaired, a delay in payment of the remainder of the money due will be made until that is accomplished.

On June 11 Dr. Tom McNeel, state superintendent of schools, will meet with the Aurora School patrons and parents to talk with them concerning the problems connected with the present busing schedules and the length of time children are held at the school without educational activity. A letter from Congressman Harley Staggers Jr. asked that people continue their efforts in this matter and that they send letters to their senator, John "Jay" Rockefeller, informing him of the problem also.

Teacher Michael Fike commended Juanita Michaels for her efforts in this matter and Karen Teets for her concern and investigation and research about the hot lunch program. During this effort, she has established the fact that other programs are far superior to that here.

A committee has been appointed to meet with Gary Warnick to express their concern at not being allowed to have a field day. The school received a ring toss game, history encyclopedia, rhythm balls, two puff volley balls, and playground balls from the Campbell product label collection.

The replacement of Article IV in the by-laws was accepted and there will be a support drive for the PTO in the fall, but all parents and concerned persons shall be called members, whether or not they participate in the drive.

It was suggested that a secret parent-teacher program be planned to provide more support for the teachers and the committee to plan for this includes Diane Evans, Daren Teets, Debbie Strawser, and Judy Snyder.

Mr. Lofink suggested that plans be made for improvements to the school ground. The attendance banner went to Mr. Mullins' and Mr. Fike's 6th grade.

Elected as officers for the 1986-87 year were Mike Hartsell, president; Karen Teets, vice president; Linda Snyder, secretary and Marcia Turner, treasurer.

Worship Workshop

"Worship Alive!" was the theme for the Women's Spring Rally held at the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren on May 21. IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, wife and grandmother, Helen Frazee, who passed away 20 years ago today, May 27.

It broke our hearts to lose you but you didn't go alone.
For part of us went with you
the day God called you home.
If tears could build a staircase and memories a lane,
We'd walk all the way to heaven and bring you home again.

Loved and missed by family

State Park Mgr. Visits School

Gerald J. Sword, manager at Herrington Manor State Park, recently visited the fifth grade class of Mrs. Rosanne Sherwood, Accident Elementary School.

While there, he role-played the part of Private Sword, Confederate States of America. Dressed in the uniform of a Confederate soldier, Sword told of his experiences as an infantry soldier during his four years of enlistment.

He related the hardships, the work, the monotony and the fun involved in being in the Army. He took with him various pieces of equipment an infantryman would carry, such as a haversack, a housewife, a canteen, a cartridge box, a blanket, a rubber mat, a musket and a revolver.

The replica uniform he wore included: foot gear, trousers, suspenders, blouse with bone buttons, "captured Yankee Maryland" belt buckel, woolen jacket and a wide brimmed hat.

Private Sword gave a slide presentation on the Civil War in Garrett County, bringing Confederate General Grumbles Jones and his troops fom Moorefield, W. Va. to Greenland Gap, Mt. Storm, Gorman and Red House. A recording was played of songs the soldiers sang and the students were challenged to name them. Some of the songs recognized were "The Yellow Rose of Texas," "Wait for the Wagon," "Goober Peas," "Dixie," and "Maryland My Maryland."

Sword also brought with him examples of some items that were introduced during the Civil War like income tax forms, baseball, and Coca Cola. He also went on the tedious process of loading a musket and the many uses of the bayonet—defense, tool for cleaning horse hooves, stake for tethering a horse, cooking utensil, eating utensil, and candle holder. A question and answer period followed.

Sword was invited to visit the class as a culminating activity for a social studies unit and in observance of National Historic Preservation Week. Sword is a member of the Sons of the Confederate Veterans. Later this summer, Sword will be participating in a Civil War re-enactment encampment at Point Lookout.

Sherwood's students wrote illustrated thank you notes to Sword in appreciation of his visit.

The Station Family Restaurant

The Station Family Restaurant in Terra Alta offers fine food in a family setting. Located in the old post office building on Washington Avenue, The Station is owned and operated by Paul and Bonnie Thoman.

The home cooked, reasonably-priced food, along with pizzas, subs, and carry-outs (but no alcoholic beverages) have made The Station popular with families, teens, travelers and working people who need a good, hearty lunch or dinner.

Since opening The Station in December of 1985, the Thomans have tastefully remodeled the old post office, leaving the original molded ceiling and adding period paintings. Before each holiday, Bonnie decorates one corner of the room to help customers get in the holiday mood. Old framed army photos, red, white and blue bunting, and American flags set the scene for Memorial Day.

Paul, whose hobby is model railroads, plans to display his collection of model trains in one window of the restaurant to give The Station "authenticity."

Paul, Bonnie and their six employees enjoy serving the people who stop in for a meal and are friends when they leave. "Every day is different," said Paul, "guess that's why I like it."

The Station Family Restaurant is open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday; from 6 a.m. until 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday; and from 8:30 a.m. until 8 p.m. on Sunday. Complete breakfast, lunch and dinner menus are offered with daily specials and a complete Sunday dinner special available.

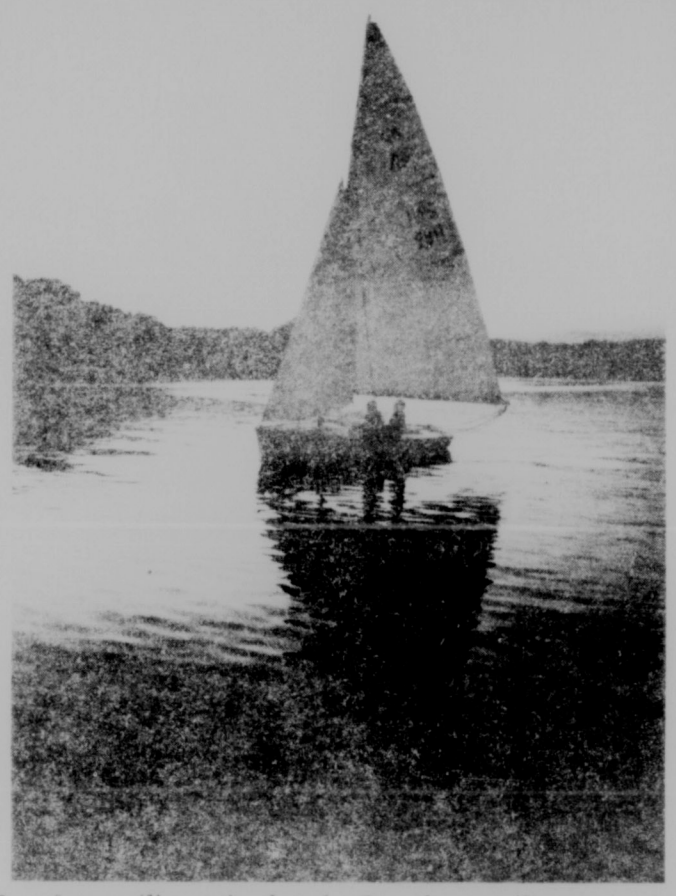
Gordon Douglass Boat Company

Garrett County and Deep Creek Lake are the home of the Gordon Douglass Boat Company, builders of the Flying Scot. The company builds a large roomy daysailer, a boat suited for racing as well as for quiet daysailing. There are many moods to the Flying Scot. It has drawn thousands of newcomers to the sport of sailing, and brought pleasure to them and to avid racing sailors as well.

The Flying Scot was designed by Sandy Douglass, pictured (left) sailing his boat No. 3000. From now until fall, one can find individual Scots on the lake every day of the week, and large fleets of them racing on weekends and holidays.

The Flying Scot has earned a reputation for quality: quality of design, quality of construction and finish, quality of performance. This reputation has made it a national-class boat, with some 4,245 active boats in the water. The Flying Scot is known far beyond the confines of Deep Creek Lake.

How does one become a Flying Scot sailor? Begin by visiting the shop in Deer Park to see how the boats are built. Attend the Gordon Douglass sailing school and learn to sail. Most find sailing to be great fun, easy to learn, and a skill they never lose.



Too many people think that to sail, a person must be a rich athlete. You need to be neither. The Flying Scot is easy to sail, whether you are 10, 95, or in between. And a good sailboat does not lose its value, and the wind is free. Gordon Douglass sailing school at Hickory Ridge teaches beginning, intermediate, and advanced sailing; and also rents and charters Flying Scots. Call 301-334-4848 to inquire about rates and schedules.

You will love sailing and the company's approach to it. There is no better way to enjoy the quiet beauty of Deep Creek Lake, than in a Flying Scot.

Monkey Hill Waterslide

Enjoy the thrill of your life this summer on the Monkey Lodge Hill Waterslide. Located on North Glade Road near Curt's Corner, just one-half mile off Route 495, Monkey Lodge Hill Waterslide, with its double-flume slide dropping 60 feet in a 500-foot distance, is perhaps the longest slide in Maryland and truly a "first" in Garrett County.

Just 100 steps to the top, and you are ready for 30-seconds' worth of fast, cool summer fun. The operator at the flume's top hands you a mat, gives the OK, and you're off—down the twisting, turning waterslide—to splash into the three-foot deep landing pool at the bottom. There the lifeguard will see that you're ready for your return trip up the stairs, and another thrilling slide back down.

Owners Bruce Sweitzer Jr. and his wife, Barbara, plan to ensure that each person gets a return ride every five or six minutes. There are no age requirements, but each rider/swimmer must be at least four-feet tall.

Beginning Memorial Day weekend, Monkey Lodge Hill Waterslide will be open six days a week from 10 a.m. until dusk, and Sunday afternoons until dusk. A 25-percent discount will be offered to groups of 25 or more. All groups should call ahead (387-5020) for reservations.

Future improvements will include lights for nighttime fun, a picnic area and a concession stand.

The waterslide is adjacent to Monkey Lodge Hill Campgrounds, a 100-acre camping area with 60 sites including 12 with water and electricial hookups. The waterslide and campgrounds are only 10 minutes away from Deep Creek Lake State Park and all lake activities.

Penn Alps

Penn Alps, Inc. combines history, folklore, fine craftsmanship, a marketing service, and a first-class Pennsylvania German restaurant in an inclusive program.

Located on the National Road just east of Grantsville, it is housed in a remodeled 1818 stagecoach stop and is situated between a 1797 grist mill, which is still in operation, and the Casselman River Bridge, built in 1813.

Penn Alps houses four dining rooms, each with its own distinctive charm and relaxing atmosphere. The menu features Pennsylvania Dutch specialties such as roast pork and sauerkraut, as well as a salad bar, soups, sandwiches, seafood, daily specials, and homemade breads and desserts.

In the summer months, the restaurant is open Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

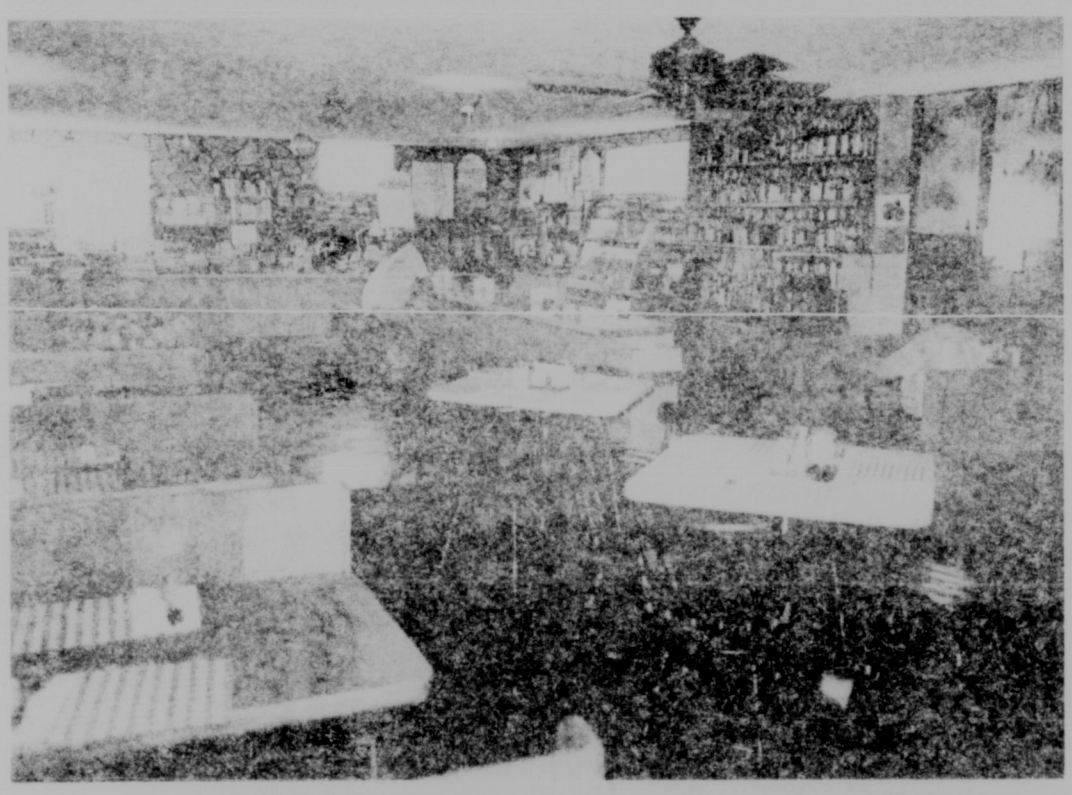
Brunch is served on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Brunch items include waffles, pancakes, scrambled eggs, hash browns, hot meats, fruit and juices.

The building also houses a large handicraft shop, offering quality crafts made by residents of the Tri-state area.

The Spruce Forest, located beside the restuarant, contains log cabins and other rustic buildings which, during the summer months, serve as studios for numerous artisans. These usually include a spinner, weaver, potter, two stained glass workers, a wood sculptor, and a world-renowned bird carver.

A three-day Summerfest is held at Penn Alps in mid-July, which features some 40 artisans in addition to the regular occupants.

Penn Alps offers variety for everyone, whether interests lie in history, arts and crafts, folkways, or Dutch cooking.



Old Mill Restaurant

The Old Mill Restaurant in Gorman has been owned by the Ford family for one-and-a-half years. In the time that Carl and Rose Ford Sr. and Rich and Joan Ford have owned and operated the Old Mill, it has recovered from two devastating floods.

A marker outside the restaurant shows the levels reached by both the June 31 and the November 4, 1985 floods. The owners refused to give up though, and the restaurant got better each time it reopened.

A full menu is available from sandwiches to full-course meals, with breakfast, lunch and dinner being served seven days a week. One of the most popular items on the menu, a special of the house, is sausage gravy and biscuits. Italian subs and pizza are available as well as carry-outs.

A Sunday smorgasbord has been very popular and will be repeated regularly in the future.

The restaurant offers a line of convenience items plus a pool table for those with a few minutes of leisure time.

The Old Mill Restaurant is open seven days a week, from 5 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 7 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Sunday.

For any meal of the day, you are sure to get quality food for reasonable prices at the Old Mill Restaurant in Gorman.

Precision Rafting Expeditions

Looking at the river, I couldn't believe that I had volunteered to raft down the Upper Yough. But there I was at Precision Rafting Expeditions ready to begin a plunge down one of the fastest, most dangerous—but what is considered to be one of the best—whitewater rivers in the eastern United States.

Precision Rafting Expeditions, located on Main Street in Friendsville, is owned and operated by Phil Coleman and Roger Zbel. Besides Phil and Roger, the company, which has been in operation since 1981, has three permanent employees, Ted Newton, Bill Heller, and Jeff Snyder.

The raft I got into held four people, one guide and three frightened clients. We started our river journey about 11 a.m. The course took us from Sang Run back to Friendsville in approximately four hours.

At the beginning of the course we went slow and our guide explained white water safety and exactly what we would have to do before the first rapids at Gap Falls. After that first encounter with the waves, I felt more secure. As we went down the river, our guide told us what each place was called. We made our way through Big Stuff and Triple Drop and prepared to start down National Falls.

As we waited until the safety ropes were in place and the video cameras were ready, we were told that this was one of our biggest falls to conquer. As we started down through the tight chute and around some enormous boulders, I felt the thrill of it all. I was meeting the challenge and it felt great. Then I looked back and discovered that I was the only one left in the raft!

Determination took hold. I wasn't going to fall out. "Hold on," they shouted from the shore. And that's just what I did, right to the bottom of the falls, where they threw me a rope and pulled me in. It was neat to be referred to as the lady who rode National Falls alone.

After the others got back into the raft, we continued down Zinger, Heinzerling, Meat Cleaver, Powerful Pop-up, and the Double Pencil Sharpener. All of them seemed a little less awesome to me after National Falls.

Precision Rafting handles large groups too, using 10 part-time guides to help. Usually there are 10 to 13 rafts on the river at one time. Before the more challenging drops, some of the guides go ahead and set up safety equipment to be ready just in case someone falls out and needs help.

Precision Rafting's guides are professionals and know exactly what to do and when to do it to give the clients a safe trip. They can proudly say that there have been no major injuries since they have been in operation.

The trip cost $75 per person, and not only included a safe trip down the river with loads of fun, but the use of a helmet and life jacket, and hot hoagies and beer afterwards while we talked about our great day on the river.

Precision Rafting has sweat suits for rent and provides changing facilities. Videos taken during the trip can be ordered for purchase later.

The rafting trips are offered Monday through Friday, April through November, and reservations, accompanied by a $20 deposit, should be made two-weeks ahead.

Precision Rafting Expeditions basically attract young people, although they have taken older people who enjoy their trip as much as the youth do. They take various groups such as churches and boy scouts. They've even taken Beverly Byron rafting on the river.

Precision Rafting is definite success and is growing every year. If you like a challenge, then try white water rafting. You're sure to enjoy it. For reservations or information call 301-746-5290.

Loch Lynn Restaurant

The Loch Lynn Restaurant, owned and operated by Mike and Sheila O'Neill, has been in Sheila's family for 25 years. Her father, Edward Tasker, purchased the business in 1961 and operated the restaurant for 14 or 15 years. Ten years ago, Sheila bought the restaurant and has been operating it since then with the help of one part-time and two full-time employees.

Over the years many changes have been made to the interior of the restaurant. Many home-made specialties, at reasonable prices, have been added to the menu making it a popular family restaurant.

"We like to accommodate people," says Sheila. "We do little things like divide a sandwich between two children, things other restaurants won't do."

One very popular item at The Loch Lynn Restaurant is its salad bar. All 25 dishes are homemade. Besides the basics for tossed salad, the salad bar features pickled eggs, macaroni salad, potato salad, cole slaw, ambrosia salad, puddings, cheeses, and fruits.

Other homemade delicacies are also available, like homemade soups, pies, and delicious homemade rolls.

A daily special is served each day from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Everything served is available for take-out orders. Breakfast groups, church groups, women's groups, and others may take advantage of private rooms for meetings or parties.

The restaurant is open Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. For good food at reasonable prices, in a convenient location, stop at The Loch Lynn Restaurant.

Cornish Manor

Cornish Manor Restaurant, owned and hosted by Bob and Patty Bobo, located one-half mile off Route 219 on Memorial Drive, is a delightful country place reminiscent of Colonial Williamsburg.

Fine dining with homemade fare is offered for lunch and dinner at the serene Cornish Manor which is rich in history.

The house, located on 7 acres of land covered with 200 large, sturdy oak trees, is comprised of 18 rooms and three large halls.

The Victorian home was built in 1868 by Judge Lambert of Washington, D.C. It was later purchasd by L.L. Loar who named it "Ethelhurst" for his daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cornish then purchased it, thereby establishing its present name.

Lunch begins at Cornish Manor at 11 a.m. where there's always a tempting luncheon special. They are famous for their Bobo burger, served with grilled onions on toasted homemade bread, as well as their homemade soup du jour, select sandwich menu and luncheon platters and fresh salads.

Dinners are served from 4-10 p.m. which delight the lightest to the heartiest palates.

A luscious offering of appetizers like oysters on the half-shell and escargot are available at Cornish Manor. Then, it's on to the dinner fare including treasures from the sea, seasonal seafood delicacies. beef and reef, surf and turf, and all-time favorites like juicy steaks, ham, pork chops, lamb chops, chicken and the unbeatable fresh-roasted Maryland turkey. Lighter side meals are offered.

Homemade desserts, baked daily, top off an already perfect meal at Cornish Manor. Their own Cornish Pudding is not to be missed.

Cocktails and after-dinner drinks are also served by Cornish Manor's friendly waitresses.

FIREWORKS DISPLAY JULY 4TH

The Park Is Open 7 Days A Week

9 a.m. - 9 p.m.

Located Off Pittsburgh Ave., Mt. Lake Park

Broadford Park is owned and operated by the Town of Oakland.

Broadford Recreation Area

If Deep Creek Lake is Maryland's Best Kept Secret, then Broadford Recreation Area must surely be Oakland's Best Kept Secret.

A 138-acre lake of clean, refreshing water, complete with 600 feet of sandy beach, paddle boats, snack bar, boat ramp, and picnic grounds are among the features of Broadford, truly one of the most picturesque sites in Garrett County for a wide variety of recreation.

The dozens of picnic sites offer tables and cooking grills and there is also a large pavilion which may be rented for family reunions and other large group gatherings. For the youngsters, besides the beautiful beach facilities, there are numerous pieces of playground equipment, including swings and slides, plus a full-size, refurbished B&O Railroad caboose. Lifeguards are on duty throughout the day for swimmers.

Broadford Lake is stocked every year with thousands of fish and offers some great catches for local anglers, who may fish from most anywhere along the shore or in their boats, which may be launched near the pavilion.

Also located within the boundaries of the park are two baseball fields, which are operated by the Oakland Little League and offer an exciting schedule of America's favorite pasttime.

Broadford Recreation Area, which is owned by the Town of Oakland, is managed by Noni Alexander, who does an outstanding job at keeping the grounds in immaculate condition, neatly trimmed and completely free of trash. There is easy access to all areas of the park, via a hard-surface drive-through roadway and three large parking areas.

Broadford is also the site of an annual Fourth of July fireworks display and has hosted on numerous occasions the Fourth of July Old Fashioned Family Picnic.

For a full day of fun and recreation, or just a pleasant evening picnic, one can find no better spot than Broadford Recreation Area. For more information, or to reserve the pavilion, persons may call Oakland City Hall.

The Casselman

The Casselman Hotel and Restaurant offers both rooms and meals in a quiet country atmosphere.

The restaurant is open Monday through Saturday from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., with breakfast being served until 11 a.m. The menu features daily specials as well as platters, dinners, soup, sandwiches, and children's dinners. The cuisine is simple country food with a variety of Amish recipes.

Casselman specialties include grilled ham, roast beef, and honey-dipt chicken, as well as homemade bread and pies. An added feature is pancakes or buckwheat cakes served with country sausage and maple syrup.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ivan J. Miller, the Casselman was built in 1894. It was one of the numerous inns along the National Trail to serve stagecoaches, covered wagons, drovers and riders that made the Old Pike the busiest thoroughfare crossing the mountains.

The building was structured of brick which was handmade and burnt nearby in the Grantsville area. A kitchen was added in 1903.

The Millers acquired the Casselman in 1964, and in 1973 added a new dining room which seats 125 comfortably.

A bakery was also added, and visitors are welcome to watch the preparations of various pastries and bread. Located downstairs with the bakery is an antique shop containing many rare and valuable pieces from the past.

The most recent addition to the Casselman is the 40-room Motor Inn, located just behind and to the left of the restaurant. In keeping with the original historic inn and restaurant, all furniture was hand-crafted by local members of the community and the Millers themselves. This special touch creates a relaxed, homey feeling.

In addition, each room contains a private bath and color television. Many rooms on the first floor have been designed for the handicapped.

The Casselman Hotel and Restaurant follows the simple policy that the finer things of life must not be lost in the rush of modern day.

Hometown Market

The most convenient, quick stop in town is at Tom Browning's Hometown Market on Oak Street in Oakland. Whether it's those last-minute grocery items you need, or a sandwich on the run, you'll be sure to find it at Hometown Market.

"We're working hard to be the number one convenience store," says Tom Browning, who plans to reach that goal and remain number one with prices that are lower than chain-convenience stores, with convenience, and variety.

Close to downtown Oakland and the Garrett County Courthouse, parking is available both on Oak Street and in the store's own lot.

Hometown Market's sandwiches and soft drinks are popular lunchbox fillers for those on-the-job lunches. For those on a lunch break, Hometown Market is just a short walk or drive from anywhere in the Oakland area.

Not just one brand-name, but a variety of grocery brands are offered at Hometown Market, with items available from four bakeries, four potato chip companies, and two dairies. The largest variety of soft drinks in town can be found at Hometown Market, along with a full line of cold beer, and a wide selection of deli meats and cheeses.

The Candlewyck Inn

The Candlewyck Inn, on State Route 220 south in downtown Keyser, W.Va., is a Victorian-era mansion-turned-restaurant owned by Lew and Autumn Engle. Decorated by the Engles with fine antiques, hand-crafted bars, and formal table settings, The Candlewyck offers a turn-of-the-century atmosphere which is both sophisticated and romantic.

The upstairs dining room is calm, quiet and peaceful by day, and shines with a romantic glow at night. The corner turret of the Victorian home has been turned into a charming gazebo of latticework structure with ivy climbing around the door. This gazebo, which is reserved several times every Friday and Saturday night, has set the scene for marriage proposals, anniversary celebrations, and other important events.

A private dining room seats 10 to 12 and is available for dinner meetings or private parties.

Chef Fred Engle has had eight years of experience in New York and uses meats and seafood purchased daily to ensure choice quality. A full selection of deli sandwiches is offered, along with side orders such as onion rings dipped in the chef's own homemade batter. Appetizers prepare the diner for any one of the tempting offerings like filet mignon, surf and turf, rib eye steak, T-bone steak, shrimp scampi, Maryland crab cakes, linguini with clam sauce, chicken cordon bleu, and much more.

The Candlewyck Inn is open Tuesday through Thursday from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m.; Friday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, when it also offers full liquor service, from noon until 6 p.m.

The bar is open every night until midnight, Tuesday through Saturday.

Duke Everhart is featured every other Friday night (June 6) playing 1960's and 70's rock on the guitar.

Let The Candlewyck Inn, located only 31 miles from Oakland and Deep Creek Lake, be the spot for your next important business luncheon or romantic engagement. MasterCard and Visa are accepted.

Dinner is served from 4-10 p.m., Monday through Thursday, and 5-11 p.m., Friday and Saturday. A seafood buffet special is offered every Friday night.

Daily luncheon specials are offered from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in addition to the regular luncheon menu which includes a wide variety of popular sandwiches, stuffed potatoes, homemade soups, salads and desserts.

Leisurely breakfasts are served at PC's from 7:30 to 11 a.m., Monday through Saturday and from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Sunday.

The lounge at PC's offers beer, wine and cocktails and is open until 1 a.m. daily (except Sunday). Live entertainment is provided Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and happy hour, with half-price drinks, is from 4-7 p.m.

The building which houses PC's was built in 1897, but was reconstructed sometime around 1947 after fire destroyed part of the structure.

The stone fireplace is one of the largest in the state. The Dutch ovens on either side of the fireplace are authentic and could still be used for baking.

The windows at the entrance of PC's are etched glass, almost a lost art today. Stained glass, found throughout the restaurant, was done by local artisans, Jack and Elanore Spore. The work represents the original Tiffany process, a rarity today.

PC's welcomes you to a satisfying meal in a serene setting whether it be for a hearty breakfast, a light lunch or a six-course dinner.

Walt's General Store

Walt's General Store on Deep Creek Drive in McHenry is celebrating 25-years of service to the lake area, always trying to meet the needs of their customers.

In 1961, the late Walter Wachter bought the store when it was a two-bay gas station with odds and ends of hardware supplies. He turned it into a general store with an old-fashioned pot-belly stove, where men sat around playing checkers and telling tall tales.

As the community grew, so did Walt's General Store. It was the first to offer "boat shopping," and dock space is still available for those who come to shop by boat.

The store carries a large selection of hardware supplies, including plumbing, electrical, lawn and garden. They have a great selection of knives, pots and pans, cheese cutters, strainers—anything that might be needed in a kitchen.

Also available is fishing equipment, sporting goods, picnic supplies, post cards, sewing notions, games and toys, and toiletry items, along with a full line of groceries. The meat and deli department has everything from cold cuts and salads to New York strip steaks.

Walt's new wardrobe store has jeans, sweatshirts, T-shirts, shoes, socks, underwear, bathing suits and souvenir clothing.

SBHE Extends GCC's Operation Authority Date

The Maryland State Board for Higher Education's program committee extended Garrett Community College's authority to operate until November, according to an Annapolis source.

At its regular bi-monthly meeting in Annapolis Tuesday, the committee voted 4-0 to let the college continue operations. That temporary measure was necessary since it would otherwise expire in July, according to SBHE commissioner, Sheldon H. Knorr.

The SBHE cited during their February visit to GCC specific problems at the college, but Knorr explained to the committee that the college needed time to address those citations.

GCC Board of Trustees Chairman Katharine L. Smith was present for the meeting in Annapolis and told the committee that a new president had been appointed by the trustees in late May. She noted that the new president, Dr. Stephen J. Herman, would be locating in the area from Connecticut in August but would begin addressing the problems listed in the SBHE report beginning in July.

SBHE Chairman Richard R. Kline told the committee that recent troubles at GCC, coupled with the fact that they have the smallest enrollment among Maryland community colleges, were indicative of the pressures which will affect other small colleges in the future as reduced finances and declining enrollments prevail.

Choral Society To Present Annual Spring Concert

This year's concert will provide a potpourri of listening enjoyment with selections ranging from "The Heaven's Are Telling," from Hayden's "Creation," to "It's a Grand Night for Singing," from Rogers and Hammerstein's "State Fair."

Other selections include: "Dry Bones," "Ezekeil Saw de Wheel," "Fugue for Tinhorns," "While we were Young," and "Sometimes I feel Like A Motherless Child."

The Choral Society is well-known in the area for its past performances including: "Oliver," "Fiddler on the Roof," and "South Pacific." The Society is made up of local residents and has been under the direction of Nancy Learey since its inception in 1976.

The Choral Society will be accompanied by Dr. David Sheets and Martin Heise. Advance tickets are available at Englander's Pharmacy.

West Virginia Resident "Fair" After Mishap

A Clarksburg, W.Va., man was listed in "fair" condition this morning at West Virginia University Hospital, where he was flown by Medevac helicopter following a single-vehicle accident last Thursday on Route 42.

Wayne C. Harman, 22, was operating a 1981 Oldsmobile Cutlass at an apparent high rate of speed, according to reports filed by the Maryland State Police. Harman failed to negotiate a left turn and ran onto the right shoulder. The vehicle then went off the left side, struck an embankment, and overturned.

Tfc. R.J. Resh investigated the mishap, charging Harman with negligent driving and driving while under the influence of alcohol.

A two-vehicle accident occurred May 27 on U.S. Route 219.

According to police reports, Mary B. Miller, 42, Eglon, W.Va., was southbound in a 1977 Ford Bronco. Sonny R. Bowman, 21, Oakland, was traving behind her in a 1969 Ford Custom. Police said Bowman failed to control his speed, and struck Miller's vehicle in the rear.

Tfc. L.R. Rosage investigated, charging Bowman with driving

Death Of Brandy White Stirs Anger, Frustration, Protest March

The death of a young Bloomington area girl, apparently from the result of child abuse, has caused considerable uproar and outrage among local residents, leading to the creation of an organization designed to combat child abuse, plus a protest march from Mtn. Lake Park to Oakland which occurred Wednesday afternoon.

Following a hearing held last Thursday night in Garrett County Circuit Court in which information was presented pertaining to the condition of four-year-old Brandy White, a decision was made to remove the child from the life support system she had been on.

Chief Judge Fred A. Thayer said according to tests that were completed and the testimony of doctors, there was no question that the child was dead and that the continued use of life support systems was no longer appropriate.

Brandy was transported to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, by Medevac helicopter May 18 after she was found unconcious and severely beaten.

Dr. Robert Brodell, Cumberland, one of the doctors who treated Brandy, testified at the hearing, describing the child as "comatose and critically ill" when she arrived at the hospital.

Brodell said that by May 19, Brandy's pupils were dilated, and by May 20 she responded to pain only. On May 26, he noticed a partial collapse of the lung, and on May 27 Brandy was "unresponsive" and "brain dead." He said that for Brandy, there was "no way to survive without life support systems."

The child's real father, Richard White, was present at the trial, and was handcuffed. He is serving a two-year sentence in the Maryland Correctional Training Center, Hagerstown, for breaking and entering, and has served nine months of the sentence.

Brandy died Friday after she was removed from the life support system. Early Saturday morning, a transplant team removed the child's kidneys and corneas. At two Washington hospitals Sunday night, her kidneys were successfully transplanted into the bodies of a 35-year-old man and a 41-year-old woman, according to Christina Bourgeois of the Shenandoah Valley Transplant Program. She said Brandy's corneas have been stored for future transplants.

Brandy's mother, Donna Lynn White, 26, is being held in the Garrett County Jail on a charge of caused child abuse, and Mrs. White's boyfriend, Bruce Allen Sarver, 29, is being held on charges of assault and battery, child abuse, and maiming.

Sarver is held on $100,000 bail, and in a court hearing held yesterday, White's bail was raised from $10,000 to $100,000.

Brandy's death sparked sadness and anger in many county residents, and approximately 250 people gathered Wednesday evening at the Bloomington Volunteer Fire Company Hall to form an organization called March for Justice.

Present at the meeting were residents of Garrett and Allegany counties, as well as from West Virginia. The group established officers and a board of directors.

One officer reported that some $1,017 has been collected for the Brandy White Fund, which was established to assist with funeral expenses and legal fees. If there is anything left and Mrs. White does not have custody of her other two children, Delbert White, eight, and Amber Sarver, 14 months, it will be used to set up trust funds for them. The two children have been placed in foster care.

Donations may be made out to the Brandy White Fund and sent to Sherry Laffey, in care of the Westernport Branch of the First Federal Bank, Tri-Towns Plaza, Westernport.

Approximately 100 people marched from the Social Services Department to the Garrett County Courthouse yesterday. One marcher said, "We feel that if we march, and the people in the area know that we are against child abuse, maybe some of it will stop."

Several of Brandy's neighbors say they made repeated phone calls about Brandy to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, the Social Services Department, and to the state police barracks.

These calls led to May 6 and 7 visits by officials. According to First Sgt. H.W. Graham of the Maryland State Police and Garrett County Sheriff M. Van Evans, the officials did enter the trailer and examined Brandy, finding only a bruise on her arm. Mrs. White told them the bruise occurred when the child fell off her bicycle. The officials did not find the child to be in any apparent danger.

Robert C. Shaffer, head of social services for Garrett County, was unable to comment on the case, and directed questions to Frank Farrow, director of the state Social Services Administration. Farrow said social workers and police need clear evidence of harm or threat to a child "to even begin to make a case for removal from the home." He stressed that such harm or threat was not present on either visit.

He said the calls which were made to the local departments were from people who were concerned that they had not seen Brandy for several weeks, and made no specific charges of child abuse. Furthermore, Brandy had never been the sub-

The parade will end at the community park where food booths and activities will commence around 8:00 p.m.

Numerous craft booths will be set up in the park this year. Local crafters as well as many from surrounding West Virginia and Pennsylvania areas will be demonstrating and selling throughout the entire weekend beginning Friday after the parade.

These activities will be followed by a Bench Show featuring members of the Garrett County Coon Hunters Association.

Commissioners, Delegate Travel To Annapolis To Seek Landfill Aid

Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey and Elwood Groves, along with Delegate George Edwards, traveled to Annapolis yesterday to attend a Board of Public Works meeting with Governor Harry Hughes, Comptroller Louis Goldstein and State Treasurer William James. The local officials said the meeting involved a local issue, the process of planning construction and implementation of new landfills, which is why they attended.

The commissioners have requested the aid of the Maryland Environmental Services, a quasi-governmental department affiliated with the Department of Natural Resources, to apply for state funding to help the two million dollar plus landfill project which will take several years to complete. They are requesting $228,000 which represents less than 10% of the project.

The commissioners and delegate took with them letters from Senator John N. Bambacus and Garrett County Roads Administrator Paul R. Shockey explaining the "grave financial burden" a new state-mandated landfill would place on the county.

In his letter, Senator Bambacus stated, " . . . financial assistance under the Solid Waste Facilities Loan Act of 1983 is essential. Other sources have been pursued diligently as well."

While in Annapolis, the local officials hoped to meet also with James Peck, Water Resources Administration director to discuss problems in replacing ditches and repairing culverts.

Shockey told the commissioners Tuesday the regulations of that department were so stringent that his department could not carry on routine maintenance without going through a long permitting process. He noted that two relatively small projects have been delayed for over six months because of delays by the WRA.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg Jr. commented, "We certainly support the concept of the 'Save the Bay' effort, but we feel these regulations are overkill. It is simply a result of over-zealous types of legislation."

County Budget

The Board of Commissioners said Tuesday at a press conference that they are "very close to finalizing the budget for

Historical Dinner Slated June 28. Sword To Speak

Plans have been completed for the annual dinner of the Garrett County Historical Society which will be held at the Bittinger Community Building on Thursday, June 26, according to Rev. John Grant, spokesman for that group.

Feature speaker for the evening will be Gerald J. Sword of the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service. Sword, who is an historian, will speak on "History in the Woods". It will be based on items of historical interest which were once prominent but are now obscured by the woods, said Grant.

The dinner program will also include a display of memorabilia of the U.S.S. Garrett County. On hand to identify some of the items will be James N. Guy, who served on board the ship and was responsible for locating them after the ship was decommissioned.

Mrs. Beth Friend, new custodian at the Historical Society Museum, will be there to describe the display being prepared at the museum. She was responsible for bringing the items back to Garrett County after they had been located.

Reservations for the dinner may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Cari M. Cathell, Rt. 5, Box 30, Oakland, Md., 21550. Price of the dinner is $7 per person.

Grantsville Man Jailed After Fleeing Police

A young Grantsville man escaped from the State Police detachment early Wednesday morning after he was taken into custody following an accident, but turned himself in late in the day.

Richard Alan Miner, 18, is being held in the Garrett County Jail on $150 bond for a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol, and without bond pending a trial day on a charge of escaping from confinement.

According to police reports, Miner was involved in an accident on U.S. Route 40. He was operating a 1972 Pontiac when he lost control of the vehicle. The car then left the road, struck a culvert, and came to rest against a tree.

Tfc. D.K. Williams investigated, and also charged Miner with negligent driving. Williams then transported him to the detachment, where Miner fled on foot, wearing handcuffs.

GIVING RECOGNITION this week to the Southern High School varsity baseball team were the Garrett County Commissioners. The Rams captured the Region I, Class B championship, which placed them among the final four Class B teams in the state of Maryland. They were defeated in the semifinal game by North East High School. Pictured left to right are county commissioners, Elwood Groves and Ernie Gregg; assistant baseball coach, Ed Wildesen; head coach, Jim Bosley; assistant coach, Terry Helbig; and county commissioner, John Braskey.

Details Of Lake Clean-Up Effort Are Announced

The Deep Creek Lake Property Owners' Association is encouraging all landowners in the lake area to take the time to gather up any trash or debris around the lake shoreline and transport it to the county landfill located four miles north of Oakland on the Oakland-Sang Run Road. For this weekend, the landfill will be open on Saturday, June 7, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. and on Sunday, June 8, from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

According to Michael Gregory, lake manager, the Property Owners' Association is still seeking volunteers to donate their time for the pick-up of debris collected by landowners. The pick-up date will be Sunday, June 8. The roads that will be followed by the volunteers include the following: Marsh Hill Road, Deep Creek Drive (old Route 219), Lakeshore Drive, Mayhew Inn Road (Lakeshore Drive to breast of dam), Lake Forest Drive, Skipper's Point Drive, Stockslager Road (along lake only), Shingle Camp Road (lake end), Route 219 between Deep Creek bridge and Thayerville, Rock Lodge Road (along lake), State Park Road (Cherry Creek - Glendale Bridge), John Brant Road, Glendale Road (along lake), Glen Cove Road (along lake), Beckman's Peninsula Road, White Oak Drive (along lake), Harvey's Peninsula Road (along lake), Clark Lorh Drive, (off North Glade Road), Thousand Acres Road (along lake), Sky Valley Drive (along Lake), Green Glade Road (along lake), Maybury-Poland Drive (along lake), Hazelhurst Road (along lake), Pine Tree Point Road (along lake), Turkey Neck loop and roads into Yacht Club, Back Bay Colony, and Hickory Ridge, Chadderton School Rd., Pergin Farms Road, Penn Point Road, Boy Scout Road (a' points bordering lake), and Paradise Point Road (by lake).

Gregory said any interested groups or individuals willing to volunteer should contact the Lake Management Office at 387-4111 or 387-4112. Pickup trucks with drivers and helpers are in particular need, he said.

Lake property owners are asked to make every possible attempt to transport their debris to the county landfill. However, those persons who do not have vehicles capable of hauling larger articles of debris should place them on the lake side of the above listed roads before 1 p.m. on Sunday, June 8, for pick-up by volunteers.

Volunteers from the Property Owners' Association and the Businessmen's Association will only pick-up articles of debris of a convenient size which can be lifted by the average person. Those items which the volunteers will pick-up include old dock flotation, separated pieces of lumber from old docks, and empty barrels, provided holes have been punched in both ends of the barrel.

Landowners should be aware that special accommodation has been made for the receiving of barrels at the county landfill for this weekend only. Gregory said it should also be noted that the volunteers will not pick up leaves, brush, tires, household litter, stumps, or driftwood.

Local Citizens Asked To Help Finance Memorial

Plans are underway to construct a Memorial for Vietnam Veterans at historic Federal Hill in Baltimore, and Garrett County citizens are being asked to help finance this project.

James Shipe, president of Garrett County Chapter 245, Vietnam Veterans of America, has been designated as the coordinator for the fund-raising efforts here. Shipe stated that the goal for Garrett County in the $2.42 million project is $20,000.

"I believe in this project not only because it will cause future generations to remember the sacrifice of these men and women," Shipe said, "but more important to me, it will help ease the hurt experienced by the families of the dead."

Shipe admitted that the goal of $20,000 is going to be difficult to reach, but noted that the sum represents less than $1 per citizen of the county. Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, has already donated over $500 to the project and Shipe says a number of individuals have also contributed.

The Maryland Vietnam Veterans Memorial Commission was appointed by Governor Harry Hughes and charged with the responsibility of raising the necessary funds, keeping accurate records, and assisting in every concern of the Memorial. Fred L. Wineland is the chairman.

The design for the Memorial will be selected from a Design Competition, which is open to all Maryland citizens.

Shipe said donations may be sent to him at Rt. 1, Box 125 B-1, Oakland. He noted that all contributions are tax-deductible. Persons may also send donations directly to the Maryland Vietnam Veterans Fund, Inc., 118 N. Howard St., Suite 702, Baltimore, MD 21201.

while under the influence of alcohol and negligent driving.

Two passengers in Miller's vehicle, JoAnn Wotring, 50; and Sandy Sines, 22, both of Aurora, W.Va., were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the incident.

A two-vehicle accident occurred May 28 on Route 495.

According to police reports, William H. Brenneman, 65, Grantsville, was operating a 1972 Buick LeSabre which was stopped at the end of a driveway. Jonathon M. Maust, 25, Grantsville, was southbound in a 1970 Oldsmobile Cutlass. Brenneman then pulled out into the path of Maust, causing a collision.

Cpl. Richard Graham investigated, charging Brenneman with failing to yield the right of way.

Apparently no one was seriously injured in the mishap.

"Fitness Over Forty" Course Being Offered

The National Center for Health Statistics reports that disease prevention through immunization and improved hygiene have given life to young people, and enabled them to become older adults. Yet while persons live longer, they still get sick. As the National Center for Health Promotion indicates in the Spring 1986 issue of its publication, Health Notes, "The issue is no longer how to avoid premature death but rather how to preserve health and vitality as one becomes 50, 60, 70, or older."

The local Wellness Together is offering a free course to help people over 40 years old who want to get fit called "Fitness Over Forty."

Sara Donley, BSN, director of Adult Health for Garrett County Health Department, will instruct the men and women who participate how to cope with the physical and emotional changes that occur when beginning this new phase of life. Six one-hour sessions will be held from June 17 to July 22 in the Garrett County Health Department Assembly Room. Class size is limited to 20.

The first five classes of the course will begin with approximately 15 minutes of instruction on the special physical, nutritional, and emotional needs of people over 40 years old. The latter part of these classes and the full program for the last four classes will be warm-up, aerobic, and cool-down exercises that do not require jumping, but are gentle on the body.

Ms. Donley is an instructor for the Health Department's positive pregnancy fitness class and is an enthusiast of square and round dancing. She says she looks forward to teaching this class because she believes, "People over 40 often feel exercise is no longer inportant." Yet it has been proven that regular aerobic exercise lowers blood pressure, reduces one's risk for heart disease, enables weight control, and increases muscle while decreasing fat. She said these are all goals that people over 40 need to reach for maintaining good health. "Older adults often find convenient excuses for not exercising and as one adjusts to becoming older, it's a good time for changing to improved health habits," Ms. Donley said.

Persons should call 334-2155 to register by June 13.

Another Smoke Stoppers Class Being Offered

"Wellness Together" coordinators have scheduled another Smoke Stoppers course to begin on Wednesday, June 11, with a free introductory session. People who wish to quit smoking are advised to attend this one-hour session at 6 p.m. in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board Room.

Garrett County Health Department psychologist, Laurie Scott, will be the instructor again for this program which helped 24 people to quit smoking in April. Joined by Garrett County Memorial Hospital receptionist, Doris Baker, who was also trained by Smoke Stoppers to teach this course, both Ms. Scott and Ms. Baker led the participants through the steps necessary to kick the smoking habit.

One of these participants was Mrs. Jean Grant, a teacher's aide in the Garrett County school system, and wife of Rev. John Grant.

Mrs. Grant smoked 1½ packs of cigaretts a day for 40 years. She came to the Smokers Stoppers introductory class at the urging of friends. During an exercise in the class, she figured out that in addition to improving her health she would saving approximatly $550 a year if she could quit smoking. Her physician gave her a prescription for a discount on the enrollment fee and she was on her way to becoming a successful non-smoker.

Like so many others, Mrs. Grant had quit smoking for a year once before but started again. Commenting on the Smoke Stoppers Program, she said, "The classes were good and very helpful—a good support group. I couldn't have done it on my own."

Mrs. Grant felt that the habit hardest to break was sitting around the table after meals talking and smoking. Techniques she learned at the Smoke Stoppers classes helped her successfully change this behavior.

Now that she has quit, Mrs. Grant says her circulation has improved—"no more cold feet." She doesn't get out of breath, "and that yucky taste and smell of cigarettes are gone."

THE ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY parade and ceremonies at the Oakland Cemetery were held Friday, as Maryland continues to observe the holiday on May 30. The usual signs of patriotism were displayed by all ages, from the youngsters pictured here waving Old Glory, to the World War I veterans who were present for the ceremonies, Richard E. Maroney, Oakland, below left, and Earl W. Alexander, Accident. Services were conducted by the Knights of Pythias, above center; the guest speaker for the event was Donald W. Sincell, editor of The Republican Newspaper; and the members of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, provided the rifle salute. Cub Scouts, pictured below gathering the empty brass cartridges, along with other scouting units also participated in the parade, as did members of the local Disabled American Veterans chapter and auxiliary.

Sensationalism Doesn't Help

The suffering and brutal death of four-year-old Brandy White has caused considerable unrest this past week. Frustration, rage, and an extreme desire for revenge against those responsible for this horrible act are just a few of the emotions being experienced by most of us.

Despite these feelings, we believe that some of our fellow media persons are going to sensational extremes in covering this story and are, in fact, helping to incite the emotions of people beyond already heightened levels. Editorials, not newsstories, should be the only mechanism utilized for this purpose.

One area paper has been filled with quotes of Brandy's neighbors, who are obviously upset and angry. Then the Wednesday morning issue of the same paper had more quotes, plus a photograph of Brandy's grandmother, sobbing over the gravesite.

The Baltimore Sun has jumped on the same band wagon, along with a number of television stations. Most of the stories have been heavily slanted against the Garrett County Social Services Department and the Garrett County Sheriff's Department for an alleged failure to do their duties.

While we certainly don't have all the information, after speaking with officials of these two agencies, we believe at this point that they, in general, acted appropriately in this case and have been designated as scapegoats upon whom concerned citizens are venting their anger. The Social Services Department is an unpopular agency anyway, for they are in a no-win situation. They are criticized when they do remove children from the homes of parents who are designated as unfit and they are criticized when they do not, or cannot by law, remove other children.

Turning back to the media, we know for a fact that Robert Shaffer, director of the Social Services office, spoke for over one hour with a reporter from the Baltimore Sun. Yet when the story appeared, it simply stated that Shaffer "had no comment."

We know for a fact that television crews were giving direction yesterday during the protest march from the Social Services office to the Courthouse, telling people where to stand and when and how to react when the cameras were rolling.

We do believe that the protest march may have been a worthy project and that the persons involved truly were there because they want to do whatever they can to help prevent future terrible crimes against our children. Indeed, we hope that some good comes out of their efforts. The problem is, no matter how many laws we have, no matter how severe the punishment, no matter how competent our Social Services personnel are, there will always be child abuse. This is a sad fact of life. Human beings, the only creatures who are sinful by nature, are capable of committing horrible acts against others, especially when those persons' minds have been warped by some type of abuse against them in their past.

We too agree that the persons responsible for the death of this beautiful child should be severely punished and perhaps some changes in the present laws are necessary. We do not believe, however, that sensationalism in the media is part of a constructive course of action.

New Letters Policy

We have always tried to maintain our letters to the editor policy as open as possible. While we prefer that letter writers agree to have their names published with the letters, we have always honored requests for names to be withheld. Our reasoning for this is that sometimes there is a legitimate concern that retaliation might result against the writer of a letter from someone who holds a different opinion or by someone who may be the subject of a letter.

While we will still take into consideration this concern, unless we believe there is significant and sufficient reason to have a name withheld, we will no longer publish such letters. Each will be judged individually by the editor on this basis.

Also, although we no longer require that letters must be limited to 300 words or fewer, those that exceed this length may be excluded from publication if, in the opinion of the editor, the subject matter of the letter does not warrant publication.

As always, letters that contain libelous material will not be published.

To the Editor:

The Ram baseball coaching staff would like to thank the community for the outstanding support we received while winning the region and at the state tournament.

Thanks to the Elks Club, the SGAA, the Southern Athletic Department and many hard working mothers and fathers we traveled in the ultimate class. The money aspect was only part of it. The vocal support was enormous at both regional games and the state semi-final game. You don't know how much it was heard and felt. It made us very proud to be representing Southern Garrett High School and the surrounding community. Every person who was involved in what was mentioned above should be very proud of himself.

Many, many thanks.

Assist. Coaches,
Ed Wildesen, Terry Helbig

To the Editor:

In response to the unsigned letter from a disgruntled senior football player and his parent, I think you have discredited yourselves!

I have been associated with the coaches at Southern High School for many years as a parent of a football player, colleague and friend. I read these letters in total disbelief. I know these coaches to be professional and their integrity to be above reproach.

We should be thanking these men for their dedication and the exemplary male role models they have provided.

This senior class has given our community an unequaled sense of pride with their performances on and off the field. I personally have never worked with a finer group of people.

I find it difficult to believe that the venomous attitude of the "untalented senior football player" really represents the views of his classmates.

I also am appalled with the insensitivity and bad judgment of the people who slander an entire family.

Sincerely,
David C. Beard

P.S. I understand the writers refuse to sign such embarrassing tripe.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to two letters that appeared in The Republican last week. The individuals who wrote them obviously were upset with the fact that they did not win awards at the Southern Sports Banquet. As a basketball coach at Southern High School, I know how difficult it is to pick out certain individuals for honors. However, the coaches see the players practically every day for 13 weeks and certainly would have much more insight in choosing the most deserving athletes for an award than the athlete himself or the athlete's parent.

What a shame it is that the two individuals who wrote the letters would attempt to degrade the athletes who did win the awards. Players who contribute to the "team effort" are generally given awards. Obviously, the people who wrote the letters are not concerned about the team concept, the individuals on the team, or the coaching staff. Perhaps that's why they didn't win any awards.

Sincerely,
Bill Ewing
Mt. Lake Park

To the Editor:

All of us who are involved in the "kid" business need to take a look at what we are projecting to this most precious resource.

Regardless of our involvement, be it Sunday School Teacher, Little League Coach, Boy Scout Leader, High School Coach, Cheerleader Advisor, Band Leader, or fund raiser for all of the above, remember why we're doing our thing—to help every child we come in contact with, to shape their lives to be better citizens, parents and leaders, of our grandchildren.

Come on you all, let's not hang a bunch of dirty laundry out. Let's not mar an athletic program that's improving yearly. If we have problems with someone, take it to them directly, regardless of their name or position. You may not always get the answer or results you want, but then, you may not be right!

I thought the sport's award this year was probably given as fairly as I've ever seen. Thanks, coaches, for seeing the late bloomers and quiet leaders. Thanks, kids, for a terrific year. We love you all.

Don Mason

To the Editor:

The Southern Garrett Athletic Association is very proud to honor the scholar athletes of Southern High School each year. Many people work many long hours to produce a sports banquet which is second to none in the area.

This year's extremely successful banquet was marred, if not ruined, by the two letters in your paper last week. These letters, obviously written by the same family, were very detrimental to our association, and especially to Coach Tom Woods. It is a shame a young man cannot accept not receiving an award and then try to ruin the day for the people who did deserve and receive them. His comments about specific athletes was in extreme poor taste and should have been edited out of your paper. I understand, Mr. Editor, that you have to sell papers, but that sentence should never have been printed.

The second letter, written by the mother of the first author, borders on slander and could have legal implications later. Coach Woods did not say "the graduating seniors were the least talented boys he had coached in some time." That was taken completely out of context and misunderstood by the writer. I was seated next to Coach Woods during his comments. What he did say was "although our seniors this year were not as talented as some we have had in the past, they gave us everything they had and made a very successful season for football." This statement is very true and is not degrading in any way. It is in fact a very nice compliment to these seniors. It is great to see a person giving 100% to their program and that is just what these young men did. Coach Woods did not even hint that these seniors were un-talented. First of all, even if anyone would have thought that, he is certainly not going to get up in front of 300 people and say anything that ridiculous.

The recipients of the awards are not chosen by one coach. Each sport has the coaches involved in that sport vote on who receives an award. The major awards are voted on by all coaches, athletic directors and some administrators. I'm sorry everyone cannot receive an award. Athletes must earn them or they would be meaningless. All one had to do was watch Karen Nelson, who received her award with tears streaming down her cheeks, and others with tears in their eyes, to know this banquet and its awards are worthwhile.

Many people, including myself, Coach Woods and his family, the Bosley family, and the entire sports community as a whole, were deeply hurt and degraded by these asinine letters. If anyone has a problem with a program, why can't they discuss their problem with the people involved? And if you must write a letter to the editor, why can't they have the backbone to sign the letter. These two people obviously did neither.

I would think a public apology to the SGAA, Coach Woods and the Bosley family would be appropriate.

John Hill, President
Southern Garrett
Athletic Association

To the Editor:

On May 25, the SHS sports banquet was held at the school cafetorium. As is the case in all such events, some participants are disappointed, maybe deservedly so in some cases. Being a coach at SHS, I must take exception to the accusations and implications that were written by the disgruntled and very untalented senior.

Football trophies were presented to some of the many deserving players on our team. Three of the seven were not backs; six of the seven do not have the name "Bosley;" none of them played in a conference (playoff?) game this past year; leaving only one other category for those six. I don't feel that any of them kissed . . . and none of them were in pain in it as "Mr. Untalented" was occassionally.

Since Coaches Woods, Gregg and Everd are not related to Bruce and J.R., I take personally what "your name must be 'Bosley' " implies. I challenge any player, past or present, to recall when I have shown favoritism to Ron, Bruce or J.R. To the contrary, I have probably been unfairly critical of them because of their name. It is really ironic that two Coach Bosleys nominated "untalented" for one of the awards, though admittedly it was not for "Mr. Hustle." "Dedication," and most certainly not "Most Coachable."

Concerning "Untalented's" mother, who was so shocked to hear that her son was part of the least talented class (a well-known fact when you realize there were only three of them who had been full-time players as juniors), maybe she has recovered enough to read here what immediately followed. Coach Woods went on to say that "This class reached its potential more than any other through good leadership and hard work." I would take this as the compliment that it was meant to be.

Ideally, I would like to see a lesser emphasis on individual awards in a "TEAM" sport anyway. I will have the utmost respect for the first group of Seniors who come to the coaches before the season begins and say, "We don't want any 'Best' or 'Most' trophies this year. But if our 'TEAM' is good enough to win a state championship, honor us all with a team award."

Signed:
Coach Dave Bosley

Dear Mr. Bosley:

We also checked into what Coach Woods stated at the banquet and discovered that the accusation leveled in those letters last week were totally unfounded. We regret that we did not do this before the letters were published. It was an oversight on our part and, although there was no apology sought by Coach Woods, we nonetheless extend one to him. If we had the opportunity to do it over again those letters would not have been published in the first place. (See New Letter Policy).

We sincerely appreciate your letter.

Editor

To the Editor:

I'd like to address the "interested" persons in Brandy's case. True, it is apparent that a crime was committed—a grotesque and demented mutilation.

Everyone wants to put the blame somewhere other than where it belongs. The Department of Social Services and the Sheriff's Department have competent personnel. They are well trained and utilize this training. Preventative measures cannot be taken unless the public makes them aware of the situation AND gets involved. It stands to reason that the authorities would respond and investigate any report of abuse. That's a part of their job.

How many of you "interested, concerned" citizens bothered to give your names and volunteer statements before Brandy's unconsciousness? If residents of the Bloomington area felt the case wasn't being investigated enough, why didn't they do something other than pass the buck?

A March for Justice is commendable, but who are you really doing it for? Do you enjoy the "Good Samaritan" publicity now that it's too late?

Any death is tragic. In Brandy's case, it was an uncaring death. What kind of mother would let a man (any man) bruise and damage her child? Is maternal instinct innate?

Sarver and White apparently need help. Let's try treating to prevent the illness of society rather than condemning those who did their jobs.

It's too late for Brandy, but she's done us a great favor. She has opened our eyes to see that even our lovely Garrett County is plagued with psychotic and abusive illness. May the gates of Heaven open wide for you Brandy and let us hear the angels sing! Your painful journey is over, Little One.

We are disappointed about our picnic tables. Someone stole them last night. I wish those people would give them back. We got them from the Lion Club. I hope if you find them you put them in jail. I hope they feel sad about them. They were very special to us. Would you put this in the newspaper? I hope they don't steal anything of ours again.

Our Turn

New Press Stress
by Pam Ashby

Everyone knows by now what a fan I am of those life-saving self-help books. With the Sincell Publishing Company's recent purchase of an offset press, I feel yet another self-help book is in order and should be titled, "New Press Stress - Or How To Avoid Throwing Large Objects at Your Co-Workers."

Although the new press arrived several weeks ago, the stress began even before that with the dismantling of the old cast iron letter press, which is estimated to have weighed between 15-20 tons.

All the men, one brave lady and a few volunteers spent about nine hours of their "spare" time one evening devising methods of hauling "Old Faithful" into the parking lot. Now how difficult can it be to move a piece of machinery 25 to 30 feet? Ha! You weren't here!

We're talking major stress when five or six normally intelligent men can't decide the best way to get tons of iron on rollers to "easily" move that mass. I don't want to say tempers flared . . . so I just won't say it.

"Old Faithful" is still out back in the parking lot, right where it crushed the metal rollers on which it was resting to thin strips of foil.

Enter "New Faithful." It's a wondrous piece of complicated equipment. After a week of trial and error "runs" and the usage of tons of newsprint, The Republican goes out—a bit late—but it does go out.

Let's talk about mass confusion and stress. Prior to "New Faithful's" arrival, we all had our assigned jobs on press day and we did them quite well, thank you. Some ran the press; one gathered papers in neat little bundles off the press; others jogged and stacked the papers; a few addressed the papers; some carried papers. There was a place for everyone and everyone had his place.

All of a sudden everyone had a new job or a variation of their old one. Comments like, "But I always did it this way," or "You can't do that to this," or "Put down that wrench before you hurt someone . . . wait . . . let's talk this over!" were heard throughout the press room. That's tension.

But hey, we got The Republican out that first week and it looked a little better the second week and we're hoping it will be even better this week.

Thank heavens the editor ran a pre-apology that first week for any irregularities. Hopefully most of our readers are bearing with us.

Be kind to us now. We've been through a lot and we're a bundle of nerves. In a few weeks you can go back to telling us how to do our jobs and complaining about "all the mistakes." Thank you. We appreciate it.

Dear Editor,

Kitzmiller Lions Club made picnic tables special for us to eat on. We are very disappointed that someone stole them. We wish they would give them back to us and get put in jail. We used them a lot. I am in third grade.

Dear Editor,

We are all disappointed about our picnic tables being stolen. We used the picnic tables to eat off of. Mrs. McCartney is in the dumps about the whole thing. The picnic tables were special to us. They came from the Kitzmiller Lions Club. We wish we had them back. It makes me want to cry.

Love,

To the Editor:

I was amused to read your insert on the front page of the May 22nd edition of The Republican. In this you asked your readers and advertisers to bear with you through the "difficult transition" to your new offset press "and exhibit patience and understanding," etc., etc.

Do you think because your investment is involved, your action might stem from a touch of "self-interest?"

Sincerely,
H.H. Bailie

Dear Mr. Bailie:

If you have time, please write again and explain what the above letter means. Not one of us here at The Republican understands what point you are trying to make. Is this a trick question perhaps??

Editor

To the Editor:

The Thursday, May 22 edition of your paper is my first issue of a one year subscription.

You say some of the type and photos may be messy. If this issue is messy, keep on messing it up.

Excellent.

ject of a specific child abuse complaint, and she was not found to be in any danger on any of the visits. He also said police and social workers did not receive the calls neighbors say they made after May 6.

Sheriff Evans said, "If I thought that any of my officers were not doing their jobs, then they wouldn't be working here anymore."

Evans said a continuing investigation of the family was opened up when a bruise on Brandy's brother, Delbert, was allegedly found to be the result of a blow by Sarver.

Garrett County state's attorney James L. Sherbin said he will pursue any unanswered questions about prior contacts with social service and police agencies, and said he wants to know whether these agencies should have been monitoring the family more closely. However, Sherbin said he was not "pointing fingers" at local agencies, but was searching for any problems.

Sherbin said he is awaiting autopsy results from the State Medical Examiner's office, and would recall the grand jury as soon as the results were received. Facts and information will then be presented to the jury to decide whether or not to indict or what the charges will be. Sherbin said he will seek homicide charges against the pair.

Born August 22, 1981, Brandy Lynn White was the daughter of Richard White, Cumberland, and Donna (Shaw) White.

Besides her parents, she is survived by two half-brothers, Delbert White and Richard Allan White Jr.; one half sister, Amber Sarver; paternal grandparents, John R. White Jr. and Dorothy (Wolfe) White, Cumberland; and maternal grandmother, Mrs. Delphia Shaw, Keyser, W.Va.

Friends were received at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, where a service was conducted Tuesday by the Rev. Dallas Bunch. Interment was in the Bloomington Cemetery, Bloomington.

All three commissioners said they foresaw a drop in the county tax rate. "It is potentially achievable," said Commissioner Groves.

Commissiosner Braskey said this year's budget has been a "real challenge" and cited federal and state revenue sharing cuts as part of the challenge since it would mean a significant loss of funds for capital projects used especially in the past by the Roads Department and the Board of Education - the two highest funded departments within the county budget.

The commissioners said they had been able to achieve some cost efficiencies in the roads department, for which they govern the budget totally. "But we're coming to a point where those cost efficiencies are nearly maximized," said Commissioner Gregg.

Although the final budget is not required by state law to be completed until the end of June, the commissoners feel confident that their own deadline goal of June 17 will be met.

Gregg Appointed

Commissioner Ernest Gregg was notified last week that he had been appointed by Governor Harry Hughes to serve a two-year term on the newly formed State Advisory Council on Nutrition.

In a May 15 letter to Gregg, the Governor stated, "Over the last several years it has become apparent that as a State we can take a more active role in the promotion and enhancement of proper nutrition in Maryland. It is estimated that as much as one-third of health care expenditures can be attributed to inadequate nutrition."

The Governor continued, "I have, therefore, created by Executive Order the Governor's Cabinet Council on the Coordination of Food and Nutrition Services and the State Advisory Council on Nutrition. I am pleased you have agreed to serve."

The Governor informed Gregg that he would be notified shortly to schedule the time and place for the first meeting.

James Sisler's Organs Donated; Benefit Slated

"The lives he brightened, the help he gave and the happiness he brought cannot be measured . . .," were the sentiments of a friend of James A. Sisler. Sisler died on May 17 as a result of internal head injuries sustained in a three-wheeler accident which occurred on May 10 at the Big Bear Camping Grounds in West Virginia. Three of his vital organs have been transplanted and reportedly, those receiving the organs are all recovering well.

A 59-year-old man in Indiana received the heart, while one of the kidneys went to a patient in Georgia and the other to a Western Pennsylvania patient.

Transplants teams from across the United States came to West Virginia University Medical Center in Morgantown on May 17 to remove the organs for transplant.

Benefit Slated

A benefit race to defray medical expenses while Sisler was hospitalized will be held June 29 at Dream Mountain Raceway, Friendsville, owned by Ross Savage. Persons wishing to enter the race or businesses wishing to donate for the race may contact Jeff Bernard at 387-5466.

The White House wedding of President Grover Cleveland and Frances Folsom.

Pres. Cleveland Wed 100 Years Ago

by Mary I. Love

On June 2, 1886, President Grover Cleveland, age 49, married his former ward, Frances Folsom, age 21, at The White House.

On June 2, 1986, The Washington Post reported the centennial of the event with a photograph and about one fourth inches of text, much of it covering its own original coverage.

As the presidential honeymoon was spent at a place described by the Post as being "in nearby Deer Park, Md.," it is fitting that we, too, take note of the anniversary, including covering The Republican's coverage.

The first local mention was on June 5, 1886, with an un-captioned paragraph on the editorial page: "President Cleveland was quietly married at The White House Wednesday evening to Miss Frankie Folsom. They arrived at Deer Park by train Thursday morning."

The following week, June 12, The Republican had more to say, editorially and in the local news columns from Deer Park, Mtn. Lake Park, and Oakland. It reported briefly on two drives the couple took to Oakland, going by way of Mtn. Lake Park and returning by Broad Ford Road. It also noted that they went fishing at Mr. DeLawder's cottage at the head of Deep Creek, and went to divine service in Oakland Sunday. The paper gave a six or eight-inch summary of the sermon.

Extensive coverage was also given to the "abominable reports sent to the city papers by the hordes of correspondents who used every opportunity to belittle the country and the people," characterizing the latter as "ignorant and half-civilized." The local writer added his own concern that such irresponsible reporting would destroy people's faith in newspapers.

The Clevelands returned to Washington Tuesday, having made a more favorable impression on the people of Garrett County than did the press. From the Post's current article on its previous articles, it appears that the Clevelands were accepted much less matter-of-factly in Washington than here.

One episode of the Cleveland visit seems to have escaped public attention entirely. One day when the Clevelands were out riding a thunder storm came up. They and their two servants sought refuge in a farm home. The children in the home were shy, and huddled in the corner, rubbing bare feet on bare ankles, but the mother made tea for the visitors, who "talked just like anybody." Several days later the Clevelands sent the family a thank-you note and a picture.

It takes a century for some news to get around.

JUST 100 YEARS AGO, PRESIDENT CLEVELAND and his new bride spent their honeymoon in this Deer Park cottage now owned by John and Luanna Toston. To celebrate that anniversary, the Tostons held an open house on Sunday, June 1. Tours were conducted through the cottage which has been completely modernized but still holds many reminders of the Cleveland era, such as the stained-glass windows, the ceiling to floor circular windows, and the circular chimney. Performing at the celebration were The Garrett Highlanders. Organized in 1980, the group meets at St. John's Episcopal Church and their contact person is Rev. John Grant. Garrett Highlanders pictured below, left to right, are: John Wolfe; John Grant; Paul Browning; Barbara Browning, the youngest member and only female in the group who has been playing four years; Jack Beard; and Jerry Browning. Not pictured are Pipe Major Fred Thayer and Chip Evans.

Long Family Returns From Boiswana

The Rev. David Long, his wife, Ginny, and their three children are returning to Garrett County this Sunday in search of support for future ministry endeavors. Rev. Long is a former pastor at the Deep Creek Lake Baptist Church, where he and his wife will be speaking to the congregation about their future ministry in Boiswana on the continent of Africa.

They will be speaking during Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and during the worship hour at 11 a.m. at the Deep Creek Lake Baptist Church, according to the Rev. Donald M. Wilson, pastor at that church.

Rev. Long is a graduate of Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, Ill. He also earned a bachelor of arts degree in literature from Wheaton College and has a masters of divinity degree from Trinity Evangelical Divinity School. He is the son of a pastor.

His wife is a third generation missionary. Her ancestry includes Christian statesmen such as David Livingstone and Jonathan Edwards.

The Deep Creek Baptist Church is located on U.S. Route 219 at Deep Creek Lake about 10 miles north of Oakland.

Pastor Wilson extends an invitation to all who knew the Longs to "come say hello and farewell." There will be a special opportunity to give financially to the Longs to aid them in reaching their mission field destination.

Law Enforcement Torch Run Slated

A Special Olympics fund-raising effort is being started by Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, and local law enforcement organizations, Oakland Police Department, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service.

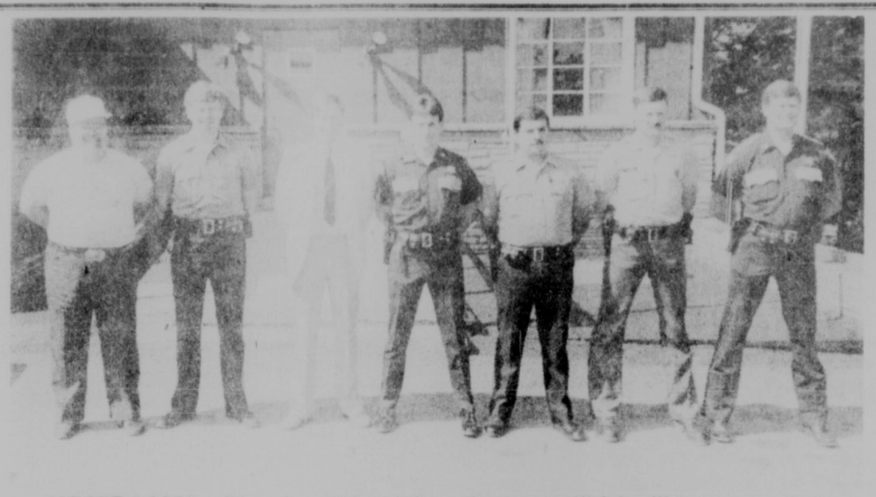
This effort, initiated by the Maryland State Special Olympic Committee, is called "Adopt-A-Cop" and more than 700 law enforcement officers, starting from points in Ocean City, Garrett County and Prince Georges County, will log over 600 miles in a relay run, launching the 1986 Maryland Special Olympic Games as they "carry the Olympic Torch."

The objective of the "Adopt A Cop" torch run program is to provide funding for the State Special Olympic Games to be held in Towson on June 13-14. The effort will be supported by donations from organizations, businesses and private citizens in support of each officer carrying the Special Olympic Torch. The torch run will begin in Garrett County at the West Virginia state line on Route 48 and continue on to Grantsville where the Maryland State Police will take over.

The routes will converge at the Baltimore County Courthouse in Towson on Friday, June 13, where elected officials and other dignitaries will participate in ceremonies to "retire the torch" on the courthouse steps. On Saturday, June 14, a single torch will be re-lit and carried to Towson State University to officially open the Maryland Special Olympics 1986 Summer Games.

This year for the first time 26 of Garrett County's own Special Olympic athletes will be competing in the state games.

Anyone interested in "adopting a cop" by pledging a donation may call Ron Friend at 387-9171, Chief John Sines, Oakland P.D. at 334-2100, or Detective Rick Kutchman at 334-1911.



"ADOPT A COP" — These Garrett County law enforcement officials will be carrying the torch in a fund-raising effort for the Maryland Special Olympics which will be held in Towson on June 13 and 14. To "Adopt A Cop," call 387-9171, 334-2100, or 334-1911. Participants, pictured left to right, are: Ron Friend, Special Olympics Committee chairman, American Legion Post 71; Oakland Police Chief John K. Sines, coordinator Special Olympics Torch Run; Detective Rick A. Kutchman, Special Olympics Torch Run coordinator, Garrett Co. Sheriff's Department; David M. Stoner, Special Olympic Torch Runner, Sheriff's Department; Randy L. Sines, Special Olympic Torch Runner, Oakland Police Department; Richard R. Lewis, Special Olympic Torch Runner, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service; and David Crossland, Special Olympic Torch Runner, Sheriff's Department. Runners not pictured include Steve Hamilton, Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service; and Bill Thomas, Garrett Co. Sheriff's Department.

Oakland Splits With Elkins In Pen Mar Action

Oakland upped their record to 3-0 in Pen Mar Baseball League action on Sunday by taking host Elkins in the opener of a doubleheader, 13-7; however the Oaks' undefeated streak was quickly ended in the nightcap when the West Virginians won a slug-fest, 18-10.

Stanley Fitzwater started on the mound for Oakland in the first game, but injured his elbow in the second inning and had to give way to Mike Gustave. Steve Mohr tossed the final two innings, earning a save, while Gustave was credited with the win.

Oakland's offensive attack was led by Lawrence Nesselrodt, who scored four runs and hit a pair of doubles, while Francis Mouse and Gustave each finished with two hits, including two-run homers. Wayne Brown also homered for Oakland.

Elkins' Ross Tug rapped a grand slam homer in the fifth to cut Oakland's lead to 8-7, but the host team never again threatened.

Another Oakland pitcher was injured in the second game, as Dave Schallmo had to leave the field with a hurt shoulder. He and Fitzwater may be lost for the season, according to a team spokesman.

In that contest, Mike Karla tripled and homered for Elkins, Bucky Cecil added three singles, and Kent Freeman hit two singles. Mike Ross gained the win over Steve Mohr.

Oakland will host LaVale in a 2 p.m. doubleheader on Sunday at the Garrett Community College field, McHenry.

Rams Defeated By North East In Quest For State Championship

"The toughest team I've seen in seven years," is how Southern High School Baseball Coach Jim Bosley described the squad from North East High School of Cecil County after the Indians coasted to an 11-0 win over the Rams in the Maryland Class B Semifinals Saturday afternoon.

The Rams, who had been hitting the cover off the ball for several weeks, managed to connect for only five safeties against the Indians' Ken Sutton, who went the distance. Jon Reneslacis, who came into the game with a 9-0 record on the mound for Southern, gave up four hits and three runs in the third inning and one in the fourth and fifth before yielding to Phil Spaulding.

According to Bosley, part of the problem for Reneslacis was the fact that the game was delayed for one hour and forty minutes because the three umpires assigned to the contest became tied up in traffic after a major accident on the Capital Beltway.

"Both pitchers had to warm up at least four times," Bosley said, "and I think it really hurt Jon's effectiveness on the mound. He must have thrown 200 balls before the game even started."

Tournament director Jim Harne finally secured the services of three other officials from Frederick and Washington counties so the game could proceed.

The extra warming-up apparently did not faze Sutton, who is now 10-0 on the season and headed for North Carolina Wesleyan on a baseball scholarship. The Indians' other pitching ace, Ken Lowdermilk, holds a 9-0 mark, which accounts for their 19-0 season record.

"Sutton is definitely the best pitcher we have faced all season," Bosley said.

Sutton aided his own cause by leading off with a single in the third inning. Jody Evans reached on a bunt single, followed by a single by Mike Gomez, which scored Sutton. Chris Diebold then doubled off the centerfield fence to plate Evans and Gomez.

A double by Curtis Hollister in the fourth frame, followed by an RBI single by Dan Hammer added another run.

Diebold accounted for the fifth inning score with an RBI single.

After two outs in the sixth frame, back-to-back singles by Hammer, Evans, Gomez, Tim Preisch, and Diebold, plus a walk to Bob Reynolds and a pinch double by Tom Connell resulted in six final runs by the Indians.

A controversial call by the umpires in the third inning halted the Rams' only real scoring threat of the afternoon. Jeff Sweitzer had singled, moved to second on a sacrifice fly by Scott Lohr, and reached third on a groundout to first base by Chad King.

Donnie Horner then smacked a shot past third that kicked up chalk on the left field foul line, but both the home plate and third base umpires ruled it a foul ball. Bosley's argument to the contrary was to no avail and Horner then struck out.

Although disappointed with the loss, Bosley was quick to point out how pleased he was with the Rams' season, noting that it was the most wins ever recorded in a single season at Southern and that the team won 17 of the last 19 games. "Plus we will have six of nine starters back next season," he said, noting that most expected the Rams to be no better than an average team this season.

It was also the first time Southern ever won a regional title, having made the playoffs in all seven years under Bosley, but never winning a single playoff game until this year. The Rams won the regional title by defeating Woodward High School last Wednesday, 8-1.

North East, the defending state Class B champions, will face Pikesville for the title this Saturday morning. Pikesville earned a spot in the finals by whipping Atholton, 9-3, in the other semifinal game.

"I will be surprised if North East doesn't win the state championship," Bosley said. "I certainly hope they win it."

Bosley noted that a final season wrap-up will appear in next week's issue of The Republican.

Legion Baseball Try-Outs Slated For Saturday

Accident Post 208 American Legion baseball team members of the Mt. District will be holding try-outs this Saturday, June 7, at noon at Southern High School. Any high school baseball player from Northern, Southern, Central Preston and Petersburg who will not be 19 before August 1 may try out.

Post 208 has competed the past two summers in the Mt. District League against Cumberland and Westernport. Frostburg Legion has joined this year, giving the District four teams. The teams will begin play on June 17 and will feature a 24-game schedule, with games being played at 5 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and 2 p.m. Saturday doubleheaders until August 7.The district champions then compete for the state championship in Hagerstown at Municipal Stadium on August 12.

Coach Phil Caruso stated "American Legion baseball is your best high school players, competing against each other. That's why so many college coaches and scouts follow legion ball. It is an honor to play American Legion baseball and some of post 208's players have traveled 100 miles round trip to play a game of Legion ball." Most major league players have played American Legion baseball, Caruso added.

There is currently no financial support for American Legion baseball in Garrett County, so the team must rely on fund-raising efforts to play. Players and coaches will be seeking renewals on sponsor ads and sponsor a camp, as well as seek donations to meet 1986 season cost.

"Two of our high schools, Petersburg and Southern, reached state semi-final play in their respective state high school play-offs and I believe legion ball has helped those players who competed from those schools became better players. We hope we can continue this outstanding youth program in Garrett County," he said.

Those interested in making a donation or sponsoring a player with an advertisement should contact Caruso at 334-9136.

A HAPPY OWNER, A HAPPY HORSE —Dexters Story (Dexter) and his new owner, Rebecca DeWitt, are spending a lot of time together and getting to know each other well. Rebecca won Dexter in a county-wide 4-H contest involving 14 other 4-H'ers. After attending all the workshops and training sessions and receiving the highest overall score on an essay and an interview, Rebecca hauled her prize home 10 days ago. Her whole family loves Dexter, who was donated to the 4-H program by Diamond D Quarter Horse Farm. They are in the process of fencing a pasture for the yearling colt, and keep busy doing all the other chores that being a horse owner involves. Rebecca and her brother, Tim, feed and groom Dexter each morning before school. Tim says he has always hated to get up in the morning, but now that they have Dexter to care for he doesn't mind at all. Rebecca is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin H. DeWitt of Kitzmiller and is a member of the Saddle Tramps 4-H Club.

Dairy Judging Workshop Slated

A dairy judging workshop for all Garrett County 4-H and FFA members will be held June 9 and 10.

Lee Majeskie, dairy specialist from the University of Maryland, will be in charge of the workshop. This workshop will begin with a review of the basics and the complete details of dairy judging at a 7:30 p.m. session on June 9 at the Oren Bender farm in The Cove.

On June 10, the group will visit three farms and judge two classes of dairy cattle on each of the farms.

All Garrett County youth are welcome. For more information or directions, call 826-8340, or the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

Farming In Maryland.....

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Dairy Specialist Notes Long-Term Changes In Production Per Cow

According to University of Maryland Dairy Specialist Dr. John W. Wysong, there has been a major upward shift in average levels of milk and fat produced per cow annually in all states, regions and for the nation as a whole since 1940.

He explains that the rise in average production per cow in the U.S. was offset by a declining number of milk cows from 1945 until 1975. Since that time, said Wysong, dairy farm numbers have declined, but dairy cow numbers stabilized near the 11 million head level.

For comparative purposes, California cows averaged 15,147 pounds of milk and 547 pounds of fat in 1980 and 16,667 pounds of milk in 1985 to rank near the top with the state of Washington in U.S. per cow milk production efficiency. One of the lowest states was Mississippi with an average of 8,337 pounds of milk and 306 pounds of fat per cow in 1980 and 10,011 pounds of milk in 1985.

Maryland and Pennsylvania cow efficiency, in terms of annual milk and fat poundage produced per milk cow, have surpassed the levels attained by dairymen in both New England and New York as well as the U.S. during the 1970's and 1980's. The new record Maryland levels in milk fat and nonfat solids per cow have resulted from many long-term and short-term factors such as improved genetics for milk solids production, more and better feeds fed in nutritionally balanced rations and better herd and cow management practices. Maryland averages 13,675 pounds of milk and Pennsylvania had 13,491 pounds of milk per cow.

Wysong explains that record levels of total milk output in 1985 for both the U.S. and Maryland have resulted primarily from higher milk production per cow even though milk cow numbers were up slightly to 123,000 head in Maryland and 11.025 million head in the U.S. As recently as 1975, U.S. production of 115.4 billion pounds of milk was produced from 11.139 million head of milk cows which averaged 10,360 pounds of milk per cow annually.

Pennsylvania has increased milk cow numbers as well as attained higher milk sold per cow in recent years which has resulted in major increases in total milk production to nearly 10.0 billion pounds in 1985 in Pennsylvania and in Federal Order No. 4 a total 6.2 billion pounds.

In 1950, approximately one ton of grain per cow was fed in the northeast compared with an estimate of nearly three tons per cow in 1985-86, a period of lower feed prices. The improved feed inputs including higher quality and larger quantity of silage types of forage consumed per cow combined with the greatly increased concentrate feeds fed (several times daily) have been major factors underlying the increased milk sold per cow.

Other factors include better skills and technical know-how of dairy farm managers, employees, and improved genetic capacity of the modern dairy cow herd. The average level of milk produced and sold over the next decade is projected to expand nearly 200 pounds per cow per year as lower producing cows are culled from commercial herds and farm operators apply more consistently the technology that is already known. Wysong stated that newer innovations such as the much discussed bovine growth hormone technologies could raise milk production levels per cow and per herd at a faster rate if commercial milk market conditions should warrant it.

DHIA Has Long Served Dairymen

The development of the Babcock butterfat test in the early 1890's was the beginning of what's now known as the Dairy Herd Improvement Association or DHIA.

The first on-farm testing was done at the Illinois Experiment Station in 1901. A few years later, in 1906, the first cow testing association was formed in Michigan.

It took some time for dairymen to accept the idea of cow testing, with young or new dairy farmers being quicker to use testing programs than the well-established dairymen of the day.

In its early years, one major problem with cow testing was that it varied from local association to association. Some questioned the validity of or the ability to compare records from other states.

So in 1925 the American Dairy Science Association recommended "uniform rules and methods for the conduct of the cow testing associations operating in the several states."

That same association suggested that the name "cow testing association" be changed to "Dairy Herd Improvement Association" in 1927. At that time there were 837 associations, 21,128 members and 362,014 cows on test. That number represented only 1.6 percent of all milk cows in the United States.

Cream Is Popular With Consumers

The Knight-Ridder News Service reported recently that cream—old-fashioned, ever-fattening cream— is one dairy product in great demand these days.

The article, which appeared in the "Baltimore Sun" said that even though studies show Americans are dieting more than ever, they also have gone on somewhat of a cream binge in the 1980's.

"Demand (for cream) has skyrocketed," said Steve Taylor of Larcher Food Market, a Wichita, Kan., supermarket that specializes in gourmet foods. The store sells four or five cases of cream a week, compared with only two cases a week two years ago, he said. A case is 12 pint cartons.

National figures reflect Taylor's assessment. Americans consumed 1.5 billion pounds of cream in 1984, or nearly 21 percent more than in 1980, according to the Agriculture Department's statistics. The department's preliminary 1985 figures show that demand was even stronger last year.

The department's analysis breaks down cream demand into the four categories—table cream, half-and-half, whipping cream, and sour cream. And the figures show that the demand for each is rising.

This increase in demand does not mean that cream is about to overtake milk or cheese, said Jim Miller, an economist with the Agriculture Department. Cream made up only two percent of the 131 billion pounds of dairy products Americans consumed in 1985, so cream is a minor product by any measure, he said.

The nation's new love affair with cream seems to have the experts baffled.

"It was really a dying product," said Miller, who tracks dairy product demand for the department's Economic Research Service. During the 1960's and the 1970's, non-dairy substitutes tempted Americans away from cream.

The only bright spot was demand for sour cream, which was boosted by the nation's appetite for Mexican food, he said.

And the surge can't be attributed to an advertising blitz. "We wish we could take the credit, but we can't," said George DeJager of the Dairy Board.

So the experts are left to hypothesize.

Kathryn McHugh, the staff economist at the Dairy Board, has a theory. "We think that consumers are working on a reward system," she said.

There's no question that Americans are dieting, she said. "But after they've done really well on their diets, they reward themselves with an ice cream sundae with whipped cream on top or they go out and have a cup of coffee with real cream."

Others, including Miller at the USDA, think the gourmet cooking boom is behind the rise in cream demand.

The economist said that new technology might be a factor in cream demand. Dairy companies began to use a high temperature pasteurization process on cream about 10 years ago to significantly increase the product's shelf life. That has made consumers feel safer about buying cream, he said.

The article reported that in 1986 alone, farmers will spend $23 million through the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board for cheese advertisements. The board also plans to spend $16 million this year to promote milk and $5 million on a summer ice cream campaign.

Correction Noted

In the farm section of the May 29 issue of The Republican, it was incorrectly reported in the article about Secretary Wayne Cawley's visit to Garrett County that a three-acre pond belonging to Harvey Brothers was cost-shared. That pond is not a cost-shared project, and we regret the error.

Dairy Data

June is Dairy Month and it is a great time to lend your support to the local dairy farmers. Your support would be appreciated the most by purchasing dairy foods and including them in your daily diet.

Milk and other dairy products have so much to offer to every person, old or young alike. The great nutritious content is also comparable to the great taste of dairy products. Whether it be in salads containing cheese, yogurt and fruit, or sour cream with potatoes; each product has a distinctly delicious flavor of its own.

With so many varieties of dairy products to choose from, one can easily fulfill the Recommended Daily Allowance (RDA) of milk in their daily diet. Fulfilling this RDA is very important to each age bracket. As a child, milk is an aid in building healthy bones and teeth; whereas, adults need milk to maintain their healthy bones and teeth.

All in all, milk is great food! Each product is nutritiously filled and contains a great taste. It is also important to watch for the REAL seal when purchasing dairy products. The REAL seal is a stylized drop of milk with the work "REAL" written inside. This seal assures you of a real dairy product made from milk and not anything imitation. So remember, when you are looking for a great tasting, and nutritious snack—look for the REAL seal and "Make it Milk!"

It's Dairy Month, So Toast Your Health With Milk

by Monica Olsen
Dairy Council Media Coordinator

June is Dairy Month—a good time to toast to your health with the nutrients found in milk and milk products. These nutrient-rich foods provide about 74 percent of the calcium, 21 percent of the protein, 37 percent of the riboflavin, and several other vitamins and minerals available for consumption in our national food supply. All this while contributing only 10 percent of the calories.

New research studies point out just how important the major nutrients found in dairy products are to one's health. Evidence is gathering that calcium plays a role in reducing blood pressure in some people. David McCarron, M.D., with Oregon Health Sciences University, reported in one study that extra calcium lowered blood pressure in 44 percent of patients with high blood pressure, or hypertension. Subjects with normal blood pressure also showed marked decreases when taking extra calcium. Additionally, several studies have shown an association between low calcium consumption in the diet and high blood pressure.

New research also suggests that extra calcium in the diet may protect expectant mothers from a potentially fatal condition called eclampsia. Eclampsia is a condition of pregnancy characterized by high blood pressure, protein in the urine and convulsions.

Jose Villar, M.D., from The Johns Hopkins University, gathered data on pregnant women in Colombia and Guatamala. Pregnant Colombian women have a high rate of eclampsia while expectant mothers in Guatamala only rarely develop the condition.

Villar noted that the outstanding difference in lifestyle between, the two groups was in calcium intake. Guatamalan women consumed higher levels of calcium while all other nutritional aspects were similar.

Although the brittle bone disease, osteoporosis, has been around for a long time, it's only in recent years that it has received the attention it deserves. Calcium figures prominently in the prevention and treatment of osteroporosis as 99 percent of the body's calcium is stored in the bones. Without calcium, the bones wouldn't be hard and strong.

Assuring an adequate calcium intake throughout life is one important way in which osteoporosis may be prevented. Most women, however, don't meet the current Recommended Dietary Allowance for calcium of 800 mg daily. The federal government's U.S. Health and Nutrition Examination Survey (NHANES II) indicates that this calcium deficit starts as early as age 11 for females.

A recent National Institutes of Health panel suggested that the daily calcium intake be increased to 1,000 mg. for premenopausal women and 1,500 mg for postmenopausal women. The panel also suggested that an increase in calcium intake might help to prevent the bone loss that men experience, too.

A single eight-ounce serving of milk contains about 300 mg of calcium. A cup of yogurt or ounce and one-half of most cheeses is roughly equivalent in calicum content. Other dietary sources of calcium are sardines or salmon with bones, and certain leafy, green vegetables such as kale and broccoli.

Calcium reduced the risk of colon cancer in humans genetically predisposed to the disease in a recent Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center study. After only two or three months, 1,250 mg of calcium per day slowed colon cell growth in ten subjects known to be at high risk from colon cancer.

In past animal studies, researchers found calcium inhibited the formation of toxic substances in the colon. With the substances unable to circulate, the chance of colon cancer in rodents, for example, lessened.

Research conducted at Cornell University has found that active women need twice as much riboflavin, also called vitamin B_2, than is currently recommended. Cells require riboflavin to burn calories efficiently. Researcher Daphne Roe, M.D., noted further in this study that healthy young women need more riboflavin even if they don't exercise.

Milk and milk products constitute one of the four food groups. Foods in the meat, fruit-vegetable, and grain groups are also needed on a daily basis in order to provide the 50 or so nutrients known to be needed for good health.

Dairy Month Ads Show Support

Area dairy farmers and businesses are showing their support of the dairy industry and the way of life it represents by buying an ad, like those at the right of this page, for the special price of $5.

This ad campaign is the "brain child" and project of Maryland Dairy Princess, and Garrett County resident, Sheila Bender.

Anyone who would like to show their support in this way during the month of June may call Sheila at 826-8340, or Bernice Kepple at 334-3963.

USDA Announces Final Dairy Regs

Final regulations implementing the dairy assessments mandated by the Food Security Act of 1985 and the Food Security Improvements Act of 1986 have been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. These regulations became effective April 1.

The 1985 act mandated a reduction of 40 cents per hundredweight in the price received by producers for milk produced in the 48 contiguous states and marketed for commercial use during the period of April 1-December 31, 1986. The 1985 act also mandated a reduction of 25 cents per hundredweight in the price received by milk producers during the period of January 1-September 30, 1987.

The 1986 Food Security Improvements Act mandated an additional reduction of 12 cents per hundredweight in the price received by milk producers for milk marketed during the period of April 1-September 30, 1986.

This reduction is in lieu of cuts in Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) purchase prices for milk and milk products, which would have been necessary to comply with the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings mandate.

Generally, persons paying producers for milk will be required to make the reductions and remit the funds represented by the reductions to the CCC. In some instances, however, producers will be required to remit the funds directly to the CCC. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service will administer the program.

The following Dairy Herds were the top 20 Milk Producers in Garrett County on Official DHI Testing as of May 9, 1986:

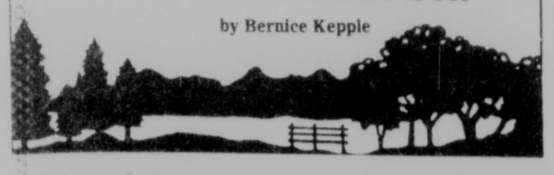
My View

From The Barn Door

by Bernice Kepple



Dairy products are making a comeback! Yes, maybe all the money spent by dairymen on promotion and marketing is beginning to pay off. Our health-conscious society is beginning to see the "light" aspect and the versatility of dairy products. The two-percent milk, yogurt and cheese markets are expanding.

The American Dairy Association, The National Dairy Council, and all their local affiliates are producing advertisements that are catching the eye of consumers and getting results. A syndicated radio commercial tells us that consumers are drinking more milk than the top two soft drinks combined.

At last, major events other than farm shows and state fairs are featuring dairy products. Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium now has a dairy bar. It's a major league baseball first, and hopefully other sports will follow suit.

We have a responsibility to market our own product, to find out why it's not accessible everywhere. Why can't you order chocolate milk for breakfast in fast-food restaurants? Make it a point to ask for it; maybe they'll take a hint. Are school children able to buy all the milk they want for lunch? Mine hate standing in line again just to buy milk which is usually warm anyway. Way back when I was in high school, the school cafeteria had milk machines which worked like soda-pop machines—you put your money in and got a half-pint carton of milk. And it was cold, too.

In one New York state school, local dairy farmers installed and financed a bulk milk machine in the cafeteria. The students were given an eight-ounce serving of white milk in a cup to go along with the eight-ounce carton of milk they paid for. Milk consumption increased considerably, and the results were so gratifying that the community now supports the program in the school through a yearly budget appropriation. Two more machines have been added so that students can get bulk milk, instead of a carton of milk, with their lunch purchase.

It is still up to dairymen and their families, though, to set a good example in their homes and in public by drinking milk and using real dairy products. Farmers who "don't like milk" and "can't afford butter" shouldn't expect the public to buy his product either. Farmers should encourage all organizations (especially farm organization) to serve real dairy products at banquets—no margarine, and no artificial creamer for coffee or tea. And how about serving sour cream on the baked potatoes, and a glass of milk with the meal?

This month, June, marks the 50th annual celebration of Dairy Month, and may it see a change in consumer buying and eating habits that will begin to eliminate the dairy surplus and brighten the future for dairy farmers across the nation.

Md. Loses Fewer Cows To Buyout Than Nat. Average

Maryland's dairy farmers will give up fewer cows and less milk than the national average in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's whole-herd buyout program, a nationwide effort to reduce costly dairy surpluses.

That may be one indicator of Maryland dairy farmers' dependence upon milk production for their livelihoods, according to agricultural economists for the University of Maryland, College Park.

In 1985, Maryland dairy farmers marketed 1.7 billion pounds of milk. Based on the number of contracts accepted from the state's producers by the federal government, that figure should fall by 7.43 percent, or 124 million pounds for 1986, says Dr. John W. Wysong, agricultural economics specialist for the university's Cooperative Extension Service.

USDA has targeted for this year and part of 1987 a national reduction from 1985's production figures of 8.7 percent, or 12.3 billion pounds of milk, Wysong says.

Eventually, USDA expects the program will remove approximately one million cows from milk production.

Of the nation's five major dairy states, only California and Minnesota farmers signed contracts with the federal government to reduce milk production by more than the national target average.

In addition to Maryland, the major producing states of Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania and Vermont will reduce milk production less than the national average.

"California and Minnesota's dairy farmers were probably able to lose more cows and reduce production more than the national average because they are less dependent upon milk production for their livelihoods," Wysong says.

Not only does USDA wish to reduce dairy surpluses, but it wants to reduce the cost to the taxpayer for those surpluses. The federal government currently spends more than $2 billion every year to buy surplus dairy products from the nation's dairy farmers. USDA estimates the buyout program will cost $1.9 billion a year, one-third of which dairy farmers will pay themselves through a production assessment.

Alfalfa Potato Leafhoppers

Alfalfa Potato Leafhoppers have been detected but populations are well below economic levels. These small, wedge-shaped, yellowish-green insects are probably the most destructive pest of alfalfa in Maryland. Research has shown that an initial count of one leafhopper per sweep when alfalfa is four to six inches tall causes a loss of approximately 600 lbs. of hay per acre at harvest 23 days later. The critical period for damage to alfalfa is when the plants are small (less than nine inches).

Sampling alfalfa for potato leafhopper nymphs and adults is the key to managing this insect. The need to treat can be determined prior to the appearance of damage if fields are checked on a regular basis following the cutting. To assess leafhopper populations and the potential for damage, take at least five sets of 20 sweeps with a standard 15 inch sweep net in representative areas of the field. Carefully examine the contents of the sweep net and count the number of adults and nymphs per 100 sweeps.

Control action is recommended if leafhopper counts exceed 20 per 100 sweeps in three or less inch alfalfa, 50 per 100 sweeps in four to six inch alfalfa, 100 per 100 sweeps in seven to 12 inch alfalfa or 150 per 100 sweeps in greater than 12 inch alfalfa. If the alfalfa is less than 60 percent bud and a treatment threshold is exceeded, spray immediately. However, if the alfalfa is over 12 inches and is 60 percent or more in bud, it may be more advantageous to harvest within a week rather than spray. Recommended insecticides include: Sevin 80S (1.25 qt.), Furadan 4F (1 pt.), Lorsban 4E (1 pt.), Cygon 400 (¾ pt.), DeFend or Rebelate (1 pt.), or Penncap-M (1 qt.). Compare costs, follow all label directions, and pay particular attention to restrictions.

Slugs Are In Some Corn Fields

I have had several calls from farmers that have heavy slug populations. If your corn leaves are being stripped and you can't find the insect, chances are you have slugs working at night. The only effective way I know for killing the slugs is the following mixture of bait: 1 lb. of Mesurol 50 percent WP, 100 lbs. of Cracked Corn (fine), and 1 qt. of milk, all mixed together. Apply 20 lbs. of this mixture per acre. This bait will do the job.

If Fall Panicum has [illegible] 80WP applied over[illegible] than 1½ inches tall. [illegible] taller, you may have to increase [illegible] 80WP; 4L is too [illegible] oil with the Blazer.

USDA To Poll Wheat Producers

On June 18, the U.S. [illegible] ment of Agriculture will [illegible] to poll wheat producers [illegible] determine whether they favor [illegible] the imposition of marketing [illegible] limits on wheat production [illegible] USDA official announced this [illegible] week. The poll is required by [illegible] the Food Security Act of 1985.

Each wheat producer will be [illegible] mailed a wheat poll ballot [illegible] June 18. Responses must be [illegible] postmarked by July 7.

Richard W. Goldberg, [illegible] under secretary for [illegible] national affairs and commodity [illegible] programs, said the poll is [illegible] binding upon the Secretary of [illegible] Agriculture and requires [illegible] wheat producers to vote.

Producers will be asked [illegible] they favor imposition of [illegible] tory limits on production [illegible] wheat which will result in [illegible] prices that are not less [illegible] 125 percent of the [illegible] duction.

Not in favor of the poll [illegible] American Farm Bureau [illegible] Federation. Saying that [illegible] though the poll is [illegible] they are not taking a [illegible] feeling that political pressure [illegible] will increase for mandatory [illegible] controls if a majority [illegible] they are a minority of all [illegible] voters, indicates approval.

Electricity Really Brightened The Lives Of Farm Families

Of all the modern-day conveniences taken for granted by farm families, electricity must top the list. Probably the only time we think about it is when the power goes off or the electric bill comes.

Electricity was a "modern-day miracle" in 1910, and much of the early farm electricity came from gas engines or wind-powered generators with batteries to store the energy. Over the years power lines were built in rural areas and farmers slowly began to convert to electricity supplied by power plants.

In the 1930's farmers installed electric power primarily for lights in the home and barn. But it also provided reliable power for milking and guaranteed a sure, steady supply of fresh water for the farm.

Electric lights gave farmers extra hours in the day by giving them light in the barn early in the morning and late at night just by pushing a button or flicking a switch. Other conveniences were soon added like automatic water heaters and electric fans.

By 1933, about 1,000,000 farms across the nation had electricity, either through power companies or individual plants, four times the number in 1923, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Refrigeration came into common use on the farm in the 30's, making the spring house obsolete, and making it possible for the hand-cranked cream separator and butter churn to be powered by electricity.

One of the earliest uses of on-farm electricity was to power milking machines. For years, engineers looked for ways to relieve the daily drudgery and high labor cost of hand milking. Many of the early inventions seem comical and were hard on the cow. But by 1910 the vacuum principle was in use, and it is estimated that there were about 12,000 milking machines being used on the nation's 20 million cows.

As we count the number of electrical appliances used on our farms today, and compare the cost of our electric bills with those from 1930, we might wonder if it's worth the cost; but not many of us would want to do without electricity to find out.

The Gray Lady Of Garrett County

by James N. Guy
HMC/USN/Retired

It is not in a melancholy state that we take a nostalgic trip in time to a bygone era. We pay tribute by being "Gallant" to show splendor while we court a lady who showed great "Gallantry" in not one war, but two. This lady was a United States Naval Ship named for the western-most county in the state of Maryland, USS Garrett County (LST-786).

The USS Garrett County originally displaced 1780 tons, was 328 feet long, had a beam or width of 50 feet, had a draft of 14 feet, one inch, and had a top speed of 11.6 knots. The original armament of the ship had eight 40mm guns and twelve 20mm guns as well as various small arms in the armory such as carbines, 50-caliber machine guns, pistols, etc.

LST-786 was laid down by Dravo Corporation, Neville Island, Pittsburgh, on 21 May 1944; launched 22 July of the same year; sponsored by Mrs. E.B. Keckler; and commissioned on 28 August 1944 with Lieutenant Eli T. Ringler, United States Coast Guard, as her first commanding officer. Remember that during declared war the Coast Guard comes under the Navy Department. In 1944 we were in World War II, thus the LST had a Coast Guard crew.

After shakedown off the coast of Florida, LST-786 departed Mobile, Alabama, on 30 September 1944 and sailed for the Pacific. She loaded cargo and men of the 112th Navy Construction Battalion at Pearl Harbor before arriving at Eniwetok on 28 December 1944. During January 1945, the landing ship (type of ship USS Garrett County was) made another cruise to Pearl Harbor for supplies, returning to the Marshall Islands on 21 February 1945.

With Iwo Jima now in American hands, LST-786 transported a group of seabees to that tiny volcanic island in late March. While at Iwo she embarked 114 prisoners of war for transportation to Guam, arriving on 20 April. Eight days later she sailed with another detachment of seabees bound for the last Japanese barrier — Okinawa. Arriving at Okinawa on May 8, 1945, LST-786 unloaded her cargo off Green Beach under constant threat from enemy air raids; under that same threat, she eventually made sail for the Philippines, leaving Okinawa on 20 May 1945.

For the rest of the war, she shuttled troops and equipment among the islands in the Philippines and to Okinawa, further strengthening the path to Japan. On 4 August 1945 her convoy was attacked by an enemy submarine which was sunk by the Earle V. Johnson (DE-703) after a fierce three-hour duel.

After V-J Day, LST-786 operated in the Far East where she provided transportation services for the occupation troops in Japan, Korea, and Okinawa. The landing ship departed Sasebo, Japan, on 8 December 1945 and arrived in San Francisco on 14 January 1946. Landing Ship Tank (LST-786) was decommissioned at Astoria, Oregon, on 9 July 1946 (less than two years from her launch in Pittsburgh), and was assigned to the Pacific Reserve Fleet. Within that two-year period of service to her country, she made quite a name for herself, but she remained without a true designated name. It was not until 1 July 1955 that LST-786 was given the name "Garrett County."

As the American role in the Far East expanded, there was a need for a special kind of ship to be outfitted with the capacity to repair and to service small fiberglass patrol craft in the Mekong Delta area of South Vietnam. The ships would need a small enough draft to transit the rivers of the inland waterways of the Delta Region of Vietnam, and the LST had such a draft. Garrett County was among the four LST's that were selected; the other three LST's were Jennings County, Hunterdon County, and Harnett County.

To meet their special duty needs, the LST's had to be modified by adding a special boom to the starboard or right side just forward of the superstructure. This accommodated lifting the 31-foot fiberglass River Patrol Boats (PBR) out of the water for necessary repairs if they had been shot or if they were in need of machinery or engine repairs. The hatch that led from the main weather deck to the tank deck had to be enlarged in order to permit the PBR's to be lowered into the tank deck; there special skids or dollies permitted moving them about to various shops in the tank deck area. Just forward of the hatch cover on the main weather deck was a helicopter pad deck to accommodate two UH1B Seawold Helicoper Gunships. These helicopters would be scrambled to give rocket and small arms fire support to the fiberglass PBR's when they were in trouble. Besides the men who it took to run the ship, the need to have enough fresh water, food, laundry machines, etc., both for a helicopter squadron and a river patrol section was important in figuring for modernization. Space also had to be allotted for berthing or living quarters with air conditioning to help beat the heat in the tropical area of Vietnam. The modernization program for the USS Garrett County took place at Todd Shipyard in the San Francisco-Oakland area of California.

The Garrett County, LST-786, was recommissioned officially on 15 October 1966 with Navy Lieutenant James Kuntz as the Commanding Officer and Lieutenant Junior Grade Adrian as the Executive Officer. On her way to Vietnam she carried some River Patrol Boats from the PBR school at Vallejo, Calif., on the skids in the tank deck. She was really ready to live up to her motto, "Toujours-Fidele" (Always Faithful), and to once again pave her way into the history books about the Vietnam conflict, just as she had done during World War II.

U.S.S. Garrett County

It should be noted here that a picture of the LST-786 was taken during shakedown for recommissioning just outside the Golden Gate Bridge, and this picture was utilized when making Christmas cards for the ship in 1967 and 1968.

The first year in Vietnam saw the ship on station on the Basaac River (Song Basaac) during the heaviest monsoon rains imaginable. Hal (3) Detachment Seven was the first detachment of the Helicopter Attack Squadron Light Three that served on the Garrett County. The late President Kennedy aptly described what we faced in Vietnam: ". . . another type of warfare—new origin—war by ambush instead of aggression-seeking victory by eroding and exhausting the enemy instead of engaging him." The primary step in defeating the enemy waging guerrilla warfare was to isolate him by interdicting his supply lines and enforcing strict resources control. Naval forces, such as the Garrett County and the river patrol boats and helicopters assigned to her, played a vital role in the execution of both measures. The rivers of the Delta provided the enemy with fish to eat and with a source for receiving its ammunition and arms from the ships out at sea. The Garrett County, with her mobility to move up and down the rivers as well as to provide a base for PBR's and Helo's, was essential as a deterrent. The forces or components of Commander Task Force 116 (CTF-116), or "Operation Gamewarden" as they were affectionately called, were the forces on the rivers of the Delta region with a mission of denying the enemy the use of vital water routes, not only in the Delta but also in the "I" Corps Tactical Zone of South Vietnam.

While on the Basaac River, the Garrett County provided medical support to an orphanage. Other items were also provided to the orphanage, often at a sacrifice to the members of the crew. Some of the material donated was laundry powder, bath soap, towels, linen, blankets, and the like. A few members of the crew wrote home about what they were doing for the orphanage; churches and other civic groups from their home towns sent baby clothing, disposable diapers, baby lotion, etc. This type of generosity by the crew carried over when the ship moved to the Co Chien River in 1968. In conjunction with the orphanages, the Medical Department's corpsmen also treated hundreds of people in various villages along the Co Chien River on the Medical Civil Action Program (MEDCAP). Under this program, supplies such as clothing, laundry soap, bath soap, diapers, etc. came from the folks back home.

During the Tet Offensive of February 1968, USS Garrett County responded to the area of Vien Long that had become overrun by the enemy. The ship not only had her own complement of PBR's, but also those from the barge at the small Navy Yard in Vien Long. Several casualties were treated by the two hospital corpsmen attached to the Garrett County. Among the casualties were four Catholic nuns, American and Civil Service employees from the US Air Force/Army Airport, and Korean Marines. The two hospital corpsmen and the cooks and messmen worked around the clock in shifts for three days to meet the needs of the people that were evacuated by feeding them and treating their wounds. Each corpsman or medic got about three hours sleep in the three days. The ship also provided fuel, ammo, and other supplies to the many different military units from Vien Long.

From the time the USS Garrett County had arrived in Vietnam, she also helped mend many broken river patrol boats and many broken human bodies. Certainly it was about time that the ship took some time to mend her own maladies, so she set sail for Subic Bay in the Philippines the latter part of April for a three-week upkeep period. During the short time that the ship was in port in the Philippines, a member of the crew took a bride. However, the ship was back on the Sing Co Chien River in Vietnam by 4 June 1968.

A SILVER TRAY, donated by the citizens of Garrett County in 1966, was used for food service aboard the USS Garrett County during its service in the Vietnam War. The tray was recently returned to the Garrett County Historical Museum.

In late summer, while on the Co Chien River, the Garrett County got a new Commanding Officer and a new Executive Officer. Lieutenant Commander William Sheldon became the C.O. and Lieutenant James Driscoll (an ex-Marine) became X.O. Early fall found the Garrett County, while still in the water, being repainted by members of her crew; they were using rollers and standing in the LCVP boats along side the ship. The reason for getting her spruced up was that she was called upon to make a trip to Saigon to act as the ship of honor for the change of command for the Commander Naval Forces of Vietnam (COMNAVFOR/V). Admiral Elmo Zumwalt took over that post on a sunny day in September of 1968 on the main deck of the Garrett County. Other dignitaries present were Ambassador Elsworth Bunker; Generals Abrahams, and Westmoreland; the President and Vice-President of South Vietnam; and the military attaches of Korea, Australia, and Canada. The Viet Cong could have struck a devastating wound to the war if they had shelled the Garrett County on that day as she sat moored to a pier at Saigon.

The writer left the Garrett County on 16 January 1969 while the ship was being overhauled at the AFDM-8 in Apra Harbor, Guam. Walking off the deck for the last time, I felt hurt; the duty time aboard the Garrett County was the best duty of my 23-year stretch of service to my country. I was able to put into practice what I was trained to do—to aid the sick and injured peoples of a war. I have neither forgotten her nor do I ever want to lose sight of her glory.

As the ship was turned over to the Vietnamese Navy in 1971, many artifacts were removed and sent to Washington D.C. I am glad they are being sent to Garrett County after all these years. When Vietnam fell, the ship took refugees to the Philippines and, to the best of my knowledge, the LST-786 was turned over to the Philippine Navy.

I look forward to coming to the Historical Society in Oakland to see and to touch a part of history that I had a share in making. I wish that my feet could roam the decks again so I could shed a tearful bon voyage and farewell to a great lady of the sea. Garrett County, I shall bid fair winds and following seas from a beloved crew member.

Senior Citizen Handbook Ready

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging recently published the "Garrett County Senior Citizen Handbook."

The handbook is complete with information regarding clubs, organizations and service groups which may directly benefit senior citizens. It has been printed in large type so that it is easy to read.

The 20-page free booklet may be obtained at the Area Agency on Aging, 360 West Liberty Street, Oakland, or at any of the Agency senior citizen "Eating Together" meal sites.

Energy Overcharge Board Hears From Nearly 100 Persons

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that 97 individuals and agencies offered suggestions and proposals at nine hearings held throughout the state between April 14 and May 15, to help determine how Maryland should spend its $36.4 million share from settlement of an energy overcharge case brought against Exxon Corporation by the U.S. Department of Energy. "But it's still possible to submit proposals by the June 26 deadline," Goldstein added.

Interested parties may call (301) 269-3131 to receive an information packet to help devise proposals. Twelve copies of each proposal should be mailed or delivered by Thursday, June 26, 1986, to Energy Restitution Trust Fund Board, c/o Comptroller of the Treasury, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

Several senior citizen groups, local school boards, state agencies, church organizations and other public and private organizations testified at the hearings which were held across Maryland.

"We're very pleased that so many people showed up to testify and offer many important suggestions. The variety of proposals will give us important information upon which we can base our final decisions," stated Goldstein, who serves as Chairman of Board of Trustees of the Energy Overcharge Restitution Trust Fund.

The Board must recommend specific uses for Maryland's share of funds received from overcharge cases. Under the terms of the Exxon settlement and federal law, the funds must be spent under one of five federally established, state-level energy programs, including residential weatherization, institutional weatherization, low income energy assistance, state energy conservation or state energy extension services.

The Board will make its recommendations and submit them to the U.S. Department of Energy for final approval.

Jennifer Gaster Selected For Summer Center

Jennifer Maria Gaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Gaster, Swanton, has been selected by the Maryland State Department of Education to attend the Summer Centers Program for gifted and talented students.

Miss Gaster has been accepted to the Center for the Arts which will be held at Goucher College in Towson. She is one of the 10 Maryland students who will be participating in the area of photography during the July 6-19 residential program at Goucher.

She will learn black and white darkroom techniques, go to interesting locations for picture-taking, see demonstrations and participate in discussions on photography as an art form. There will be five hours of class each day.

Miss Gaster's selection was based on a comprehensive application which included a teacher recommendation, an essay and scholastic test scores.

Dennett Road School Honors Parent Volunteers

Dennett Road Elementary School faculty and staff honored their parent volunteers at a luncheon on May 28 at the school. Approximately 40 parents were recognized and awarded certificates.

Jean and Ralph Bee were honored for volunteering over 200 hours this school year, and totaling almost 800 hours in three years. Mr. and Mrs. Bee's daughter, Denise, is now at Southern Middle School, but her parents continue to work at Dennett Road.

Parents honored for working over 100 hours this year were Elizabeth Shiflett, Dorothy Sweitzer, Patti Battista and Donna Durst. Mrs. Charlene Copeland was recognized and commended for having volunteered regularly over a period of about eight years, the longest span of any volunteer.

Coordinator of volunteers, Mrs. Barbara Flinn, commented that the volunteers handled the Reading Is Fundamental book distribution, Play Day, serviced the Health Room, worked in the classroom with students, and many worked at home making educational materials, such as learning games. "They hold a variety of talents," she said.

Mrs. Linda Fleming, grade five teacher, spoke on behalf of the teachers, expressing appreciation for all the many hours of help.

Clark Sharpless, principal, remarked that many who volunteered had not recorded their time, so the total would be more impressive if all had done so. Sharpless expressed his gratitude and appreciation for the volunteers, valuing each as "precious as gold."

Easter's Early Arrival Boosts State Sales Tax

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein says an early Easter season helped boost state sales tax collections during April, 1986, to $97,175,128, a 9% increase over the $89,146,247 collected during April 1985. April sales tax receipts represent retail activity during March.

"The March 30th date for Easter this year meant many more shoppers were looking for Easter bonnets and other spring clothing earlier," Goldstein said. "As a direct result, the apparel category of sales tax collections jumped 22.2% over the same month last year, while the general merchandise category, which includes most department stores, posted an unusually large 11.9% growth."

For the first nine months of fiscal year 1986, sales tax collections total $873,887,596, an 8.2% increase over the $807,835,215 collected during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

"For the current nine month period, the largest amount of sales and use tax revenue was generated by the general merchandise category, a total of $174.1 million," Goldstein said. "The taxable food and beverage category is right behind, generating $173.4 million. The third leading producer of sales tax revenue is the building and contractors category, which has generated $128.8 million for the first nine months of fiscal year 1986," he said.

HOLLYWOOD REPORT

Will Tilton finally do a Southfork shuffle?

By Ian Harmer

HOLLYWOOD — Patrick Duffy's return to "Dallas" last month has helped bring Charlene Tilton's name back into the public mind. What is making her name pop up even more is an extraordinary campaign she has mounted to win the lead role in a TV miniseries which may never be made.

Charlene Tilton

The actress is the first one to point out that Duffy quit the CBS series voluntarily, whereas her character, Lucy Ewing, was written out by the producers. Thus, she doesn't have a grave from which to dramatically rise.

But there is talk that Lucy may return to Southfork to help reinforce the show's old family flavor after a season in which, like a certain soft drink, "Dallas" strayed from its original formula.

There's also speculation that Lucy and her doctor-husband Mitch Cooper (who was played by Leigh McCloskey) will turn up in "Knots Landing," the prime-time soap that was a spin-off of "Dallas" and which now threatens to overtake the show in TV popularity polls.

Tilton recently decided to return to acting after 12 months of being a full-time mother to daughter Cherish, 3. "I've been taking drama classes every week since I left 'Dallas,' because I always intended to get back to work after a year. I want to be the best actress I can be.

"Everything that could possibly happen to a person happened to Lucy Ewing, and that gave me plenty of opportunity to learn new things but," she adds, "you don't have enough time to study your craft when you are in a weekly series."

The actress's most ambitious project has been circulating photos of herself in '40s movie-queen costumes, a subtle hint that she's been picked to play the lead in a TV miniseries based on Lana Turner's autobiography.

CBS had planned to turn Turner's 1982 memoir into a four-hour miniseries, but the project was abandoned because its period setting made it too expensive to shoot.

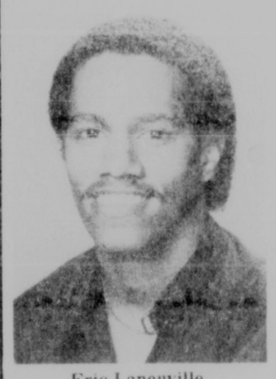
Warner Bros. hopes to revive the project, having spent time and money optioning the Turner book and developing a script, but insists that Tilton was never even considered for the role. The "stills" were shot at her expense, and the studio knows nothing about them.

Still, acting's a competitive business — so maybe a girl can't be blamed for trying extra hard.

Laneuville likes to sit in the director's chair

By Gillian George

Next time you see a rerun of "St. Elsewhere," pay close attention to the directorial credit. Chances are good that the name you'll see in the plum spot is that of Eric Laneuville.



Eric Laneuville

Despite the fact that much of his time is devoted to playing wisecracking St. Eligius orderly Luther Hawkins, Laneuville has already directed nine episodes.

The 33-year-old actor says he had paid his dues before earning his directorial position. "I had done my homework," he explains, "by studying the work of experienced directors on the show. For a solid year, I hung over their shoulders, observed their camera techniques and drove the film editors and producers crazy with all my questions.

"Even so, on my first day of directing, I found that I was frightened to death," he adds. "It wasn't until about the fourth day that I realized two things: how extremely difficult it is and that I really could do it after all."

Although Laneuville has no plans to drop acting entirely, he's now vigorously pursuing his directing career. He recently landed the job of directing "The George McKenna Story," an upcoming CBS movie.

"I can hardly believe it," he says. "It's a huge step in the right direction because I'll have so much control directing the TV movie. With luck, this will lead me to directing motion pictures some day. I'd just love to see two-and-a-half uninterrupted hours of my work, as opposed to seeing an hour chopped up by 12 minutes of commercials."

The slight, baby-faced New Orleans native joined "St. Elsewhere" — supposedly for five or six weeks — on its third episode. But his character was so well received that he became a regular.

Single and the father of a 9-year-old son, Laneuville says the only cloud on his horizon is the diabetic condition that was diagnosed the same week he began directing his first "St. Elsewhere." He says he found it difficult at first to give himself insulin injections twice a day but, like the rest of his life, he now has that strictly under control.

Bill Cosby narrates "The Second Type," a half-hour documentary profiling a group of handicapped people who are striving to lead independent lives. Beth Shapiro, a career counselor at New Jersey's Ramapo College, appears in the special, which airs June 11 on PBS. (Check local listings.)

'Mechanical' movies prove Badham's forte

By Frank Lovece

To pigeonhole director John Badham, you'd need a mechanical pigeon.

John Badham

It's not that Badham prefers being known as the man who almost blew up the world in "WarGames"; who demolished large chunks of real estate in "Blue Thunder," and who brings a robot, No. 5, to life in the recently released "Short Circuit."

"I've tried for years to avoid being typed as a certain kind of director," says Badham. "I didn't want to get locked into doing teen dance movies after directing 'Saturday Night Fever,' so I sort of unwittingly or unwisely found myself doing big technological monsters. So now there's something I can be pigeonholed into! Hooray! I'll have to find a movie to get away from that," he adds with a smile.

Badham does have his druthers. The Yale drama school graduate and former top TV director has made several popular movies, including "Dracula" (1979). But, he says, "After 'WarGames,' I'd done three pictures not only back to back, but overlapping. (My fiancee) Jan and I had the audacity to take time off to get married and see a little of the world."

One result of that well-deserved break was that Badham directed "American Flyers," the 1985 film about another type of technological monsters — bicycles — and "Short Circuit." Since directors like to direct, and residuals aren't everything, the high-tech pigeon-hole would just have to be dealt with.

"If I could have gone to the library and checked out my next movie," the 45-year-old Badham says, "I would have done another type. But good scripts are so hard to find that when you have something as delightful as 'Short Circuit,' you tend to want to do it. Jan and I will read and read and read scripts that people want to make, that they're willing to commit millions of dollars to, and they're just junk, junk, junk. So when something comes along that makes you jump up and down and act silly, you say to yourself, 'I know I shouldn't be doing this, but if I'm just gonna sit here and wait until the perfect non-technological picture comes along, I could really miss it.'"

Mighty Oaks continue to branch out vocally

By Marc Minnelli

They truly are oaks: sturdy, mighty, deeply-rooted and thriving in the country music spotlight. And like their namesake, the Oaks — also referred to as the Oak Ridge Boys — continually branch out. Two singles, "Juliet" and "When You Get to the Heart" (recorded with Barbara Mandrell) are shooting up the charts, their latest MCA album "Seasons" has just been released, and this week, the quartet hosts "The 20th Annual Music City New Country Awards." In the syndicated musical jubilee, airing live from Nashville Monday, June 9, the Oaks will share their on-stage chores with country crooners Reba McEntire, Mel Tillis and Roy Clark.

Duane Allen

"There's no reason we can't be excellent in everything we do," says Oak Duane Allen, who prior to joining the Oaks, worked as a shoe salesman and Texan radio station ad salesman.

"We're not successful simply because we sell records. Every night, in every town, every performance means something special. We have the support of our fans," Allen adds, "and we are expected to give them what they pay for. Leave an audience unsatisifed, and you're dead."

The Oaks have been satisfying audiences since 1942, when they were called the Country Cut-ups, a group known for its southern-fried gospel sound. After the war, the band disbanded, regrouped and adopted the name Oak Ridge Quartet. In 1952, they officially dubbed themselves the Oak Ridge Boys. The current Oaks joined at various times: William Lee Golden in 1964; Allen in 1966; Richard Sterban in 1972; Joe Bonsall in 1973.

But it wasn't until 1977, when they traded gospel for a more pop-country sound, that the Oaks really took root. Since then, they have reaped innumerable awards and accolades, including a Grammy Award for "Elvira."

"The Oaks were innovative with gospel music," says Allen. "Now, we've just gotten progressive. Music is the bottom line, and we feel like we're doing the right thing. If we keep singing the best sounds, then we'll always grow — and have a place in history."

Soap fan finds herself 'Loving' Stephens

By Kimberly Redmond

I think Perry Stephens, the actor who plays Jack Forbes on "Loving," is dreamy. I'd love to know more about him. — P.S., Portland, Maine.

Perry Stephens

Stephens was born in Frankfurt, Germany, and grew up in Decatur, Alabama. He became interested in music while in high school. During the three summers in which he was a student, he worked at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry.

An appearance in Dick Clark's "Opryland: Night of Stars and Future Stars" offered Stephens the opportunity to work with Gene Kelly and Ben Vereen. Soon afterward, he left college to play the lead in a touring company of "Li'l Abner." The actor then headed for New York City, where he auditioned for — and won — the role of Jack Forbes.

Can you tell me if Christopher Templeton, the actress who plays Carol Robbins on "The Young and the Restless" really needs to use the cane that she walks with on the show? — G.F.L., Rogersville, Ala.

The actress must use the cane in real life because of a bout with polio. She also wears a leg brace. Whenever she's not appearing on the soap, Templeton travels around the country fighting for the rights of the handicapped.

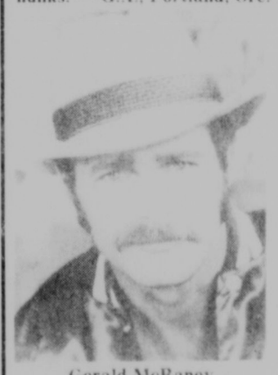
ASK ME ABOUT TV

By Val Carew

Can you please tell me where I can write to Gerald McRaney and Jameson Parker, the two stars of "Simon & Simon"? I love those hunks! — G.A., Portland, Ore.



Gerald McRaney

Write to both stars c/o the series, Universal Studios, Universal City, CA 91608. It may take a while to receive a response since the series is currently on hiatus. In the fall, "Simon & Simon" will air Thursday nights, followed by "Knots Landing" and a new series, "Kay O'Brien, Surgeon."

What's the scoop on Julia Duffy, the actress who plays Stephanie on "Newhart"? We only see her in baggy tops or with props in front of her. — K.M.G., Colorado Springs, Colo.

When "Newhart" returns next season, Duffy will be back to her normal size. She is the proud mother of a newborn baby girl, Kerry. The actress is married to actor-producer-writer Jerry Lacy.

Tammy Wynette is the best country singer in the business. Now that she's on "Capitol," I stay glued to the set every day. How old is she? Is she married? And what is the name of her autobiography? — D.L.R., Yonkers, N.Y.

The country crooner was born Virginia Wynette Pugh on May 5, 1942. She married Nashville producer and songwriter George Richey on July 6, 1978. Wynette's autobiography is called "Stand By Your Man," taken from the title of her smash 1968 hit song. In 1981, the book was made into a TV movie starring Annette O'Toole.

Will Travanti soon be singing the blues?

By Cindy Adams

Daniel J. Travanti may be saying "ta-ta" to the long-running series "Hill Street Blues."

Daniel J. Travanti

"I'm negotiating with MTM, the company that owns the show," he says, "but we don't seem able to get together. The difficulty is what everybody's difficulty is — money. Actually, that's just because I can't get the other things I want. Things the fans want, like better stuff, better scripts, more romances for me, more twinkling, light moments."

When does shooting resume? "This summer," Travanti says. So his problems must be resolved by then? "Could be a few weeks later," he says. "They could shoot around me for a week or so. Actually, they could do anything. They could suspend me from film work for two years."

Travanti has changed agents, and is making the movie, "Adam: His Song Continues," which will be completed by the summer. The actor was in New York City recently for the exhibition of his nephew, sculptor Marc Travanti. He also bought a Manhattan co-op, which is being decorated by Marc.

Doug Henning

Magician Doug Henning has insured his hands with Lloyd's of London for $3 million. That's $300,000 per finger, or about the value of Elizabeth Taylor's digits if she wore all her rings. ... Judy Jacklin, co-author of the recently published "The Mom Book," a how-to-raise-Mother compendium, says her next tome will be on coping with widowhood. Judy's husband was John Belushi.
